'Piracy' Done By Cambodia

Washington (AP)—A Cambodian gunboat fired at and seized on Monday an unarmed U.S. merchant ship which its owners said was carrying military and commercial cargo. President Ford called it "an act of piracy."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, who announced the seizure of the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez, said the failure to release the vessel "would have the most serious consequences." That diplomatic language is used only in situations considered extremely grave and carrying the possibility of military action.

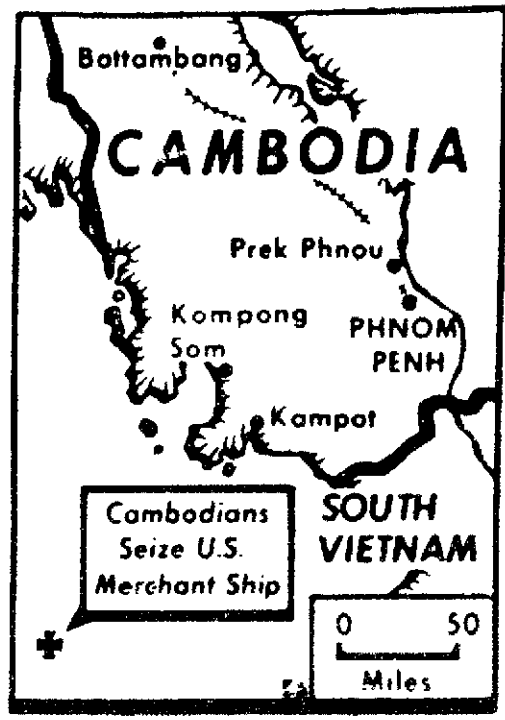

Nessen said the Mayaguez and its crew of 39 were seized 60 miles off the coast of Cambodia, about eight miles from a small rock island apparently claimed by both Cambodia and Vietnam. The owners said it was 85 miles from shore.

Nessen later announced that a Panamanian ship was stopped by Cambodia in the same area May 7 or May 8 but apparently has been allowed to leave and reportedly is en route to Bangkok, Thailand.

The Sea-Land Corp., of Menlo Park, N.J., owner of the Mayaguez, said the company did not know the nature of the military cargo aboard the vessel. "At the most it would just be small arms," said a spokesman. "We're just a container operation so there could be no heavy military equipment."

He said the ship was en route from Hong Kong to Thailand.

President Ford, meanwhile met with the National Security Council to discuss the seizure, and the State Department said diplomatic efforts were under way for the return of the vessel. These efforts were understood to be through third countries since there is no direct link between Washington and Phnom Penh.

2 Injured When Car Jumps Curb, Hits Lamppost

Two Lincoln girls were injured Monday afternoon when their car jumped a curb and struck a lamppost, pinning one of them in the car for about 10 minutes, police said.

The driver, Diane Uttecht, 18, of 2241 N. 78th, was listed in good condition at Bryan

Memorial Hospital Monday night with facial injuries. A passenger, Kimberley Render, 17, of 2415 N. 64th, was also listed in good condition with a broken left leg.

Police said the car was eastbound on O St.

when for "unknown reasons" it drove off the south curb and hit a lamppost at 32nd and O Sts. The Render girl was pinned in the front seat until firemen arrived to pry open the door.

Arts Center Proposal Unveiled

. . . Bicentennial Group Seeks Use Of Old Buildings

Some members of Lincoln's Bicentennial Committee don't know it yet, but a proposal to convert the old Federal Building between 9th and 10th Sts. on P., into a performing arts center was unveiled to the City Council Monday.

The lawmakers called the plan "fantastic" and indicated they may take on the redevelopment as an official bicentennial project.

The Bicentennial Committee, meanwhile, will consider asking the city to take on the project at a meeting Tuesday night, chairman Barbara Henderson said.

The complex would cover the entire block between 9th and 10th, O to P, including the Old City Hall building.

As envisioned by architect Larry Enersen, the mail sorting area in the Federal Building would be razed leaving a "U"-shaped building. The theater, flanked by two balconies and a pitched floor, would sit in that area. The center would span the alley and connect the Federal Building to the Old City Hall.

The first and second floors and basement of the Federal Building would be used for performing arts' activities. The upper two floors would be used for office space and courtrooms.

Under the plan, the Lincoln Foundation would purchase the facility, with financial backing from the University of Nebraska and the city.

Plans to save the two government buildings from the wrecking ball have been in the works for some time.

But the new owners of the block have been reluctant to finalize anything until the company actually receives title to the land.

Title to the Federal Building will be handed over to Mutual Development Corp., headed by businessman John Campbell, when federal offices move out.

Campbell said Monday night he hopes to receive the title by the end of October.

While Campbell said no price has been set on the property,

Lincoln Foundation president John Frey said the asking price is $775,000.

Although the project hasn't been looked at by builders for a cost estimate, Frey said it would probably cost between $3 and $4.50 million to remodel the building.

Frey said the Lincoln Foundation "might be in an ideal situation to serve as owner of the property to receive financial support from various sources." He pointed out that the foundation's board has not yet approved the plan.

Campbell said the new owners want to "help in any way we can to make it possible."

If the project is accepted, Campbell said, "we won't go any farther in discussion with anyone else. We certainly are not going to cause the city to get in a bidding contest."

Mutual Development has been negotiating the sale of the Federal Building with other developers.

The Downtown Advisory Committee, among others, has been lobbying to preserve the block and use the existing buildings.

While no one has yet reached the stage of saying who will pay how much for the redevelopment, NU President D. B. Varner said university officials are willing to "cooperate fully to bring this dream to realization."

Converting the building into a performing arts center would cost roughly half of what it would take to build a new structure. The project also would preserve two landmark buildings, Varner said, and would provide substantial office space.

The university is concerned, however, that a minimum of 2,500 seats be built at the center and that proper acoustical equipment be installed.

"The general feeling is very positive," Varner said.

Pro-Consumer Bill To Face Test

By The Associated Press

The six-year-old proposal to establish an independent consumer agency faces a key test in the Senate on Tuesday and supporters say they are confident of success despite President Ford's opposition.

The question at the center of the controversy is simple: Does the consumer really need another agency to protect him?

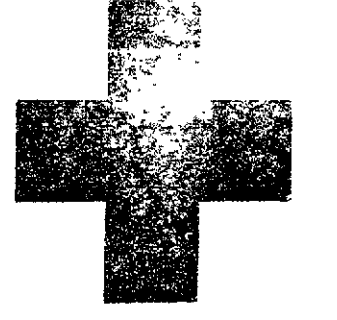

Supporters of the bill say yes. They argue that existing agencies, departments and offices are ineffective and claim that many of them have no real power to act.

Opponents of the measure say no. "I do not believe that we need yet another federal bureaucracy in Washington," Ford said recently, urging that consideration of the bill be delayed.

Legislation to establish an independent consumer agency was first introduced in 1969 and has been resubmitted every year since then. The measure passed the Senate in 1970, but failed to get out of committee in the House. It passed the House in 1972 and 1974, but was defeated in the Senate by a filibuster.

The name of the proposed unit has been changed — from Consumer Protection Agency to Agency for Consumer Advocacy — but the key provisions are the same.

The Tuesday vote will be an another attempt to end a

Race Track Grandstand OK'd

Construction of a $3.9 million grandstand at the State Fairgrounds race track should be underway by Sept. 15.

Gov. J. James Exon Monday approved the State Department of Administrative Services' (DAS) plans for the grandstand.

According to the plan, the bid date will be July 1, and the bonds for the project, totaling $3.8 million, will be sold during the week of August 4.

$5 Million In Bonds

The 1974 Legislature authorized the State Board of Agriculture to issue up to $5 million in revenue bonds through Lancaster County. The bonds will be paid back with 5% of the parimutuel taxes in excess of $1 million from the Fairgrounds race track.

Bonds totaling $1.2 million were issued earlier for work on the race track itself and the horse barns.

The grandstand budget has been increased over what was originally planned, since the cost of work already underway was less expensive than anticipated.

The track's 1975 racing season will not be affected by the construction; however, the Fairgrounds' 1976 racing season tentatively will be apportioned to the other tracks.

Total Capacity 6,548

The new grandstand, the plan said, will seat 2,520 people in open air seats and 1,762 in air-conditioned seats. A restaurant will be able to accommodate 268, and there will be room for overflow crowds on the north apron (2,000 people). The total capacity will be 6,548.

The total project cost should be in the neighborhood of $4.1 million per square foot, which "compares favorably" with the $39.18 per square foot costs quoted from "Dodge Building Cost" data for a similar project.

The timetable calls for the track and grandstand to be ready for the 1977 racing season.

In another construction matter, the State Building Commission has approved a $174,765 bid submitted by Western Waterproofing of Omaha for repair of the leaky promenade deck on the State Capitol.

The bid does not include building up the promenade deck to a condition which would allow foot traffic along the entire length of the promenade.

To do that, Western estimated it would cost $519,557; only $200,000 has been allotted for that project.

Other bidders for the limited restoration were Kingery Construction Co. of Lincoln, $220,130 ($572,372 for complete restoration); and Olson Construction Co. of Lincoln, $287,272 ($695,597 for complete restoration).

The work should be completed by January, 1976.

The name of the proposed unit has been changed — from Consumer Protection Agency to Agency for Consumer Advocacy — but the key provisions are the same.

The Tuesday vote will be an another attempt to end a filibuster, but there are differences between this ballot and previous ones.

First, there is a change in the Senate rules — it takes only 60 votes to cut off debate instead of the previous two-thirds majority. And second, last November's election brought victory to several supporters of so-called pro-consumer legislation.

"I think we'll get it (an end to debate), but I'm not sure we'll get it the first time," said a spokesman for Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., a sponsor of the bill. The spokesman said he was encouraged by the fact that Ford has not actually threatened to veto the bill.

Virginia Knauer, head of the Office of Consumer Affairs of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, previously supported the measure. But a spokesman for Mrs. Knauer said Monday: "In terms of our office, we follow the President."

He said Ford's opposition "obviously has had an impact," but added: "The odds are that it (the bill) will pass."

Opponents generally fall into two categories: businesses who are concerned about too much regulation by government and people who feel there are too many agencies already.

A recent directory published by the Office of Consumer Affairs lists 39 offices, agencies or individuals within the federal government who deal with consumer problems. There are almost two dozen Congressional committees watching over consumer interests in one way or another.

'Piracy' Done By Cambodia

Washington (AP)—A Cambodian gunboat fired at and seized on Monday an unarmed U.S. merchant ship which its owners said was carrying military and commercial cargo. President Ford called it "an act of piracy."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, who announced the seizure of the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez, said the failure to release the vessel "would have the most serious consequences." That diplomatic language is used only in situations considered extremely grave and carrying the possibility of military action.

Nessen said the Mayaguez and its crew of 39 were seized 60 miles off the coast of Cambodia, about eight miles from a small rock island apparently claimed by both Cambodia and Vietnam. The owners said it was 85 miles from shore.

Nessen later announced that a Panamanian ship was stopped by Cambodia in the same area May 7 or May 8 but apparently has been allowed to leave and reportedly is en route to Bangkok, Thailand.

The Sea-Land Corp., of Menlo Park, N.J., owner of the Mayaguez, said the company did not know the nature of the military cargo aboard the vessel. "At the most it would just be small arms," said a spokesman. "We're just a container operation so there could be no heavy military equipment."

He said the ship was en route from Hong Kong to Thailand.

President Ford, meanwhile met with the National Security Council to discuss the seizure, and the State Department said diplomatic efforts were under way for the return of the vessel. These efforts were understood to be through third countries since there is no direct link between Washington and Phnom Penh.

(The New York Times reported that the United States asked China for help in persuading Cambodia to release the merchant ship. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, according to the Times, instructed that discreet appeals be made to the Chinese liaison office in Washington and to the government in Peking. "This was done because Washington believes . . . only the Chinese have any influence with the new Communist-backed rulers of Phnom Penh," the Times story said.)

Warships from the U.S. 7th Fleet reportedly were ordered to begin moving in the direction of the Gulf of Thailand.

The United States considers all waters more than three miles seaward to be in international territory. Cambodia, however, is one of about 40 nations which for several years have claimed jurisdiction over waters extending 12 miles from shore, American officials said. Since the Mayaguez reportedly was within eight miles of an island claimed by Cambodia, this apparently would put it in waters claimed by Cambodia but viewed as international territory by the United States.

"You can easily deduce we consider it outside of territorial waters," Nessen said.

Nessen, asked if he viewed the seizure as "a major crisis," said: "I don't want to characterize it."

He replied "no" when asked whether the ship was a spy ship.

He said the United States has not been in communication with the Cambodian government.

Nessen said that "as far as we know" no one on the ship was injured.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., said in a Senate speech that "this act of piracy . . . is an outrage which we cannot let go unchallenged . . . Our national honor is at stake."

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said information was too scanty to determine whether the seizure was an "act of individual piracy" or "a carefully planned plot to embarrass the United States."

Percy said he would consider it unwise for Congress to take any action until more is known.

"It's outrageous," said Rep. Thomas N. Downing, D-Va. "Under the War Powers Act, the President has the authority to take action. I will back him fully."

Rep. David Satterfield, D-Va., said he would "back any action" President Ford takes. "It's time we let the Cambodians know the sovereignty of the United States stands for something."

"We ought to go after it," Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said on the Senate floor.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, said the United States "should try all kinds of sanctions first."

"But that doesn't mean ruling out retaking it," he said. "We can't allow that kind of thing to happen on the high seas."

"It's a terribly serious thing," said Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., urged patience although he said Ford was right in calling the seizure an act of piracy.

"Let's keep our shirts on and see if they return the ship," Javits said.

Javits, an architect of the 1973 War Powers Act, said he believes Ford would have the right to use military force to retrieve the ship. The law gives the President the right to introduce military forces into hostilities for up to 60 days to protect Americans.

Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.-R-N.Y., urged the President "to order immediate punitive air and naval attacks on appropriate targets in Cambodia."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., agreed the seizure was an act of piracy but said the government should "stop, look and listen" before resorting to force. "Let's use reason first," he said. The Mayaguez was the first U.S. ship seized by a foreign navy since the U.S. spy ship Pueblo was captured by North Korea on Jan. 23, 1968.

The Pueblo's crew of 83 was held captive for 11 months before being freed.

Doctor Hunt Isn't Official

By United Press International

Three Nebraska state senators were en route to California's Camp Pendleton Monday afternoon but won't have an official purpose until at least Tuesday.

Acting with speed, the Legislature's Executive Board approved transportation for Sens. John DeCamp of Neligh, Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove and Richard Maresh of Milligan to Camp Pendleton in an attempt to entice Vietnamese refugee physicians to Nebraska.

That action took place Monday morning but a resolution officially spelling out the purpose of that trip, and approving it, wasn't introduced until afternoon at about the same time their airplane was leaving Lincoln Municipal Airport.

Falls Vote Short

The resolution needed 25 votes to be adopted. It failed on a 24-15 count.

However, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, who voted against adoption, said he wanted that vote to be interpreted not as a rejection of any Vietnamese but as a rejection of hasty action.

"In no way should this be considered a rejection of any Vietnamese," Warner said.

He then offered the motion to reconsider the resolution — a right he has since he voted against passage — which was automatically held over until Tuesday.

Legal Question

Warner said his vote against the resolution was prompted by obligations he said it imposed on the Unicameral which he questioned. He said he didn't know, for example, whether the Unicameral could legally act as a sponsor for any Vietnamese as the resolution suggested.

Other senators said they did not like the way the situation was handled.

"I'm somewhat dismayed over the procedure," said Sen. Walter George of Blair, who suggested if the senators were in the air and the resolution failed, "I want them to jump out and walk back" as well as get a refund from the airline.

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston asked, "Did we really send the experts?" There was no response.

Even One Worth Trip

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln, a member of the executive board, defended the action, saying even one physician would be worth it.

The chain of events followed an announcement on the floor by DeCamp that there were physicians available at Camp Pendleton and there was a chance some could be brought to Nebraska to shore up declining numbers of physicians in rural areas.

However, DeCamp said action had to be speedy since both Australia and Canada were sending airplanes to Camp Pendleton to get as many physicians as they could.

Two Vietnamese physicians, according to Simpson, have already agreed to locate at Sutherland.

The plane carrying the senators, as well as State Health Department officials, took off at 4:10 p.m. Simpson admitted at 4:15 p.m. that he "stalled long enough for them to get into the air."

School Integration Rulings Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday let stand two federal court rulings designed to desegregate schools, but agreed to review an order aimed at segregation in housing.

In brief orders without explanation, the court declined to hear appeals from lower court decisions that school authorities in Boston and Kalamazoo, Mich., had purposely segregated their schools.

But the justices said they will hear arguments next fall on a federal appeals court decision requiring a "comprehensive metropolitan area plan" for public housing in Chicago and its suburbs.

The court also decided four cases on which it had heard arguments. All four of them were decided without the participation of Justice William O. Douglas, who is ill.

In these cases, the justices:

—Struck down by a 5 to 3 vote a Texas law requiring the approval of a majority of property owners in order for bond issues to be passed in an election.

—Ruled 6 to 2 that persons charged with violating state laws may not have their trials transferred to federal courts under the Civil Rights Act unless they can show they were victims of "force or the threat of force."

—Ruled 8 to 0 that a state may require gasoline station operators to pay sales taxes based on their pump prices, including federal and state excise taxes.

—Decided 5 to 2 that defendants in environmental and other public interest lawsuits may not be required to pay the plaintiffs' attorneys unless there is a law specifically permitting such a court order.

The high court's action in the Boston School case came just two days after another order by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr., which has stirred anew the city's long simmering controversy over school busing.

In the decision which the court had been asked to review, the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston upheld a ruling last June 21 by Garrity, setting in motion the steps which led to busing. Garrity followed up that ruling by approving a temporary desegregation plan which took effect last September, requiring the busing of 17,000 of the city's 85,000 public school students.

This plan, which centered mainly on the upper grades, stirred sporadic acts of violence.

On Saturday, Garrity came up with a new plan which calls for busing 21,000 children next year, 12,000 of them in the first five grades.

In the other school case, the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati ordered the Kalamazoo Board of Education to take steps to overcome "a purposeful pattern of segregation."

The board replied that such a pattern "will exist wherever a neighborhood school concept is followed in a system having residential areas which differ or change in racial content."

The Chicago case to be heard next term shapes up as a major test of the power of federal courts to require the establishment of public housing in white suburbs in an effort to break up black ghettos.

Blacks have charged that the department of Housing and Urban Development has assisted in "the carrying on of a racially discriminatory public housing system within the city of Chicago."

Soviet Ship's Visit First In 30 Years

BOSTON (AP) — Two Soviet destroyers, sporting new paint and a minimum of weapons, became the first Soviet warships to visit a U.S. port in 30 years when they sailed into Boston on Monday amidst colorful banners and blaring brass bands.

The visit by the guided missile destroyers Boykiy, flagship of Rear Adm. A. M. Kalinin, and Zhguchiy is part of a five-day warship exchange arranged in honor of the 30th anniversary of the Allied victory over Nazi Germany.

In Leningrad, meanwhile, the U.S. guided missile frigate Leahy and the guided missile destroyer Tattal sailed into port with similar fanfare under the eyes of hundreds of curious onlookers.

Senate Group OKs Refugee Aid Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a $405 million authorization Monday for relief and resettlement of South Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees.

Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., said the legislation, similar to that being considered by the House Wednesday, will be ready for Senate action Tuesday.

Sparkman said the committee vote, following a morning hearing, was 13-0. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield abstained.

The senator said Mansfield wanted more information on any remaining funds from various aid authorizations previously made for South Vietnam.

Sparkman said the bill so closely resembles the one approved by the House Judiciary Committee that it may be possible to avoid sending the legislation to a time-consuming House-Senate conference. If that is the case, the bill could be before President Ford for his signature by the end of the week.

The $405 million figure was set by a House appropriations subcommittee.

President Ford had asked for $507 million to last until June 30, 1976.

Money to keep the refugee programs going for another week may be obtained from South Vietnamese military aid funds, according to L. Dean Brown, director of the task force coordinating resettlement efforts.

Use of the funds won Senate approval by voice vote last week, authorizing Ford to divert to refugee aid funds previously appropriated for military aid to South Vietnam.

Brown told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Monday, however, that inability to provide money to volunteer relief agencies is blocking movement of refugees from Guam and Wake islands to the United States.

Ford's request was based on an expected 150,000 Indochinese refugees, but it was cut to $405 million by the House committee, which said only about 114,000 refugees were expected.

As of Monday morning the State Department said it had counted 115,237 refugees including 39,622 at camps in the United States and 56,986 in restaging camps in the Western Pacific.

Brown said an additional problem will be created by orders issued Monday by the government of Singapore sending to sea 6,000 to 7,000 refugees who had been on boats in Singapore harbor.

He said North Vietnam has been putting pressure on Asian countries not to admit refugees from South Vietnam.

The three resettlement camps in the United States are about full Vientiane, Laos — A pro-Communist general, Khamouan Boupha, announced that he had become the new defense minister of Laos. He issued orders grounding the air force and forbidding all movement of troops or military equipment.

Levi Refusal Sets Stage

Washington — Atty. Gen. Edward Levi's refusal to let a General Accounting Office task force see the FBI's raw investigative files has set the stage for an expected denial of similar requests for such materials by House and Senate committees examining the intelligence community.

Levi said that although he expected to cooperate generally with the House and Senate investigations, he was disturbed about the "consequences that would follow" from allowing Congress to examine the files of a department of the executive branch.

Israel Blocks Publication

Jerusalem — The Israeli government has moved vigorously to block publication of a book that reportedly contains secret minutes of conversations between Secretary of State Kissinger and Israeli ministers in which Kissinger allegedly made disparaging remarks about leaders of Egypt, Syria, the Soviet Union and other countries.

Premier Rabin reportedly told the cabinet that Kissinger would probably have to resign and that Israeli-American relations would probably be seriously damaged if the material was made public.

16,000 Arrive On Guam

Apra Harbor, Guam — More than 16,000 South Vietnamese refugees arrived here on four merchant ships. Another ship with about 4,000 additional refugees was expected to arrive the later. They will bring to almost 100,000 the number of refugees who have landed on Guam on their way to the continental United States since the fall of Saigon.

School Integration Rulings Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday let stand two federal court rulings designed to desegregate schools, but agreed to review an order aimed at segregation in housing.

In brief orders without explanation, the court declined to hear appeals from lower court decisions that school authorities in Boston and Kalamazoo, Mich., had purposely segregated their schools.

But the justices said they will hear arguments next fall on a federal appeals court decision requiring a "comprehensive metropolitan area plan" for public housing in Chicago and its suburbs.

The court also decided four cases on which it had heard arguments. All four of them were decided without the participation of Justice William O. Douglas, who is ill.

In these cases, the justices: —Struck down by a 5 to 3 vote a Texas law requiring the approval of a majority of property owners in order for bond issues to be passed in an election.

—Ruled 6 to 2 that persons charged with violating state laws may not have their trials transferred to federal courts under the Civil Rights Act unless they can show they were victims of "force or the threat of force."

—Ruled 8 to 0 that a state may require gasoline station operators to pay sales taxes based on their pump prices, including federal and state excise taxes.

—Decided 5 to 2 that defendants in environmental and other public interest lawsuits may not be required to pay the plaintiffs' attorneys unless there is a law specifically permitting such a court order.

The high court's action in the Boston School case came just two days after another order by U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr., which has stirred anew the city's long simmering controversy over school busing.

In the decision which the court had been asked to review, the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston upheld a ruling last June 21 by Garrity, setting in motion the steps which led to busing. Garrity followed up that ruling by approving a temporary desegregation plan which took effect last September, requiring the busing of 17,000 of the city's 85,000 public school students.

This plan, which centered mainly on the upper grades, stirred sporadic acts of violence. On Saturday, Garrity came up with a new plan which calls for busing 21,000 children next year, 12,000 of them in the first five grades.

In the other school case, the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati ordered the Kalamazoo Board of Education to take steps to overcome "a purposeful pattern of segregation."

The board replied that such a pattern "will exist wherever a neighborhood school concept is followed in a system having residential areas which differ or change in racial content."

The Chicago case to be heard next term shapes up as a major test of the power of federal courts to require the establishment of public housing in white suburbs in an effort to break up black ghettos.

Blacks have charged that the department of Housing and Urban Development has assisted in "the carrying on of a racially discriminatory public housing system within the city of Chicago."

Social Consciousness Of Youth Of '60s Said Similar To Parents'

(c) Chicago Daily News

Chicago — The generation of youth that lived through the turbulent 1960s is turning out to have about the same degree of social consciousness as their parents.

Predictions of a new society that is less prejudiced, less competitive, more peaceful and with more concern for their fellow man are not likely to be borne out.

These are the conclusions reached by two investigators at the Psychosomatic and Psychiatric Institute of Michael Reese Hospital in their book, "From Teenage to Young Manhood."

The authors followed 61 teenagers living in Chicago suburbs through their high school and college years. They find that offsprings have the same hopes and fears as their parents.

Soviet Ship's Visit First In 30 Years

BOSTON (AP) — Two Soviet destroyers, sporting new paint and a minimum of weapons, became the first Soviet warships to visit a U.S. port in 30 years when they sailed into Boston on Monday amidst colorful banners and blaring brass bands.

The visit by the guided missile destroyers Boykiy, flagship of Rear Adm. A. M. Kalinin, and Zhguchiy is part of a five-day warship exchange arranged in honor of the 30th anniversary of the Allied victory over Nazi Germany.

In Leningrad, meanwhile, the U.S. guided missile frigate Leahy and the guided missile destroyer Tattnell sailed into port with similar fanfare under the eyes of hundreds of curious onlookers.

The Boykiy and Zhguchiy, with all their missiles removed from view, tied up at Commonwealth Pier after exchanging 21-gun salutes with a National Guard battery on Castle Island at the mouth of the inner Boston Harbor.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin boarded both ships to welcome the commanders and review sailors in formal dress lining the decks. Dobrynin greeted the sailors with a loud "good morning," and the sailors replied in unison, "Good morning Comrade Ambassador of the Soviet Union."

After the initial greetings, Soviet and American sailors mingled on the decks of the Russian vessels, exchanging chitchat through a few overworked interpreters.

Several Soviet sailors spotted a U.S. Navy Wave, Anne Prester of Atoka, Tenn., who was assigned as a motorpool driver. After giving her a few handshakes and hugs, the sailors pinned a number of small medals to her uniform.

"I guess it was because I was the only woman aboard," said the Wave, who is normally a jet engine mechanic stationed at the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

At a news conference aboard the Boykiy, Adm. Kalinin noted that in 1863, Russian sailors visited Washington at the invitation of President Lincoln, who praised the friendship between the two nations and urged future cooperation.

"The words of Lincoln contain profound meaning even though 100 years have passed," Kalinin said through an interpreter.

After a courtesy call to the USS Albany, a U.S. Navy guided missile cruiser berthed on the other side of the pier that is serving as host ship, the Soviet officers made calls on Gov. Michael S. Dukakis and Boston Mayor Kevin H. White.

The officers then went to see "Old Ironsides," the USS Constitution, the oldest surviving commissioned U.S. Navy ship. The Soviets appeared very impressed with their tour of the old square-rigger, which was launched in 1797.

San Francisco — Home is where you hang your hat. (Or yourself, depending on the mood of the day.)

While I was popping off rummy maitais in the sugar isles, the management at Snug Harbor was planning a house warming. A hot foot to be exact. I am being evicted.

"I reckon we'll have to sell the cow," said Widow Brown. "The Squire wants his money."

The management's heart is not made of stone. I have 30 days to find shelter.

I called my accountant. I said: "Don't I have a tax shelter to move into?"

I think Snug Harbor is a tax shelter. For the owners. Real estate is a pretty thing. And you can deduct a pretty penny for it. Never happened that way to me. The real estate I invested in was mainly owned by the banker.

He was a canny fellow. He made me put in a downstairs powder room though I told him I was perfectly capable of walking upstairs.

"It improves the resale value," he said.

I said: "But I don't want to sell, banker. I am nesting for the golden years to come."

"Ah yes," said the banker. "But we may want to sell." And the golden nuggets on his watch chain clashed softly.

We are on view property. The water laps at our doorstep. Across the evening water I can look into the wall-to-floor windows of the Faggots.

He's at the gin early tonight. I think Faggot got the word, too.

He mixes his martinis straight gin-and-ice. No vermouth. That tells a lot.

I poured a little cooking sherry and rolled paper into the typewriter.

It is not saturated fats that will lay me low. It's the daily hustle. I type on borrowed money and borrowed time.

My black cat name of Hell will move with me. A great many renters won't rent to you if you have a cat. They don't like children either.

Why is it that owners of their own tax shelters hate children and pets?

I shouted: "I'm going to start a class action law suit for cats and kids!"

There was no answer. The moppets had gone to school. The black cat was out somewhere terrorizing field mice.

("Don't make no bull moves, George," said "Dutch" Schultz as he lay full of shotgun slugs in this hospital.)

This year the Snug Harbor people finally got the leak stoppeds in the ceiling. Maybe plugged it with chewing gum.

It leaked whenever it rained. Or whenever the people upstairs watered their geranium pots. Roof men stuffed the top with tar. They put in new drain pipes.

The water didn't run down the pipes. It ran uphill and then through the ceiling. When I went out of town, I put a dishpan under the likely spot.

My sliding doors have just been equipped with burglar proof locks. The wall-to-wall carpets have been cleaned.

The broiler on my stove wouldn't warm a pizza. They fixed that.

I went to the coconut islands at peace with the world.

I came home and they threw me out.

We are on view property. The water laps at our doorstep. Across the evening water I can look into the wall-to-floor windows of the Faggots.

He's at the gin early tonight. I think Faggot got the word, too.

He mixes his martinis straight gin-and-ice. No vermouth. That tells a lot.

I poured a little cooking sherry and rolled paper into the typewriter.

It is not saturated fats that will lay me low. It's the daily hustle. I type on borrowed money and borrowed time.

My black cat name of Hell will move with me. A great many renters won't rent to you if you have a cat. They don't like children either.

Why is it that owners of their own tax shelters hate children and pets?

I shouted: "I'm going to start a class action law suit for cats and kids!"

There was no answer. The moppets had gone to school. The black cat was out somewhere terrorizing field mice.

("Don't make no bull moves, George," said "Dutch" Schultz as he lay full of shotgun slugs in this hospital.)

This year the Snug Harbor people finally got the leak stoppeds in the ceiling. Maybe plugged it with chewing gum.

It leaked whenever it rained. Or whenever the people upstairs watered their geranium pots. Roof men stuffed the top with tar. They put in new drain pipes.

The water didn't run down the pipes. It ran uphill and then through the ceiling. When I went out of town, I put a dishpan under the likely spot.

My sliding doors have just been equipped with burglar proof locks. The wall-to-wall carpets have been cleaned.

The broiler on my stove wouldn't warm a pizza. They fixed that.

I went to the coconut islands at peace with the world.

I came home and they threw me out.

7 Suggestions Given On Fridge

Concord, N.H. (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service has seven suggestions for using home refrigerators to conserve energy and reduce waste.

They include: defrosting manually controlled refrigerators when frost is no more than one-fourth inch thick; precooling hot foods quickly by placing containers in cold or ice water before refrigerating them; and checking the sealing gasket around freezer and refrigerator doors for damage or leaks, and replacing it if necessary.

The Coming Senate Race

The U.S. Senate's second ranking (in terms of years) Republican, Roman Hruska of Nebraska, announced this last weekend that he will not seek another term. He blessed John Y. McCollister, the Second District Congressman, and said he would like to see McCollister sit in that Senate seat.

With all due respect to the old political warhorse and to the able McCollister, the seat is not just merely transferred, but obtained in that sort of public auction by which free people name their representatives.

McCollister acknowledged that he wouldn't just be given the seat when he pledged the hardest campaign in Nebraska political history.

This is a different state, a different electorate, than that which has returned Hruska and Curtis to the Senate time after time. We are, hopefully, expecting more of our public servants in Washington. We may be ready to join the big leagues again and have distinguished representation in the Senate.

It is perhaps unkind, but accurate, to say that on the national political scene, Nebraska died when George Norris was defeated. It has been a long time, somewhat akin to Nebraska's lamented football eclipse during the 40s and 50s.

McCollister is gaining statewide recognition, but still has a long way to go. With Hruska's and the Republican hierarchy's backing, he is nevertheless several strides ahead in the Senate dash. He is respected and, as we said, able. It will be difficult for anyone to overtake him.

But McCollister's saying that he will run the hardest campaign in the state's history does not mean that no one is prepared to match him.

There are any number of qualified candidates in either party. Gene Leahy's name comes to mind. Wallace Peterson of Lincoln. There is State Sen. Loran Schmitt of Bellwood. State Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha would make an excellent U.S. Senator. There is the governor of Nebraska, Jim Exon, a public servant of proven ability and appeal. The Senate clash will be titanic.

The seat is not "safe". It cannot be handed down.

A Worthwhile Program

The proposed chemical dependency unit for Nebraska Penal complex inmates apparently has become a hot political coal which officials are finding hard to handle.

Legislation appropriating $75,000 to purchase an old missile base near Crete to turn into a state-run chemical dependency unit was scuttled by the opposition of Crete-area residents.

State Corrections Director Joseph Vitek has said he was "extremely disappointed" that the plans for the missile site were dropped. "We'll be hard-pressed to find a more desirable site," he said.

We join in that disappointment. The corrections department is now looking for another location for the prisoners' chemical dependency unit. A temporary facility on prison property may be in the offing while officials look for a permanent site.

New legislation provides that alternative sites must be reported to the Unicameral and the governor before money is made available to start the project.

Vitek estimates that it will cost half a million dollars to duplicate the Crete site, which the state could have bought for $75,000.

That doesn't make too much sense to us. But the economics of the question aside, we hope the program isn't scuttled.

It is a worthwhile effort — helping people kick the habit; it will benefit all of society in the long run — and we hope public opposition to the chemical dependency unit cools and that it finds a home soon.

Cambodian Revolution

WASHINGTON — First reports from Cambodia suggest that one of the great upheavals of history may be taking place there.

The forced evacuation of the cities and towns, the overnight conversion of a relatively modern society with cities and towns into a communal peasant agrarianism — not even in China has such a thoroughgoing revolution in human affairs been attempted so abruptly.

The goal, said a Cambodian communist broadcast monitored in Bangkok, is "a new social system that is sound, clean, free from corruption, and in which there is no hooliganism, graft, embezzlement, gambling, prostitution, alcoholism, or any kind of hazardous games." No aid of any kind, first reports say, is to be accepted from abroad as Cambodia erects a new nation "that is independent, peaceful and neutral. These sweeping goals, contradicting so much of human history, can be achieved by the shadowy new government of what Americans once thought of as the pleasant and friendly country of Cambodia, although the main reliance still will be placed on agriculture."

What is stunning, however, is that such an enormous upheaval could be attempted with such speed and assurance, apparently to a long-conceived pattern. While the population involved — about seven million people — is not great by comparison to those of Russia and China, that very fact seems to have encouraged an effort to achieve as much or more change immediately as either of those nations could bring about in decades.

A conception of such magnitude deserves comment in itself, aside from the stated goals of the revolution and the extent to which they may someday be reached.

In the first place, what has happened so far in Cambodia makes it clear the new regime has rulers — not just leaders — as despotic and imperial as any to be found in that long, cruel course of history on which an entire nation is being forced to turn its back.

In the second place, these despotic rulers have so far been utterly ruthless in bringing about the new order they proclaim.

Routing the sick and wounded from the hospitals, throwing the old and the young alike at bayonet point upon the roads to the countryside, breaking up families, making a whole population refugee — all this may not be a blood bath in the sense in which the Chilean junta executed thousands, but in another sense it seems as bad, particularly since the innocent and helpless seem to have been herded without discrimination into the same plight as those who might more legitimately have been made to suffer retaliation and banishment.

What the toll in human lives may be will probably never be known; it is bound to be great.

It follows from these two points that there is not to be much room in the new Cambodia for those notions of individual rights held dear, if often violated, in some other societies even when the worst period of violence and upheaval and coercion is past, the goals of the new regime would permit little deviation from the proclaimed norms of expected behavior.

It may be protested that individualism is precisely what is wrong with the old idea of society now abandoned in Cambodia, that the evacuation of Phnom Penh was symbolically a re-enactment of the fall of Sodom and Gomorrah, and that the only way to a "sound, clean" society is to subordinate the rights of the individual to the greater good of the many.

It may further be protested that the injustice and cruelty and despotism of these first days of the revolution were but a minor and temporary expedient on the road to a classless, leaderless society of equals, in which no one will exploit or rule anyone else and all will share alike.

Even if there could be assurances that this will be so — as it is not yet so even in China, where the stated goals of revolution seem to have been more faithfully pursued than in the Soviet Union — the question still must be asked whether the human cost of achieving such a "sound, clean" society is not too great, whether it is not at least as great as the human cost of the admittedly corrupt societies of the individual?

This is a question on which people of different eras and cultures and character have argued endlessly, to which there can be no one certain answer for all.

Of those who are forcing the revolution in Cambodia, it can only be said that they did not underestimate the difficulties of doing so; unlike some who talk of revolution, they knew it could not be had except at profound cost to humanity.

A Real American Welcome

NEW YORK — The sour-spirited reception given the Vietnam refugees is not surprising. It is perfectly consistent with the ancient American debate about who is fit to be American.

When the English got to America, they found many people who were not fit to be Americans. There were the Indians, and the English put them in their place, which was underground or out in the low-lying district away from the seashore.

There were the French, who were fitter than most people to be Americans, because they were at least Europeans, but they didn't speak English and, so, had to be driven out.

The Dutch came closer to fitting the qualifications for real Americans, but they didn't speak English either, so were sent to Albany, on the theory that they would freeze or wither away.

The Spanish were absolutely hopeless. They came from the Mediterranean. They had dark skin. They took siestas in the shank of the day when real Americans were working to pay taxes. They were shunted off southward into jungle and desert.

Established as the real Americans, the English confronted the Africans, whom they had imported in chains. An obvious case. They were absolutely essential to do the heavy work involved in building the country, but could never be real Americans because, as everybody knew, real Americans were hard-working people and blacks were shiftless and lazy and spent all their time singing, dancing and cadging handouts from the government.

So the real Americans wrote it firmly into the Constitution that the blacks were not real Americans.

Germans, Swedes and other Northern Europeans — but not Irishmen — were granted real Americanhood with little delay, since, like the real Americans who had put so many Indians underground and constitutionally excluded blacks from real Americanhood, they were light-skinned and Protestant.

Then — Problems, problems. The Irish. They were white enough, all right, and even remotely European. But they were all so Catholic. The solution was to grant them 18th-rate Americanhood, put them on four generations of probation at hard labor, and let them be pronounced real Americans if they survived.

The Indians persisted despite their high interment rate, and were not so easily dealt with. You couldn't trust an Indian, so the real Americans cheated, betrayed and double-crossed them, rounded them up, put a fence around them and pronounced them useful only for being eured by real Americans.

The blacks, who were no whiter than the Indians, tried to qualify for real Americanhood by becoming Protestants, but all they won was the right to play musical instruments in brothels and to satisfy the real Americans' occasional thirst for swift justice by being hanged on the courthouse-square sycamore.

Soon Italians, Greeks, Poles, Slovaks, Russians and Chinese were pouring into the country. The Chinese, not being European, were declared 93rd-rate Americans, and laws were passed to keep their relatives out of the country.

Then came Puerto Ricans and Mexicans. Real Americans? Not half likely, replied the English. Germans, Swedes, Irish, Italians, Greeks, Poles, Slovaks, Russians and all the other Europeans who had now become the real real Americans.

Real Americans came from Europe, and not Latin America, unless they were Cubans and hated communism. So the Puerto Ricans and Mexicans were sent to pick beans or live in the Bronx and wait on tables.

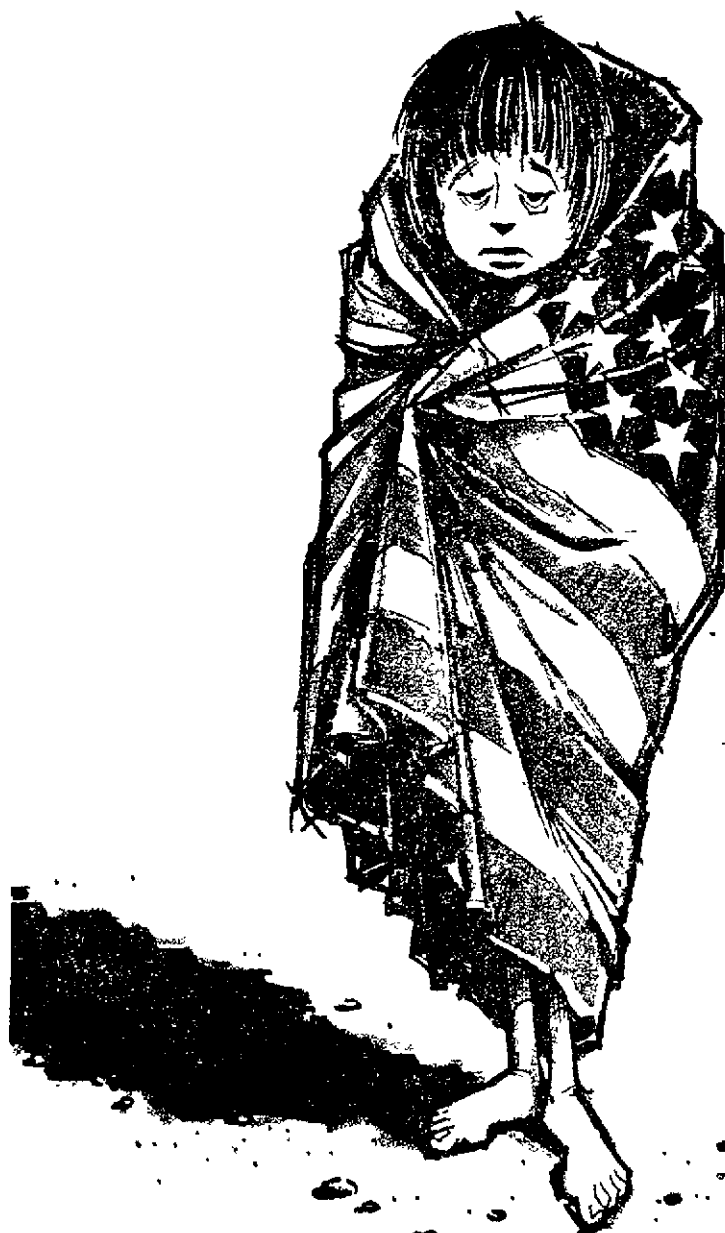

By this time the Europeans who had arrived only 40 or 50 years earlier had become such real Americans that they urged the blacks, who had arrived 200 years before them, be exported to Africa due to inability to be real Americans.

The Indians, meanwhile, were insolently refusing to die, although they could never be real Americans, and while all this was going on, more than 100,000 refugees arrived from Vietnam. Not Europeans, but Orientals. People who could never be real Americans.

The real Americans were sour and angry. As always.

'VICTORY FINDS A HUNDRED FATHERS — DEFEAT IS AN ORPHAN'

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Get Out Of Town

RAMSEY CLARK

WASHINGTON — What if every man, woman and child who lived on Manhattan Island were told: "Get out of town. Today, on pain of death. No excuses. Start walking and don't stop until you get to farmland upstate or in Pennsylvania. When you get there, if you do, you're on your own."

Manhattan mothers would give their babies to strangers who had some chance of escape or survival; Manhattan doctors, at gunpoint, would put down scalps in mid-operation and begin the long march to nowhere; occupants of nursing homes would push wheelchairs in the direction of the Lincoln Tunnel; proud and law-abiding Manhattanites would learn to steal and beg to get the towers of the city far behind them.

That is roughly what is happening to the three million people of Phnom Penh.

Sennacherib destroyed Babylon, the Romans sacked Carthage, and Hitler's bombers leveled Guernica, but in every case the attacker was destroying a particular city, not the idea of a city itself.

The new rulers of Cambodia are doing something original. They have taken the "classless society" of Marx and put it together with the "natural selection" of Darwin. Cities breed civilization, they are saying; civilization differentiates between people, creating classes; therefore, we will drive the populace out of the corrupting cities, back to the purifying land, where only the fittest will survive.

Many commentators have long been saying that the Cambodians are a gentle people who would return to peaceful ways if only we were not there; and have been deriding predictions of mass executions as merely scare tactics to justify our propping up of corrupt dictators. These voices will now be saying that the reports we hear of killings are probably exaggerated. What kind of bloodbath is it, after all, that goes on unrecorded by videotape?

Contrariwise, a great many other Americans, myself included, will be tempted to ask what happened to all that moral outrage about "stopping the killing," and how come the Jane Fondas and Ramsey Clarks are not focusing our attention on the shortcomings of those who brought this bloody kind of peace to Indochina?

Such justification of past positions may be satisfying — we all like to insist we were right all along — but there is a reality to the emptying of Phnom Penh that should cause us to agree on a fundamental: That the difference between "Freedom" and "Slavery" is not a relic of cold-war rhetoric. Communists in every region are serious about remaking the world, and we must stop pretending that the death sentence pronounced even temporarily on city life in Cambodia is some form of "agrarian reform."

To the Khmer Rouge, the elimination of classes requires that tens of thousands, perhaps many more, die by the wayside; this is no Cambodian aberration, but the path always taken by new communist parties as they take power. As they become sophisticated, later generations act more subtly, in civilized trapings from great cities, but the mental set of the ideology sees the individual soul as a building block and not a citadel.

JANE FONDA

People try to fight communism, or to turn away from it, because they do not want to be absolutely controlled by the most modern tyrants. They fight or run not because democracy has won their "Hearts and minds," but because they sense that only communism is capable of driving a population or three million out of their homes and into the countryside so as to indoctrinate those hearts and minds.

How do some of us receive the people running from death? A trendy cartoonist here portrayed a shocked Statue of Liberty looking at a parade of slant-eyed pimps, prostitutes, and politicians, which fairly well sums up the view of those — like McGovern — who came to hate our Southeast Asian allies.

Most Americans will recoil from this prairie-populist cruelty, as the decapitation of a capital city sinks in. A city is civilization; civilization is diversity and creativity, which needs personal freedom; communism is by its nature anti-city, anti-civilization, anti-freedom.

The Khmer Rouge understand this; too many Americans do not. If we are unwilling to help people fight for their freedom, if we pretend that the victories of communism are local options of little concern to us, then the order to "get out of town" may be repeated. And some day it could cause quite a traffic jam in the Lincoln Tunnel.

In The Thousands

Lincoln, Neb. The Library Foundation book sale was a whopping success. Everything ran in the thousands, from dollar intake to smiling customers.

The Star's interesting article pleased us, as it helped our publicity and gave a warm picture of the many sides of a book sale.

The Library Foundation Board thanks The Star for its part in this success.

Shelter In The White House?

Wilber, Neb. So President Ford is hurt because the American people do not welcome the Vietnamese people to our country and take them in and feed and clothe and house them. Well, how about Mr. Ford? Is he going to take Vietnamese people into the White House? No, he thinks only the people of this country will have to care for them.

All Mr. Ford can do is take all our tax money from us and rent it to them, and let us fight to stay alive.

O. K., now, how about the people in the tornado disaster areas? Will Mr. Ford send them millions of dollars to help them out? They need a lot of help — not the Vietnamese people.

JIM JOHNSON

The Information Gap

Lincoln, Neb. One of the problems of citizen accessibility to our state legislative process is of adequate information on just when certain bills will be coming up for various stages of action on the floor of the Unicameral. Once bills are past the committee hearing process, it is often difficult to know when letters, calls or visits to our legislators on a particular bill of interest will be timely.

Filling this information gap could be a very important function of any proposed public broadcast agency in Nebraska. Daily and even hourly bulletins of schedules and pending actions in the Legislature would be a sorely needed public service. When privately owned radio interests challenge the need for public radio in our communities, this is certainly one of the services to the democratic citizenry which they have NOT bothered to supply.

LARRY DOERR

Steering Committee Chairman
First District, Common Cause

Fed Up With Refugees

Wilber, Neb. I have had it with the Vietnam refugees. All they have been doing since they arrived in this country is to complain about something — the waiting in line, the way the food is cooked, and the weather.

Lots of Americans have died fighting for their freedom, and a lot of American dollars have gone into the war and more are going for their care, and all they do is complain.

There will be a lot of American people who will be cheated out of homes and jobs so the government can care for the refugees. In my book the needs of my country and my fellow countrymen come first.

Our forefathers were immigrants and I am sure a lot of them fought and died so that this country could be independent of English rule. Now Mr. Ford is turning his back on them, to welcome with open arms refugees who refused to stand their own ground and fight for their freedom, their own homes and their country.

CATHY DRDA

End Of Vietnam War

Lincoln, Neb. We as members of Nebraskans for Peace join with other Americans in the relief felt now that the war in Vietnam with its brutal killing has finally come to an end.

As we approach the celebration of the bicentennial of the American Revolution, we believe that an excellent opportunity presents itself for Americans to renew their dedication to the principles upon which this nation was founded, especially the basic ideal of freedom. Our concern for the freedom of people of other cultures and societies to determine their own way of life is an extension of our desire to have this freedom ourselves.

Just as the British learned 200 years ago that they could not control the distant Americans, we in the United States have learned through the tragedy of Vietnam the folly of trying by force to influence for-off nations in their choice of political, economic and social systems.

We hope the bicentennial year will be a time of deep soul-searching on the part of the American people. It is very necessary to discover why Americans in general were so callous and indifferent the great suffering caused by our inhuman bombing of the people of Indochina, and to our massive support of tyrannical and corrupt dictatorships.

America is assuredly rich and powerful. It can become genuinely great and good if we acknowledge our faults and try to develop a sense of common humanity and cooperation with people the world over.

There were the French, who were fitter than most people to be Americans, because they were at least Europeans, but they didn't speak English and, so, had to be driven out.

The Dutch came closer to fitting the qualifications for real Americans, but they didn't speak English either, so were sent to Albany, on the theory that they would freeze or wither away.

The Spanish were absolutely hopeless. They came from the Mediterranean. They had dark skin. They took sestas in the shank of the day when real Americans were working to pay taxes. They were shunted off southward into jungle and desert.

Established as the real Americans, the English confronted the Africans, whom they had imported in chains. An obvious case. They were absolutely essential to do the heavy work involved in building the country, but could never be real Americans because, as everybody knew, real Americans were hard-working people and blacks were shiftless and lazy and spent all their time singing, dancing and cadging handouts from the government.

So the real Americans wrote it firmly into the Constitution that the blacks were not real Americans.

Germans, Swedes and other Northern Europeans — but not Irishmen — were granted real Americanhood with little delay, since, like the real Americans who had put so many Indians underground and constitutionally excluded blacks from real Americanhood, they were light-skinned and Protestant.

Then — Problems, problems. The Irish. They were white enough, all right, and even remotely European. But they were all so Catholic. The solution was to grant them 18th-rate Americanhood, put them on four generations of probation at hard labor, and let them be pronounced real Americans if they survived.

The Indians persisted despite their high internment rate, and were not so easily dealt with. You couldn't trust an Indian, so the real Americans cheated, betrayed and double-crossed them, rounded them up, put a fence around them and pronounced them useful only for being euchred by real Americans.

The blacks, who were no whiter than the Indians, tried to qualify for real Americanhood by becoming Protestants, but all they won was the right to play musical instruments in brothels and to satisfy the real Americans' occasional thirst for swift justice by being hanged on the courthouse-square sycamore.

Soon Italians, Greeks, Poles, Slovaks, Russians and Chinese were pouring into the country. The Chinese, not being European, were declared 93rd-rate Americans, and laws were passed to keep their relatives out of the country.

Then came Puerto Ricans and Mexicans. Real Americans? Not half likely, replied the English, Germans, Swedes, Irish, Italians, Greeks, Poles, Slovaks, Russians and all the other Europeans who had now become the real real Americans.

Real Americans came from Europe, and not Latin America, unless they were Cubans and hated communism. So the Puerto Ricans and Mexicans were sent to pick beans or live in the Bronx and wait on tables.

By this time the Europeans who had arrived only 40 or 50 years earlier had become such real Americans that they urged the blacks, who had arrived 200 years before them, be exported to Africa due to inability to be real Americans.

The Indians, meanwhile, were insolently refusing to die, although they could never be real Americans, and while all this was going on, more than 100,000 refugees arrived from Vietnam. Not Europeans, but Orientals. People who could never be real Americans.

The real Americans were sour and angry. As always.

Get Out Of Town

RAMSEY CLARK

WASHINGTON — What if every man, woman and child who lived on Manhattan Island were told: "Get out of town. Today, on pain of death. No excuses. Start walking and don't stop until you get to farmland upstate or in Pennsylvania. When you get there, if you do, you're on your own."

Manhattan mothers would give their babies to strangers who had some chance of escape or survival; Manhattan doctors, at gunpoint, would put down scalpels in mid-operation and begin the long march to nowhere; occupants of nursing homes would push wheelchairs in the direction of the Lincoln Tunnel; proud and law-abiding Manhattanites would learn to steal and beg to get the towers of the city far behind them.

That is roughly what is happening to the three million people of Phnom Penh.

Sennacherib destroyed Babylon, the Romans sacked Carthage, and Hitler's bombers leveled Guernica, but in every case the attacker was destroying a particular city, not the idea of a city itself.

The new rulers of Cambodia are doing something original. They have taken the "classless society" of Marx and put it together with the "natural selection" of Darwin. Cities breed civilization, they are saying; civilization differentiates between people, creating classes; therefore, we will drive the populace out of the corrupting cities, back to the purifying land, where only the fittest will survive.

Many commentators have long been saying that the Cambodians are a gentle people who would return to peaceful ways if only we were not there; and have been deriding predictions of mass executions as merely scare tactics to justify our propping-up of corrupt dictatorships. These voices will now be saying that the reports we hear of killings are probably exaggerated: What kind of bloodbath is it, after all, that goes on unrecorded by videotape?

Contrariwise, a great many other Americans, myself included, will be tempted to ask what happened to all that moral outrage about "stopping the killing," and how come the Jane Fondas and Ramsey Clarks are not focusing our attention on the shortcomings of those who brought this bloody kind of peace to Indochina?

Such justification of past positions may be satisfying — we all like to insist we were right all along — but there is a reality to the emptying of Phnom Penh that should cause us to agree on a fundamental: That the difference between "Freedom" and "Slavery" is not a relic of cold-war rhetoric. Communists in every region are serious about remaking the world, and we must stop pretending that the death sentence pronounced even temporarily on city life in Cambodia is some form of "agrarian reform."

To the Khmer Rouge, the elimination of classes requires that tens of thousands, perhaps many more, die by the wayside; this is no Cambodian aberration, but the path always taken by new communist parties as they take power. As they become sophisticated, later generations act more subtly, in civilized trappings from great cities, but the mental set of the ideology sees the individual soul as a building block and not a citadel.

JANE FONDA

People try to fight communism, or to run away from it, because they do not want to be absolutely controlled by the most modern tyrants. They fight or run not because democracy has won their "Hearts and minds," but because they sense that only communism is capable of driving a population or three million out of their homes and into the countryside so as to indoctrinate those hearts and minds.

How do some of us receive the people running from death? A trendy cartoonist here portrayed a shocked Statue of Liberty looking at a parade of slant-eyed pimps, prostitutes, and politicians, which fairly well sums up the view of those — like McGovern — who came to hate our Southeast Asian allies.

Most Americans will recoil from this prairie-populist cruelty, as the decapitation of a capital city sinks in. A city is civilization; civilization is diversity and creativity, which needs personal freedom; communism is by its nature anti-city, anti-civilization, anti-freedom.

The Khmer Rouge understand this; too many Americans do not. If we are unwilling to help people fight for their freedom, if we pretend that the victories of communism are local options of little concern to us, then the order to "get out of town" may be repeated. And some day it could cause quite a traffic jam in the Lincoln Tunnel.

In The Thousands

Lincoln, Neb.

The Library Foundation book sale was a whopping success. Everything ran in the thousands, from dollar intake to smiling customers.

The Star's interesting article pleased us, as it helped our publicity and gave a warm picture of the many sides of a book sale.

The Library Foundation Board thanks The Star for its part in this success.

Shelter In The White House?

Wilber, Neb.

So President Ford is hurt because the American people do not welcome the Vietnamese people to our country and take them in and feed and clothe and house them. Well, how about Mr. Ford? Is he going to take Vietnamese people into the White House? No, he thinks only the people of this country will have to care for them.

All Mr. Ford can do is take all our tax money from us and rent it to them, and let us fight to stay alive.

O. K., now, how about the people in the tornado disaster areas? Will Mr. Ford send them millions of dollars to help them out. They need a lot of help — not the Vietnamese people.

The Information Gap

Lincoln, Neb.

One of the problems of citizen accessibility to our state legislative process is of adequate information on just when certain bills will be coming up for various stages of action on the floor of the Unicameral. Once bills are past the committee hearing process, it is often difficult to know when letters, calls or visits to our legislators on a particular bill of interest will be timely.

Filling this information gap could be a very important function of any proposed public broadcast agency in Nebraska. Daily and even hourly bulletins of schedules and pending actions in the Legislature would be a sorely needed public service. When privately owned radio interests challenge the need for public radio in our communities, this is certainly one of the services to the democratic citizenry which they have NOT bothered to supply.

Fed Up With Refugees

Wilber, Neb.

I have had it with the Vietnam refugees. All they have been doing since they arrived in this country is to complain about something — the waiting in line, the way the food is cooked, and the weather.

Lots of Americans have died fighting for their freedom, and a lot of American dollars have gone into the war and more are going for their care, and all they do is complain.

There will be a lot of American people who will be cheated out of homes and jobs so the government can care for the refugees. In my book the needs of my country and my fellow countrymen come first.

Our forefathers were immigrants and I am sure a lot of them fought and died so that this country could be independent of English rule. Now Mr. Ford is turning his back on them, to welcome with open arms refugees who refused to stand their own ground and fight for their freedom, their own homes and their country.

End Of Vietnam War

Lincoln, Neb.

We as members of Nebraskans for Peace join with other Americans in the relief felt now that the war in Vietnam with its brutal killing has finally come to an end.

As we approach the celebration of the bicentennial of the American Revolution, we believe that an excellent opportunity presents itself for Americans to renew their dedication to the principles upon which this nation was founded, especially the basic ideal of freedom. Our concern for the freedom of people of other cultures and societies to determine their own way of life is an extension of our desire to have this freedom ourselves.

Just as the British learned 200 years ago that they could not control the distant Americans, we in the United States have learned through the tragedy of Vietnam the folly of trying by force to influence far-off nations in their choice of political, economic and social systems.

We hope the bicentennial year will be a time of deep soul-searching on the part of the American people. It is very necessary to discover why Americans in general were so callous and indifferent the great suffering caused by our inhuman bombing of the people of Indochina, and to our massive support of tyrannical and corrupt dictatorships.

America is assuredly rich and powerful. It can become genuinely great and good if we acknowledge our faults and try to develop a sense of common humanity and cooperation with people the world over.

Denney Appears Winner After Lunch Battle

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

After some less than polite political fighting over the lunch table Monday, it appeared that Councilman Max Denney emerged the winner in the council chairman sweepstakes.

It all started when Councilman Steve Cook asked his colleagues to delay the formal reorganization of the council one week from May 19 to May 27.

Cook is going to be out of town. The top vote-getter in last week's election, Cook has thrown his hat into the ring for council president.

Denney, in the meantime, has said for several weeks that he wanted to preside over the council for the next two years.

Denney said he didn't see any reason to delay the election of officers, since a majority would be present.

Things started getting hotter when Cook said Denney told him he would be "willing to support Bob (Sikyta) or me before the election."

Denney said he understood that neither Cook nor Sikyta were interested in the job and that's when he told everybody he'd take it.

Well, Cook said, "I was depending on your support."

Not Whole Story

And Sikyta, who said he wasn't vying for the chairmanship, claimed Denney wasn't telling it like it was since Cook wanted the job.

Denney said he "apparently misunderstood" both Sikyta and Cook since Sikyta, who was supporting Cook's candidacy, "said he'd support me," Denney said.

Sikyta, who at one point got up and left the meeting in disgust, fired back that he didn't like to be quoted "by Max or by the press when they don't get the story straight."

Denney said the inference was that he had lied to other council members about the situation.

'Jumped To Conclusion'

Sikyta said he just meant that Denney "jumped to a conclusion without knowing all the facts."

In between bites of his strawberry shortcake, Councilman John Robinson tried to resolve the issue by suggesting the council take a straw vote.

Robinson was going to vote for Denney, as was Sue Bailey. Both had committed their votes to him.

Dick Baker said he had given his word to Denney and would continue to support him. And besides, Baker said, the chairmanship would take "a lot of time," time which he believed Cook, Sikyta and himself didn't have.

'Always Make It'

Snapped Sikyta, "I always make it to the meetings."

With Mrs. Bailey's, Robinson's and Baker's vote, plus his own, Denney has the four votes needed to elect him council president next week.

The president chairs council meetings, generally takes care of following through on council requests to the administration and answers correspondence.

2 Youth Program Grants Approved

The Lincoln Foundation has approved two grant requests totaling $5,600 to enhance youth programs.

Approved were requests for $2,000 to help finance a planning conference for the Nebraska Arts Council's "Artist in School" program and $3,600 for construction of a bathhouse at the Nebraska Conference of Seventh Day Adventists' Woodland Acres near Garland.

The "Artists in School" program is an extension of the Lincoln Public Schools' "Year of the Arts." The Lincoln Foundation also helped finance the project which brought artists from a variety of disciplines into the schools to work with youngsters.

Total cost of the program is $250,800, about a third of which is to be provided by the National Endowment for the Arts. Nearly 40% of the total program will take place in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

The program also will be provided to schools in Douglas, Sarpy, Washington and Cass Counties.

The planning conference, expected to cost $6,000, will help coordinate and implement the 1975-76 program. The Nebraska Arts Council is funding half the conference cost.

Overcoming apprehensions about funding a capital improvement project on church-owned land, and saying the camping project for disadvantaged youths would meet a "total community need," the foundation okayed the $3,600 grant request

LAP Meeting On Programs Is Postponed

The Lincoln Action Program (LAP) board postponed its monthly meeting until May 19 after failing to achieve a quorum Monday. LAP Director Jesse Payne said.

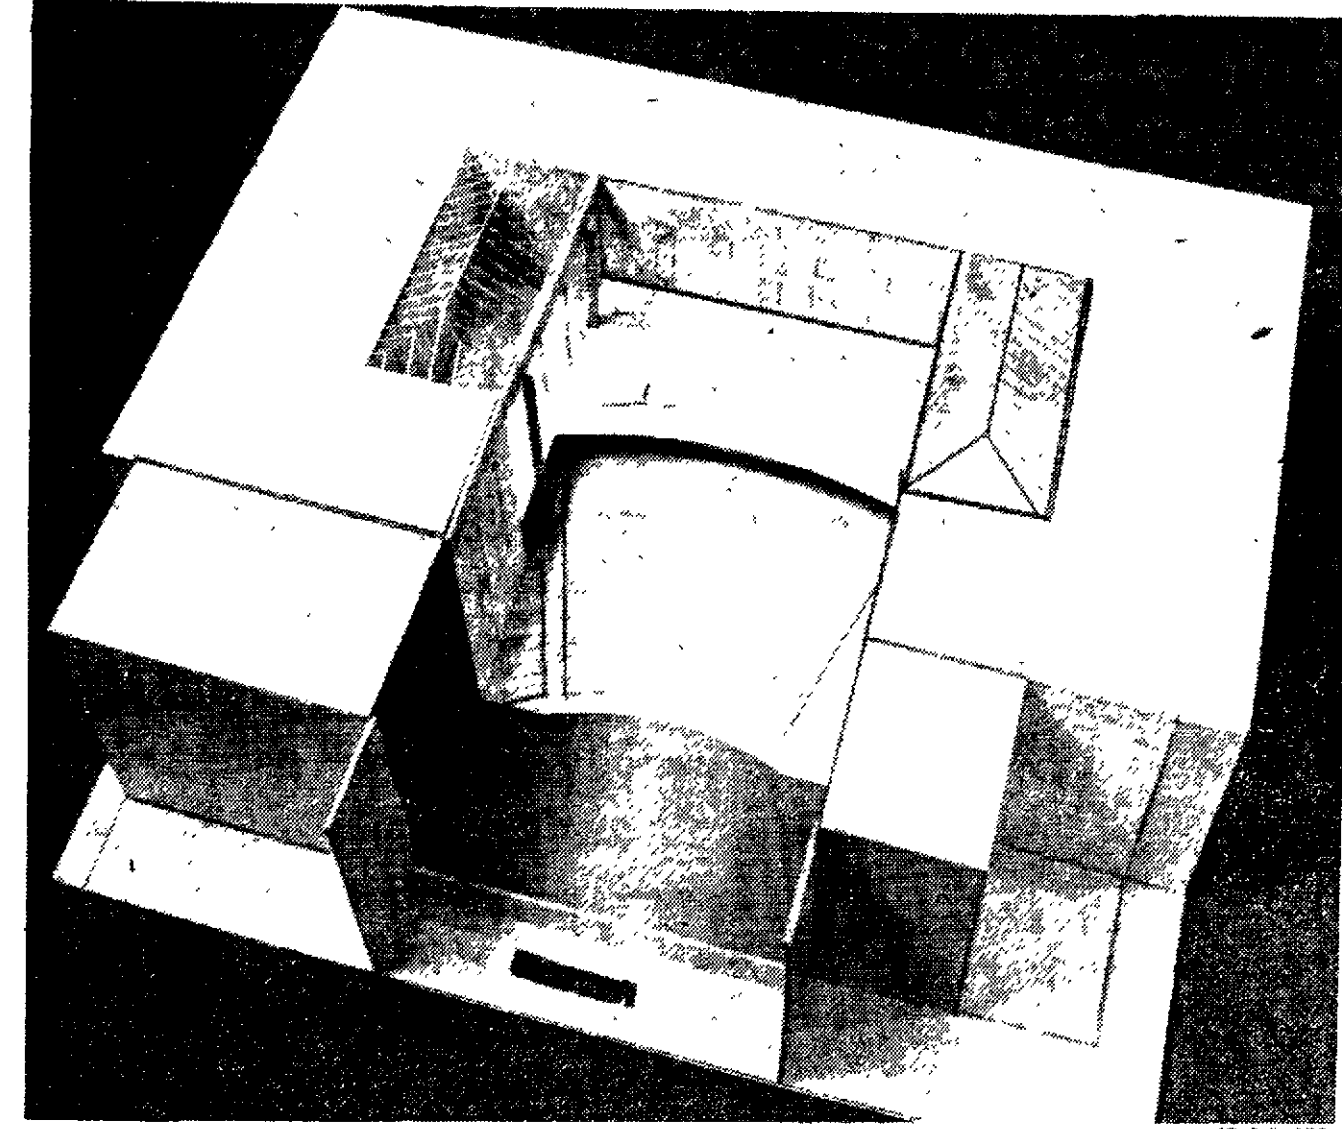

Scheduled for presentation at the meeting was a report on seven planning sessions held in Lincoln and Lancaster County. The sessions were designed to help LAP prepare its work program for 1975-76, according to a LAP news release.

In meetings at General Arnold School, Belmont Community Center, Elliott School, Park School and Clinton School, seven priorities for 1975-76 were suggested: transportation, health problems, housing, information, child care, recreation and employment.

According to the release, specific interest was expressed in expanded city bus service with increased emphasis on public transportation for the handicapped, more low-income housing, day care centers, emergency baby-sitting facilities for low-income people and use of school recreation facilities in the evenings.

More than 40 needs were expressed at the meetings, ranging from development of a grocery store in Arnold Heights to better police relations in the Malone-Clinton area, the release said.

In meetings at Hallam and Raymond, seven other priorities were requested: information, health needs, recreation for youth and senior citizens, a general emphasis on senior citizen problems, employment, transportation and winterizing of homes in rural areas.

HOW IT MIGHT BE . . . old Federal Building is shown in rough model of proposed performing arts center which was presented to the City Council Monday. Story on page 1.

Another Look Wanted At Transit Dept. Plan

Mayor-elect Helen Boosalis said Monday she wants to take another look at a proposal to create a city transportation department.

Mrs. Boosalis said the City Council should also consider placing transportation-related functions in another department as a division. She said other cities have put transportation functions under an urban development department.

Mrs. Boosalis and other council members are considering the restructuring of the Community Development Department.

Councilmen Steve Cook and Bob Sikyta have proposed the transit agency incorporate the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS), traffic engineering and a parking system division.

Cook told council members that initially the department would cost only $34,000, which would pay the salaries of a director and secretary.

The proposed 1975-76 budget for LTS is $1,421,860, and $593,275 is planned for traffic engineering. No budget was proposed for the parking systems division, since Cook said the funds could be generated from revenue bonds.

Under Cook's plan, based on a report from Traffic Engineer Bob Holsinger, the department's first year budget would be $2.04 million.

City Lawmakers Favor Corrections Department

City Council members indicated Monday they favor the creation of a City-County Department of Corrections to supervise the jail.

That recommendation was made by the advisory Jail Study Committee, which met with the council and Mayor-elect Helen Boosalis to discuss the committee's recommendations.

The supervision of the jail should be placed in a separate department, the committee said, and taken away from the Police Department.

The committee also wants a coordinator hired to supervise various correctional programs for inmates.

The city-county jail is located in the County-City Building and according to the committee, should include an exercise area for prisoners, plus other rooms.

One recommendation in the report is already being implemented — the creation of a detoxification center to handle people with drinking problems. The council has approved such a project to be located at Lincoln General Hospital.

James Jaros and Bessie Rost were installed Monday as the new commanders of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and the DAV Auxiliary, Robert Flansburg Chapter 7 of Lincoln.

Carlisle Family To File Lawsuit Against Police

A fund raising dinner will be held Thursday to help pay for a lawsuit which will be filed by the Elizabeth Carlisle Jr. family against the Lincoln Police Department.

The dinner is being sponsored by Justice, Inc., and the Lincoln and Nebraska Civil Liberties Union. The dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Malone Center.

A civil liberties spokesman said the Carlisle family will file a lawsuit against the police department.

Carlisle was killed by police Feb. 1 in an incident at Carlisle's apartment house.

A coroner's jury, convened by Lancaster County Atty. Ron Lahners, ruled the shooting a justifiable homicide.

Lancaster District Judge Samuel Van Pelt also turned down a request for a grand jury investigation into the shooting death.

Disabled Vets Elect Officers

James Jaros and Bessie Rost were installed Monday as the new commanders of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and the DAV Auxiliary, Robert Flansburg Chapter 7 of Lincoln.

Other DAV officers are Larry Johnson, senior vice commander; Mark Richwine, junior vice commander, Russel Loos, treasurer, and Robert Dunn, chaplain.

Other DAVA officers Barbara McDonald of Greenwood, senior vice commander, Loretta Housel, junior vice commander, Frances Fisher, treasurer, and June Brandt, chaplain.

Dog, Cat Licensing Fees Increased

With not even a yap of dissension among them, city lawmakers Monday approved a plan to hike dog and cat licensing fees.

The new law, the legislators hope, will help cut down on the growing pet population by rewarding pet owners financially for sexually neutering their pets.

Dog registration fees will be increased from $4 to $5 while cat fees will be doubled from $1.50 to $3. Pet owners will get a 50% break in the registration fee costs if their pets are altered.

The new law was recommended by the advisory Dog and Cat Committee, which also is considering proposals to license dog and cat kennels and pet shops.

J St. Improvement

In other business, the council held a hearing on the J St. improvement district which, under the Downtown Advisory Committee's Lincoln Center plan, would beautify a four-block stretch from 14th to 10th.

The plan calls for landscaping J St., building a 16-foot wide median flanked by 12-foot driving lanes, and installing 40 ornamental lights.

Selmer Solheim, J St. property owner who chaired a DAC task force on the project, said the maximum cost per front foot would be $40.

Attorney Lloyd Marti, representing Coryell and Sons and Nebraska Building Corp. which own apartments on J St., opposed the proposed beautification plan. Marti said construction of the median would remove 80 parking spaces from the street and force his clients to build off-street parking lots, which they couldn't afford.

'Normal Costs'

His clients were willing to pay what Marti called the "normal costs" of the beautification if the project didn't create an economic hardship.

The lawmakers also turned down one request for a zoning change along Normal Blvd. and held a public hearing on a request for another zoning change in the same neighborhood.

The council rejected Donald Crews' application for a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to F Restricted Commercial to build an office building near the intersection of Cotner and Normal.

And the lawmakers hunted they likewise will turn down next week another zoning request for land lying along Normal between 40th and 47th.

The area, which is mostly vacant land lying in the flood plain, has been the scene of numerous zoning battles in recent years.

None Forthcoming

While the council has decided the city needs to develop an overall land use plan for the area, none has resulted.

As a result, the council said it will ask the consultants updating the Comprehensive Plan to study the area and make a recommendation on the land's use. The city may have to fork over more money to the consultants for that report, since the consultants did not intend to get into such nitty-gritty land use planning decisions.

The lawmakers also gazed into the crystal ball in an attempt to tell what the effect would be if they legalized fortune telling and palm reading for entertainment purposes.

City law bans fortune telling, mind reading, palmistry, phrenology and other related activities which purport to reveal the past and foretell the future.

The request to allow those activities was made by attorney Duane Nelson, who said his client wants to promote the sale of books with fortune telling exhibitions.

Disclaimer Suggested

If the council approves the request next week, City Atty. Charles Humble may suggest that a disclaimer be posted stating that the person conducting the exhibition has no actual power to reveal the past or future events.

The council held another hearing on a proposal which would allow groups and agencies to buy abandoned bicycles for low income or needy children. Those agencies would have the option to purchase the bikes before the public bid, under the proposed law. Currently, all bikes which are not claimed are auctioned off to the public.

In other action, the council:

Ordinances, Third Reading

—Accepted plat of Kim's Place east of Normal and North of Franklin.

—Accepted plat of Briarhurst West 2nd Add. west of 27th and north of Old Cheney Rd.

—Created graveling and grading districts in 33rd, Pioneer's Blvd. south 250 feet.

—Created graveling and grading districts in Benton from 1 st to Morgan.

Amending city code to allow release from custody of a person arrested for violation of code.

Resolutions and Public Hearings

—Approved manager's application of Michael Locke for Country Club at 3200 S. 24th.

—Provided for sidewalks along north and south sides of West Q between Capitol Beach Blvd. and N.W. 24th and along east and west sides of Capitol Beach Blvd. between West Q and West S.

—Provided for sidewalks alongside R, between 56th and 60th, and east and west sides of 58th, between R and Vine and along west side of 56th R to Q and east side of 56th, T to O.

—Approved application of Ed Schmieding to amend plan between 40th and 44th, north of Cornhusker Hwy.

—Approved application of Farmers Co-op Elevator of Emerald for authority to install anhydrous ammonia tank at N.W. 84th between railroad tracks and Hwy. 6.

—Approved application of Donna Stamm to operate child care center, 56th and Covey Court.

—Waived compliance with Comprehensive Plan and approved subdivision of land without dedication of right-of-way located at southeast corner of S.W. 12th and Old Cheney Rd.

Man Reports Being Struck And Robbed

A 67-year-old Lincoln man told police he was struck and then robbed of his billfold, identification papers and $7 Monday night on 14th between O and N Sts.

The victim was identified as Paul Drusedow of 1330 F St. He was being treated at Lincoln General Hospital early Tuesday morning for facial cuts, police said.

Police said they were seeking a suspect described as a white male, 23 to 25 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, with a heavy to stocky build, sandy brown hair, wearing a blue work shirt and blue jeans and possibly having a mustache.

Cook told council members that initially the department would cost only $34,000, which would pay the salaries of a director and secretary.

The proposed 1975-76 budget for LTS is $1,421,860, and $593,275 is planned for traffic engineering. No budget was proposed for the parking systems division, since Cook said the funds could be generated from revenue bonds.

Under Cook's plan, based on a report from Traffic Engineer Bob Holsinger, the department's first year budget would be $2.04 million.

City Lawmakers Favor Corrections Department

City Council members indicated Monday they favor the creation of a City-County Department of Corrections to supervise the jail.

That recommendation was made by the advisory Jail Study Committee, which met with the council and Mayor-elect Helen Boosalis to discuss the committee's recommendations.

The supervision of the jail should be placed in a separate department, the committee said, and taken away from the Police Department.

The committee also wants a coordinator hired to supervise various correctional programs for inmates.

The city-county jail is located in the County-City Building and according to the committee, should include an exercise area for prisoners, plus other rooms.

One recommendation in the report is already being implemented — the creation of a detoxification center to handle people with drinking problems. The council has approved such a project to be located at Lincoln General Hospital.

Carlisle Family To File Lawsuit Against Police

A fund raising dinner will be held Thursday to help pay for a lawsuit which will be filed by the Eliza Carlisle Jr. family against the Lincoln Police Department.

The dinner is being sponsored by Justice, Inc., and the Lincoln and Nebraska Civil Liberties Union. The dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Malone Center.

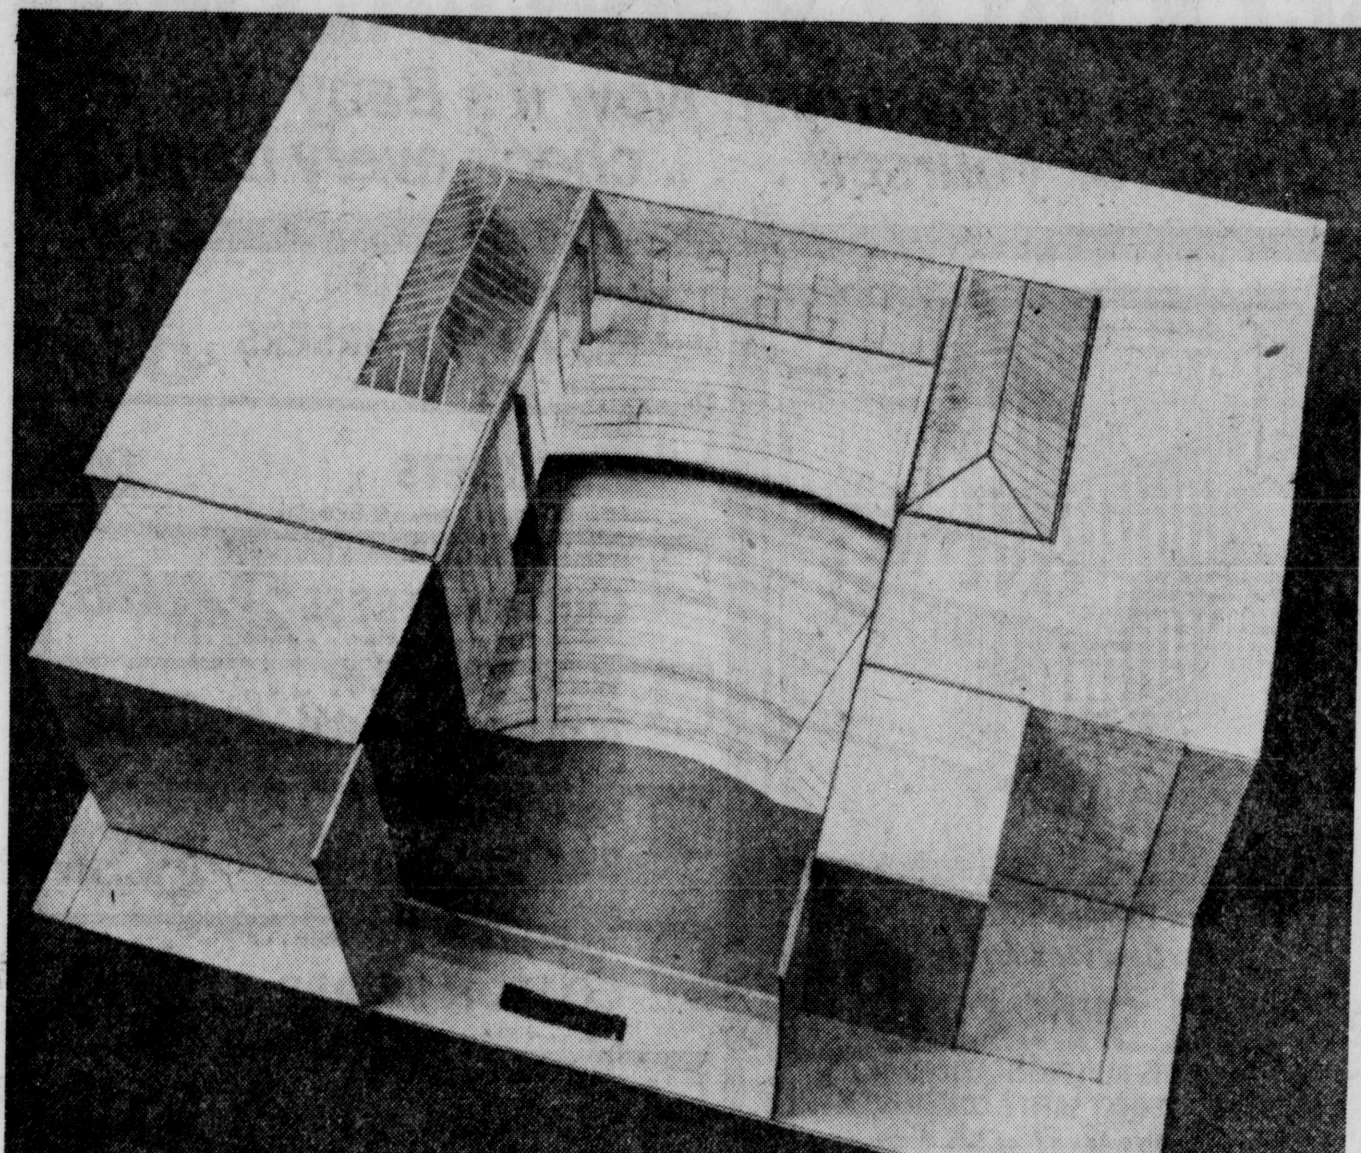

A Civil Liberties spokesman said the Carlisle family will file a lawsuit against the police department.

Carlisle was killed by police Feb. 1 in an incident at Carlisle's apartment house.

A coroner's jury, convened by Lancaster County Atty. Ron Lahners, ruled the shooting a justifiable homicide.

Dog, Cat Licensing Fees Increased

With not even a yap of dissension among them, city lawmakers Monday approved a plan to hike dog and cat licensing fees.

The new law, the legislators hope, will help cut down on the growing pet population by rewarding pet owners financially for sexually neutering their pets.

Dog registration fees will be increased from $4 to $5 while cat fees will be doubled from $1.50 to $3. Pet owners will get a 50% break in the registration fee costs if their pets are altered.

The new law was recommended by the advisory Dog and Cat Committee, which also is considering proposals to

Man Reports Being Struck And Robbed

A 67-year-old Lincoln man told police he was struck and then robbed of his billfold, identification papers and $7 Monday night on 14th between O and N Sts.

The victim was identified as Paul Druessedow of 1330 F St. He was being treated at Lincoln General Hospital early Tuesday morning for facial cuts, police said.

Police said they were seeking a suspect described as a white male, 23 to 25 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, with a heavy to stocky build, sandy brown hair, wearing a blue work shirt and blue jeans and possibly having a mustache.

Refugees In Korea

Pusan, South Korea (AP) — Two South Korean navy ships landed 1,364 refugees from South Vietnam at this south coast port.

J St. Improvement

In other business, the council held a hearing on the J St. improvement district which, under the Downtown Advisory Committee's Lincoln Center plan, would beautify a four-block stretch from 14th to 10th.

The plan calls for landscaping J St., building a 16-foot wide median flanked by 12-foot driving lanes, and installing 40 ornamental lights.

Selmer Solheim, J St. property owner who chaired a DAC task force on the project, said the maximum cost per front foot would be $40.

Attorney Lloyd Marti, representing Coryell and Sons and Nebraska Building Corp. which own apartments on J St., opposed the proposed beautification plan. Marti said construction of the median would remove 80 parking spaces from the street and force his clients to build off-street parking lots, which they couldn't afford.

'Normal Costs'

His clients were willing to pay what Marti called the "normal costs" of the beautification if the project didn't create an economic hardship.

The lawmakers also turned down one request for a zoning change along Normal Blvd. and held a public hearing on a request for another zoning change in the same neighborhood.

The council rejected Donald Crews' application for a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to F Restricted Commercial to build an office building near the intersection of Cotner and Normal.

And the lawmakers hinted they likewise will turn down next week another zoning request for land lying along Normal between 40th and 47th.

The area, which is mostly vacant land lying in the flood plain, has been the scene of numerous zoning battles in recent years.

None Forthcoming

While the council has decided the city needs to develop an overall land use plan for the area, none has resulted.

As a result, the council said it will ask the consultants updating the Comprehensive Plan to study the area and make a recommendation on the land's use. The city may have to fork over more money to the consultants for that report, since the consultants did not intend to get into such nitty-gritty land use planning decisions.

The lawmakers also gazed into the crystal ball in an attempt to tell what the effect would be if they legalized fortune telling and palm reading for entertainment purposes.

City law bans fortune telling, mind reading, palmistry, phrenology and other related activities which purport to reveal the past and foretell the future.

The request to allow those activities was made by attorney Duane Nelson, who said his client wants to promote the sale of books with fortune telling exhibitions.

Disclaimer Suggested

If the council approves the request next week, City Atty. Charles Humble may suggest that a disclaimer be posted stating that the person conducting the exhibition has no actual power to reveal the past or future events.

The council held another hearing on a proposal which would allow groups and agencies to buy abandoned bicycles for low income or needy children. Those agencies would have the option to purchase the bikes before the public did, under the proposed law. Currently, all bikes which are not claimed are auctioned off to the public.

Planting Of Corn Ahead Of Normal

With dry weather throughout Nebraska most of the past week, corn planting moved into full swing in all sections of the state.

As of the end of the week, 35% of the crop had been seeded, compared to 70% planted at this time last year and a normal rate of 25%, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

"Due to dry topsoil, some farmers are waiting for more moisture before planting this spring," the bureau said Monday in its weekly crop-weather report.

Winter wheat is in mostly fair to good condition statewide, the report said.

Wheat reports range from poor to excellent with excellent ratings in the central, east central and southeast districts, it was pointed out.

"Wheat continues to need additional moisture, but has been making good growth," the ag experts noted. As of now, nearly 20% of the wheat has jointed, with the east central and southeast districts having the greatest percentage, the report stated.

Malone Center Slates Penny Carnival Friday

The Malone Center's 16th annual penny carnival will be held Friday, 7 p.m., at 2030 T St. Besides entertainment events, there will be miniclinics to check for high blood pressure and cancer.

Denney Must Review Meat Grading Briefs

Omaha (UPI) — A federal judge, burdened with more than 20,000 pages of manuscripts, took under advisement Monday the question of whether to call witnesses in the trial seeking to stop the implementation of new meat grading standards.

District Judge Robert V. Denney indicated he wouldn't make a decision on the witnesses until he wades through the evidence presented by the government and the plaintiffs. The government's briefs totaled 20,000 pages alone.

During opening trial remarks, Justice Department attorney Vincent B. Terlep Jr. contended Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz was acting within his legal authority when he issued the beef grading changes. Terlep cited the executive order issued by President Ford last November seeking to stem the inflationary tide.

Omaha attorney Frank Pospisil told Denney that as a matter of law, the inflationary index was "inadequate" and therefore the regulations should be enjoined.

The Independent Meat Packers Association of Omaha was the original plaintiff in the suit, but has since been joined by various farm, consumer and business groups.

The American Cattleman's Association has joined the government in defense.

Denney granted a temporary injunction request earlier which was upheld by a three-judge Appeals Court panel on April 15, the day the standards were to become effective.

The appeals panel gave Denney 45 days, or a June 1 deadline, to reach a verdict on the issue. Denney said Monday he "fully expects" to adhere to the appeals court "order."

Earlier, the government indicated it planned to call about 13 witnesses and the plaintiffs indicated their witnesses would equal or surpass the government's in number. However, the request on deleting the witnesses now being considered by Denney was agreed upon by both sides. The Agriculture Department contends the meat grading changes would give consumers leaner, lower-cost beef by reducing the amount of marbling fat needed to qualify beef for high grades like choice and prime.

Students To Help In Storm Cleanup

Omaha (AP) — Superintendents of the Omaha and District 66 school districts are being asked to dismiss high schools for two days so students can help in tornado cleanup work, Mayor Edward Zorinsky said Monday.

"We still need all the volunteers we can get," Zorinsky said. "We've got the equipment we need, but we can still use manual labor."

Officials in District 66, which takes in part of the Omaha storm area, plan to dismiss classes at Westside High School at 1:10 p.m. Tuesday.

Omaha District Supt. Owen A. Knutzen said any student with parental permission to do volunteer work will be excused.

City officials said students at Creighton Prep, which sustained damage in the tornado, also plan to help clear debris this week.

Zorinsky said he would decide Tuesday whether to ask the City Council to extend the curfew in areas damaged by last Tuesday's tornado. The curfew is scheduled to end at 6 p.m. Tuesday unless the council votes to extend it.

Officials said the volunteer force during the weekend was easily three times the number who signed up at registration points. That would mean about 15,000 volunteers on Saturday, when 4,528 signed up. About 800 registered Sunday.

70% Completed
Terrance Pesek, Omaha public works director, said the cleanup was 70% finished Sunday night but it will take two to four weeks to complete the job.

"We'll be going one-on-one with individual property owners now," Pesek said. "We're pretty much finished on the public right-of-way."

Supt. Joseph Rogers said the city's permits and inspections division has been inspecting damaged structures. The division will decide which homes must be demolished. Citizens can appeal the decisions to the City Council.

Meanwhile, Creighton Prep got a second blow from the weather Sunday.

Roof Not Finished
The Rev. Eugene Dutkiewicz, S.J., principal, said rain poured in on some areas of the building where a temporary roof had not been finished.

He said water leaked into first floor classrooms and into the basement cafeteria, damaging walls and ceilings.

Loan Requests Being Accepted By SBA Office

Washington (AP) — The Small Business Administration has started accepting applications for loans to businesses in Nebraska areas covered by President Ford's disaster declaration following Tuesday's tornadoes.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Nebr., said Monday July 7 is the closing date for acceptance of applications for the 5% loans.

Curtis said businesses affected in the Omaha, Ralston and Magnet areas covered should contact the SBA office in Omaha.

Galbraith Considers Return To Nebraska

William Galbraith of Beemer would like to return to Nebraska when he leaves his job as regional director for intergovernmental affairs in Kansas City in July.

"It would be nice to be close enough to Omaha so I could see my grandson regularly," he said. "Nebraska is really my home but I don't have any definite plans," said the former national commander of the American Legion.

Galbraith, in a telephone conversation with The Star, said he has had enough of government for a while. An assistant secretary of agriculture, he said he is quitting the post as his office is being moved from Kansas City to Washington, D.C.

He has been mentioned as a possible receiver of the financially troubled American Beef Packing Co., as a successor to Vice Chancellor Duane Acker at the UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, and a GOP candidate for the Senate or House.

"I would be interested in the vice chancellor position, but I don't know what they want for qualifications. No one has talked

Traditional Dinner Special Occasion

By JOEL THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Milford — A treasury of Seward County lore sits down at the table when the Yeackley family has its annual spring dinner of schmierkaese (cottage cheese), ham, jacket potatoes and asparagus.

The six surviving Yeackley brothers and sisters, all residents of the Milford area, see each other often. But the German dinner is a special occasion.

With only immediate family and a few guests present, it's an intimate chance to reminisce about "the old days." Those were the days when a pair of unschooled but resourceful Mennonite settlers from Illinois, Joseph and Fannie Yeackley, eked enough nutrition out of 240 acres near here to raise eight healthy children.

Recent Death
This year the special camaraderie of the occasion is tinged with sadness for the second year in a row. The family only weeks ago buried its second oldest, Mrs. Phoebe Zimmerman, 87. Last year at this time, the oldest, Mrs. Lizzie Gascho, 88, had just died.

"Our family is getting smaller here below," acknowledges George, 75, in saying grace, "but it's getting bigger in heaven." The hostess is retired schoolteacher Eva Yeackley, 73, the only offspring who didn't farm or marry a farmer. She starts the hot food around. As plates fill up with traditional fare, the room naturally begins to fill with nostalgic conversation.

Mother Yeackley made schmierkaese often, says Elsie, 71, wife of Bert Stutzman. "Dad always used to like that a lot."

She spoons some of the smooth, clabbered milk-and-cream mixture onto her potatoes.

Eva likes to say the schmierkaese is the source of the Yeackley family longevity. Mother and Dad both lived past 90, and all the children have enjoyed long life.

But more likely it was the outdoor exercise required to produce enough food the old-fashioned way to feed a big family. The Yeackleys tackled the job with enthusiasm.

Dad Yeackley did all his farming on foot. "We never knew our father to rest during the day," Eva says. "Up he'd be, out he'd go — and he'd never rest after dinner. He'd keep working until dark." A vineyard, Dad Yeackley's pride and joy, provided him with a hobby.

Mother Yeackley was just as industrious a provider. She tended an extensive apple and plum orchard and grew berries of every variety. "I don't think there was any berry or fruit they didn't have," says Emma, 83, wife of Ed Roth.

Mother Yeackley also kept chickens, geese, ducks and guinea fowl and worked an extensive garden plot. Most of the surplus produce was buried or dried, although some was sealed in big stone jars with red sealing wax. Barrels of sauerkraut were made for winter storage, and Eva says she would still just as soon have a glass of cold sauerkraut juice as lemonade on a hot day.

Line Of Radishes
The Yeackleys remain enthusiastic gardeners and home canners; several still raise radishes from seed descended from their grandmother's garden. For today's dinner, home-grown asparagus from Eva's freezer accompanies the potatoes and schmierkaese, and the dessert is canned baked apples from trees in her backyard.

The bread on the table is also of Eva's making. She learned to bake from her mother, who used to get flour from a nearby mill in exchange for wheat. Eva's is from the grocery store.

Soon everything has been passed around three or four times, and the conversation takes a jocular turn. Everyone smiles as Fred, 86, retells how his dog once helped him catch 13 rabbits by chasing them through a hole in a wall into Fred's sack.

Poured Onto Ground
George is reminded of the time he opened the granary spout door and couldn't get it closed. He recalls watching it ruefully as half the contents poured out onto the ground.

Now the closet doors are open and the family skeletons are rattling gleefully. No one can escape the good-humored storytelling.

It emerges that Eva once set fire to the porch. Emma once braided a twine harness and hitched two cats together. But, she insists, it was John — now 85; then but a mischievous lad — who yelled "Kotz!" (German for cats) and sent them scrambling.

Then there was the time John and Fred were given a loaf of fresh-baked bread to deliver to a neighbor. They ate it instead.

Postal Competitors Used By Government Agencies

Washington (UPI) — The Postal Service is so costly and inefficient it may price itself out of business, Rep. Charles Thone, R-Nebr., said Monday.

He said federal agencies are spending more than $5 million annually to send parcels by means of private companies that compete with the U.S. Postal Service.

"We can't criticize other federal agencies for not using the Postal Service, when an alternate service is available," Thone said. "Each agency's budget is charged for its use of the Postal Service. When a federal bureau can save money by avoiding the Postal Service, that bureau should be commended."

He said the $5 million figure was developed from replies to letters he wrote to all principal federal agencies asking them how much money they were currently spending with private companies that provide service in competition with the Postal Service.

Many federal entities, Thone said, make little or no use of the competitors. If they all used the private companies extensively, the Postal Service might lose the better part of a billion dollars a year in revenue, the congressman said.

Washington (UPI) — The Postal Service is so costly and inefficient it may price itself out of business, Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., said Monday.

He said federal agencies are spending more than $5 million annually to send parcels by means of private companies that compete with the U.S. Postal Service.

"We can't criticize other federal agencies for not using the Postal Service, when an alternate service is available," Thone said. "Each agency's budget is charged for its use of the Postal Service. When a federal bureau can save money by avoiding the Postal Service, that bureau should be commended."

He said the $5 million figure was developed from replies to letters he wrote to all principal federal agencies asking them how much money they were currently spending with private companies that provide service in competition with the Postal Service.

Many federal entities, Thone said, make little or no use of the competitors. If they all used the private companies extensively, the Postal Service might lose the better part of a billion dollars a year in revenue, the congressman said.

THIS WOMAN IS STARVING HERSELF.

Whether you're losing weight or gaining it—too much of the wrong foods are just as bad as not enough of the right ones.

That's why we at Weight Watchers would like you to accept with our compliments a copy of our new booklet, Nutrition, Weight Control and You.

In it, Weight Watchers tells you everything you need to know about the basic nutrients and how these important elements pertain to weight control.

The booklet tells you why you can eat so much on the Weight Watchers food program and still lose weight. And answers that age-old puzzler, why some people lose weight faster than others.

9 Wiretaps OK'd In State In 1974

By The Associated Press
There were nine state-authorized wiretaps in Nebraska during 1974, each in the Omaha-Lincoln area, resulting in a total of 53 arrests.

The nine taps equaled the number authorized in 1973, according to a report filed by the administrative office of the U.S. Courts.

The 1974 taps involved 4,848 calls, and all but 15 were related to narcotics cases.

Those 15 involved a Lincoln kidnapping case which remains unsolved, according to Deputy Lancaster County Atty. Robert Gibson.

Each of the taps was authorized by judges. Judge William Blue of Lincoln authorized six, Judge James Buckley of Omaha, two, and Judge Ted Richling of Omaha, one.

There were no federally authorized taps in the state last year, although one did occur in 1973.

State-approved taps in 1973 took place in Dodge, Frontier and Sarpy counties, as well as in

UNL English Prof. Hough Dies At 50

Services are pending for a much-honored English professor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Dr. Robert L. Hough, of 3000 Stratford, who died in Lincoln Monday. He was 50.

Hough returned to full-time teaching in 1969 after serving as assistant, associate and finally acting dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He had taken the acting dean post for a short while until Dean Melvin George was appointed.

In 1972 Hough was awarded the Annis Chaikin Sorensen Award from the NU Foundation for distinguished teaching in humanities. He was credited with beginning the summer reading courses for UNL students.

He was a specialist in the 19th century American novel who also studied Nebraska authors, Willa Cather specifically.

The students liked him, according to their nominations which resulted in an Outstanding Nebraska Award from the student-run Daily Nebraskan in 1963.

He was a Los Angeles native who attended UNCLA, the University of Redlands at California and earned his bachelors degree from Pomona College at Claremont, Calif.

His masters work was done at Columbia, his Ph.D. at Stanford. He was a Phi Beta Kappa.

Among his published works is a study of the American social reform novelist William Dean Howells, "The Quiet Rebel." The University of Nebraska Press published his "The West of Owen Wister."

Hough was a chairman of the American Studies policy committee and a member of the UNL Teaching Council, the Modern Language Association and the Midwest Modern Language Association.

His survivors include his wife, June Rowley, sons, Tim and John, at home, and daughters, Allison and Carol, at home.

Fire Loss In Omaha $100,000

Omaha (AP) — City Engineer Marvin B. Staven said replacement of Omaha's asphalt plant, heavily damaged by a three-alarm fire early Monday, will cost at least $100,000.

Staven said the loss is not covered by insurance. The plant supplies patching in the winter and early spring for filling chuckholes.

Horton Dahlquist, chief arson investigator, said the cause of the fire is under investigation.

Staven said early reports indicated the blaze probably was caused by an overheated flue, but this had not been determined definitely.

Staven said the plant can be replaced in time for its busy season if money can be found. He said the plant is not normally used in the summer.

By The Associated Press
There were nine state-authorized wiretaps in Nebraska during 1974, each in the Omaha-Lincoln area, resulting in a total of 53 arrests.

The nine taps equaled the number authorized in 1973, according to a report filed by the administrative office of the U.S. Courts.

The 1974 taps involved 4,848 calls, and all but 15 were related to narcotics cases.

Those 15 involved a Lincoln kidnaping case which remains unsolved, according to Deputy Lancaster County Atty. Robert Gibson.

Each of the taps was authorized by judges. Judge William Blue of Lincoln authorized six, Judge James Buckley of Omaha, two, and Judge Ted Richling of Omaha, one.

There were no federally authorized taps in the state last year, although one did occur in 1973.

State-approved taps in 1973 took place in Dodge, Frontier and Sarpy counties, as well as in Douglas and Lancaster. Omaha activity was down last year from the five taps used in 1973, because authorities did not use wire taps in gambling investigations.

In Lincoln, only one tap was used in 1973. Gibson said the five Lincoln taps involving narcotics investigations occurred between last October and January of 1975.

He said the five taps culminated in the arrest of 49 people, five of whom have been convicted. He said the remaining 44 cases are pending.

Deputy Douglas County Atty. Jerry Merwald said two Omaha taps did not work as expected. In one case, some "premature arrests were made in another county that shouldn't have been."

He said the other unsuccessful Omaha tap involved an individual "who made a bundle, then apparently got out of the business."

The nine taps in Nebraska last year cost an estimated $48,800 according to Merwald and Gibson. But that figure includes the salaries of officers, who Merwald noted "would be working anyway."

The U.S. Courts' report said the average tap in the United States cost $8,000, while the three in Omaha figured out at $8,211 and the six in Lincoln averaged $4,150 each.

Seizures resulting from the taps totaled an estimated $65,000 in confiscated cash, heroin, marijuana and other drugs.

Ag Panel Wanted To Help Students

A study committee designed to help agriculture-related businesses and agriculture-orientated students get together to discuss jobs may have had its beginnings in the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee Monday.

Terry Bently, a Federal Land Bank public relations specialist from Omaha, told the committee he wanted to see some kind of statewide effort made to get agricultural students and jobs together.

"We have all been doing this on a fragmented basis. Each firm doing it alone — separate departments in the colleges doing a brochure for their own students. What is needed is a united effort to put out a regular program," Bently said.

The proposal received a favorable reception from the committee. Dr. Les Sheffield was appointed to represent the committee in the study group.

Bently said he hopes to recruit other committee members from the Omaha and Lincoln Agribusiness Clubs.

"It is strictly a feasibility study to see if such an effort would be self-supporting, because none of the organizations have any real money to invest in such an effort," Bently said.

Arson Possible In Two Fires At Apartments

Omaha (AP) — Fire officials Monday were probing the possibility of arson in two fires that caused about 50 residents to be evacuated through dense smoke early Sunday from the Edwards Apartments.

Asst. Fire Chief James Pattavina said evacuees included several families with small children and at least two elderly persons who have to walk with the aid of walkers.

Pattavina said the possibility of arson is being checked because fires were found in two storage areas on the ground floor of the building.

He said firemen also found back doors of the building open when they arrived.

Tornado Fund Reaches $11,327

Funds donated to aid tornado victims rose another $2,272.50 Monday.

This brings to $11,327.50 the total amount of donations collected by the Lincoln-Lancaster County Red Cross.

The Red Cross said Monday a total of $197,112 has been spent on tornado relief so far in Nebraska — $11,000 of it for mass feeding operations alone.

Contributions may be sent to: Red Cross Nebraska Tornado Disaster Fund, 1701 E St., Lincoln, 68502.

Ag Panel Wanted To Help Students

A study committee designed to help agriculture-related businesses and agriculture-orientated students get together to discuss jobs may have had its beginnings in the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee Monday.

Terry Bently, a Federal Land Bank public relations specialist from Omaha, told the committee he wanted to see some kind of statewide effort made to get agricultural students and jobs together.

"We have all been doing this on a fragmented basis. Each firm doing it alone — separate departments in the colleges doing a brochure for their own students. What is needed is a united effort to put out a regular program," Bently said.

The proposal received a favorable reception from the committee. Dr. Les Sheffield was appointed to represent the committee in the study group.

Bently said he hopes to recruit other committee members from the Omaha and Lincoln Agribusiness Clubs.

"It is strictly a feasibility study to see if such an effort would be self-supporting, because none of the organizations have any real money to invest in such an effort," Bently said.

Arson Possible In Two Fires At Apartments

Omaha (AP) — Fire officials Monday were probing the possibility of arson in two fires that caused about 50 residents to be evacuated through dense smoke early Sunday from the Edwards Apartments.

Asst. Fire Chief James Pattavina said evacuees included several families with small children and at least two elderly persons who have to walk with the aid of walkers.

Pattavina said the possibility of arson is being checked because fires were found in two storage areas on the ground floor of the building.

He said firemen also found back doors of the building open when they arrived.

Tornado Fund Reaches $11,327

Funds donated to aid tornado victims rose another $2,272.50 Monday.

This brings to $11,327.50 the total amount of donations collected by the Lincoln-Lancaster County Red Cross.

The Red Cross said Monday a total of $197,112 has been spent on tornado relief so far in Nebraska — $11,000 of it for mass feeding operations alone.

Contributions may be sent to: Red Cross Nebraska Tornado Disaster Fund, 1701 E St., Lincoln, 68502.

Persons who have contributed $10 or more are:

Chancellor Zumberge Stands By NU Regents Policy To Limit Tenure

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chancellor James Zumberge has developed procedures to limit tenure and "fully intends to abide by the resolution" the NU regents passed in April, ordering the plan ready on Friday.

A spokesman for Zumberge said the chancellor will deliver details of the plan when regents meet at the Milo Bail Student Center on the Omaha campus, at 10 a.m.

The plan, designed to insure that the number of tenured faculty will not exceed 75% of those eligible beginning this fall, was forwarded to the NU System office Monday.

School Lunch Limits Of Eligibility To Rise

New income guidelines from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to determine eligibility for free and reduced-price school meals will be about 11% higher next year.

For example, the eligibility level for a family of four will increase from $4,510 to $5,010, generally called the poverty level.

But Ray Steinert, school food services director for the State Department of Education, said the effect of the increase will "really be not too great" in Nebraska.

Steinert said the increased dollar limits reflect a higher cost of living, and "there will not be much difference as far as the amount of kids we'll be feeding next year."

The only exception is Omaha, he said, where "we expect to see a tremendous increase because of the tornado."

Across Nebraska Steinert said, school food statistics show more children have been fed than officials expected.

A year ago, "the number of children eligible for a free meal, if they would apply, was right around 48,000 to 49,000 per day," Steinert said. "By October last year, that had increased to 109,000," because of the drought and early killing frost which reduced farmers' marketable products.

But March estimates on claims for federal reimbursements in school food programs have fallen back to 59,000 to 62,000 he said, attributing that partially to a decline in the inflation rate.

The federal guidelines are minimums. State income guidelines can be 25% higher for free meals, up to $6,263, and 75% higher for reduced-price meals, up to $10,020, as set by the State Education Department.

"I think we'll go the maximum allowable," Steinert said, noting that Nebraska will probably conform with decisions in Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and Missouri at a July meeting.

The federal income factor for eligibility under the Aid to Dependent Children portion of the formula also will increase $500 in fiscal 1976, up to $5,050 for an urban family of four. It will not affect other children eligible for services under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, because the formula uses 1970 census data.

School Board To Eye Pool At Meadow Lane

The Lincoln Board of Education will consider approving final arrangements to build a swimming pool at Meadow Lane School at an 8 a.m. meeting Tuesday.

The board will meet in the Public Schools Administration Building, 720 S. 22nd.

The negotiated agreement with the Lincoln Education Association, granting teachers a 10.5% overall increase in pay and fringe benefits in 1975-76, will be presented for board approval.

Operation and maintenance personnel will request that 1975-76 contract negotiations begin, and representatives of the Office Workers Association, Teacher Aides and the Technicians Group will have board audiences to discuss negotiations.

Board members will hear an architect's report on gym flooring at Northeast High School, and a bid date for Lincoln High remodeling will be considered.

Plans will be discussed for a board organizational meeting May 19, when incumbent Williamette Shafer and new members Jo Ann Maxey and Lu Pansing will begin a new board term.

Ron Brandt, associate superintendent for instruction, will deliver a follow-up report on the 1973 senior high school study.

Kimball (AP) — Mrs. Barbara Swayze, 43, of Kimball entered a plea of innocent Monday to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

Mrs. Swayze appeared in District Court on the charge filed after a newborn infant was abandoned last June at the Lodgepole State Wayside Area west of Kimball.

Custody of the child was given to the State Welfare Department.

Judge John Knapp set a pretrial conference May 28.

Mrs. Swayze is free on $10,000 bond.

Is it really necessary to run an ad more than once to get results?

That's a good question...

QA and here's a good answer.

There have been, of course, ads which obtained results on just one appearance in the newspaper, but this is rare. The average time span is 3-1/2 days. This is a relatively short time to find a cash buyer for most items. However, three and a half weeks can be a very long time for people in need of the cash the sale of any item will bring. This is why your best approach is to run your ad each day, cancelling it after the advertised item has been sold. This not only assures you of quicker results, it also lets you run your ad at the lowest rate.

You'll find it is easy and inexpensive to advertise with us. Just call the number shown below. We will help you word your ad for maximum response.

The spokesman for Zumberge said no report will be made to regents on a third resolution, directing NU Executive Vice President Steven Sample to study NU tenure policies and to make recommendations to reduce the tenure fraction over the next several years.

No deadline was imposed in the directive to Sample, and a study committee reportedly is being formed.

Meanwhile, more than 50% of the UNL faculty members have signed cards calling for an election to establish collective bargaining, with representation by the American Association of University Professors. Nebraska law requires signatures from a minimum of 30%.

The AAUP campaign was a direct response to the regents' temporary suspension of tenure granting, which the Faculty Senate and other groups labeled "arbitrary," decrying lack of faculty input in the surprise decision.

The agenda for the Friday meeting includes recommendations to grant tenure to 19 faculty members at the NU Medical Center in Omaha.

NU Central administration officials will present a status report on collective bargaining and will request approval of 1975-76 salary guidelines. Uncompetitive salaries have been named as a side issue in the NU tenure-union controversy.

Regents will also consider an AAUP request for a dues checkoff (payroll deduction) and will hear a report on a request by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for recognition to represent Nebraska Educational Television employees.

Other UNL business items include approval of $2.6 million in bids to build an animal research and holding facility in the Animal Health Research Center; a program statement for the $14 million plant sciences complex, now stalled in the Legislature, and a status report on system capital construction projects.

Regents will be asked to reject bids received to sell 240 acres of the Agronomy Farm at 84th and Havelock; approve a $41,671 bid for a computerized data system in the horticulture department's agricultural meteorology section, and approve construction of audiometric test rooms for the Barkley Speech and Hearing Center, for $45,225.

The regents' academic affairs committee will consider recommending establishment of Peru State College as a residency center for an elementary education master's degree program at UNL and UNO.

Approval will be requested for a dual doctorate program in education and law, and a masters degree program in journalism, both at UNL. Minor modification of the UNL residence halls visitation policy will also be considered, to allow students more flexibility.

Attorneys R. Noonan and Bruce Wright will discuss with regents the implications of introducing the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute into the NU System.

Regents will also act on appointments to the summer school staff and graduate faculty.

Chancellor Zumberge Stands By NU Regents Policy To Limit Tenure

Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chancellor James Zumberge has developed procedures to limit tenure and "fully intends to abide by the resolution" the NU regents passed in April, ordering the plan ready on Friday.

A spokesman for Zumberge said the chancellor will deliver details of the plan when regents meet at the Milo Bail Student Center on the Omaha campus, at 10 a.m.

The plan, designed to insure that the number of tenured faculty will not exceed 75% of those eligible beginning this fall, was forwarded to the NU System office Monday.

Zumberge's spokesman said the UNL administration will make no counter-proposal to allow more than 75% of the faculty to hold tenure.

The spokesman said some tenure recommendations on 89 faculty members up for regents' approval last month, but which were deferred, will be re-submitted Friday. But no firm number has yet been established on how many of the 89 will be recommended and added to the agenda, he said.

The current percentage of tenured UNL faculty is about 73%, NU President D. B. Varner has said if all 89 tenure recommendations had been approved in April, that ratio would have climbed above 80%.

The spokesman for Zumberge said no report will be made to regents on a third resolution, directing NU Executive Vice President Steven Sample to study NU tenure policies and to make recommendations to reduce the tenure fraction over the next several years.

No deadline was imposed in the directive to Sample, and a study committee reportedly is being formed.

Meanwhile, more than 50% of the UNL faculty members have signed cards calling for an election to establish collective bargaining, with representation by the American Association of University Professors. Nebraska law requires signatures from a minimum of 30%.

School Lunch Limits Of Eligibility To Rise

New income guidelines from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to determine eligibility for free and reduced-price school meals will be about 11% higher next year.

For example, the eligibility level for a family of four will increase from $4,510 to $5,010, generally called the poverty level.

But Ray Steinert, school food services director for the State Department of Education, said the effect of the increase will "really be not too great" in Nebraska.

Steinert said the increased dollar limits reflect a higher cost of living, and "there will not be much difference as far as the amount of kids we'll be feeding next year."

The only exception is Omaha, he said, where "we expect to see a tremendous increase because of the tornado."

Across Nebraska Steinert said, school food statistics show more children have been fed than officials expected.

A year ago, "the number of children eligible for a free meal, if they would apply, was right around 48,000 to 49,000 per day," Steinert said. "By October last year, that had increased to 109,000," because of the drought and early killing frost which reduced farmers' marketable products.

But March estimates on claims for federal reimbursements in school food programs have fallen back to 59,000 to 62,000 he said, attributing that partially to a decline in the inflation rate.

The federal guidelines are minimums. State income guidelines can be 25% higher for free meals, up to $6,263, and 75% higher for reduced-price meals, up to $10,020, as set by the State Education Department.

"I think we'll go the maximum allowable," Steinert said, noting that Nebraska will probably conform with decisions in Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and Missouri at a July meeting.

The federal income factor for eligibility under the Aid to Dependent Children portion of the formula also will increase $500 in fiscal 1976, up to $5,050 for an urban family of four. It will not affect other children eligible for services under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, because the formula uses 1970 census data.

School Board To Eye Pool At Meadow Lane

The Lincoln Board of Education will consider approving final arrangements to build a swimming pool at Meadow Lane School at an 8 a.m. meeting Tuesday.

The board will meet in the Public Schools Administration Building, 720 S. 22nd.

The negotiated agreement with the Lincoln Education Association, granting teachers a 10.5% overall increase in pay and fringe benefits in 1975-76, will be presented for board approval.

Operation and maintenance personnel will request that 1975-76 contract negotiations begin, and representatives of the Office Workers Association, Teacher Aides and the Technicians Group will have board audiences to discuss negotiations.

Board members will hear an architect's report on gym flooring at Northeast High School, and a bid date for Lincoln High remodeling will be considered.

Plans will be discussed for a board organizational meeting May 19, when incumbent Williamette Shafer and new members Jo Ann Maxey and Lu Pansing will begin a new board term.

Ron Brandt, associate superintendent for instruction, will deliver a follow-up report on the 1973 senior high school study.

Judge Denies Appeal By Pioneer Insurance

Lancaster County District Judge William Hastings Monday denied a request for a temporary injunction to prevent the State Insurance Department from taking over supervision of Pioneer Insurance Co.

Pioneer attorneys had appealed Insurance Director James Jackson's March decision to take over supervision of the financially troubled Pioneer Insurance Co. and appoint Guy Smith as supervisor.

The appeal claims that Pioneer has been denied due process of law because proper notice was not given and a hearing was not conducted prior to the takeover. It also sought a temporary injunction to keep the State Insurance Department from interfering in the company business.

During Monday morning's hour-long hearing, Pioneer attorney Bernard Wisnow said the insurance company would be hurt by the department action.

Wisnow also told the court that Pioneer was willing to "concede and compromise" and wouldn't object to disclosing its business dealings in advance.

When Jackson announced the Insurance Department's supervisory role in the Pioneer operation, he outlined specific actions requiring prior approval from his office.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr said Wisnow painted a negative picture in order to get court action rather than following the Insurance Department regulation.

Pioneer could have asked for a departmental hearing if it had wanted to contest the appointment of a supervisor, Kammerlohr emphasized.

Big 8 Basketball Coaches To Talk Clock, Tourney

Big Eight Meetings Open

Big Eight basketball coaches kickoff the annual spring meetings of the conference starting Tuesday in Norman, Okla. Later on this week, athletic directors, faculty representatives, sports information directors and business managers will hold their meetings.

The basketball coaches have two important subjects to consider: Whether to continue with the 30 second clock and whether to go to a post-season tournament rather than retain the late December affair in Kansas City.

If I had a vote, I'd throw out the clock, vote no on the post-season tournament and vote to dispense with the December tournament.

My opposition to the clock would be ended if the NCAA Basketball Rules Committee put in a clock for its post-season tournament.

There are several reasons why I don't like the tournament — either in December or after the regular season. The preseason tourney makes money, sure, but basketball recruiting has to be affected when a prospect discovers he's going to spend Christmas week in Kansas City while other teams around the country are going to such exciting places as Hawaii, Los Angeles, New Orleans, and even New York or Philadelphia.

And who wants to play the same team three times in a season when a player could be getting more national exposure by competing in all sections of the country? These tournaments pay good money, too. At least, most of them do.

On the post-season affair to determine the NCAA tournament representative, why play the season if it's going to boil down to needing to win just three games to qualify for the nationals?

Money Matters On Agenda

The economic situation in college athletics will get a lions share of the attention from the athletic directors and faculty representatives.

One of the revenue generating proposals to be considered is the possibility of selecting sites for the various conference championship events — sites which traditionally have supported a particular sport.

One such site might be Lincoln for the outdoor track and field meet, which has been well supported when held here. Another might send the wrestling meet to such hotbeds as Iowa State, Oklahoma State or Oklahoma.

The league officials will discuss the possibility of setting up divisions for baseball competition. The idea of fall play for baseball suggested by NU's Tony Sharpe might also be discussed.

Representatives of the Orange Bowl will go over the new four-year contract which will send the Big Eight champion to the Miami classic each season.

Undoubtedly, the group will consider all the recommendations made at a recent special meeting of NCAA leaders in Kansas City to cut down expenses. These are the items which will be voted upon by the NCAA membership at a special convention in Chicago in mid-August.

Catching Up On Sports

Roba J. Farr, 69, who died here Monday, was an All-American honorable mention in baseball many years ago while playing at Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo. He also played professionally with the Kansas City Monarchs.

If you're planning ahead, the track and field meet between USA and USSR junior track stars in Lincoln July 4-5 will begin at 3 p.m. each afternoon and conclude shortly after 8 p.m. each evening. All events will be finals. The gruelling decathlon is on the program. Tickets are on sale at the NU ticket office in the South Stadium.

More basketball recruiting notes: Bryan Grevey, younger brother of Kentucky star Kevin Grevey, has signed with South Carolina. Tom Dore, 7-2 from Franklin Park, Ill., is going to Davidson.

Golf exhibition: Amy Alcott, a rookie on the women's golf tour, Jane Blalock, and Nebraska amateurs Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf and daughter Christie Travnicek will tee off for an 18-hole exhibition match at Benson Park in Omaha at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Sports Illustrated didn't like the one-game suspensions of four Nebraska footballers any more than Coach Tom Osborne. In last week's issue, the magazine said it was giving "The Bureaucracy in Action" award to both the NCAA and AAU. The AAU earned it by deciding that Dwight Stones' world record high jump wouldn't be approved because Stones hasn't taken out an AAU membership card this year.

Trivia: What player hit the most home runs in Yankee Stadium? No, not Babe. It was Mickey Mantle, who slammed 266 of them, Ruth was next with 259 and Lou Gehrig had 254. Joe DiMaggio had a mere 148.

Phelps Admits Interest Mounts

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

In the next two weeks, with district and state track competition on the horizon, Doug Phelps can be forgiven if he decides to hang a "Do Not Disturb" sign around his neck.

Recruiting pressure on the Hastings High School senior has intensified since he indicated two weeks ago that he would attend Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Phelps became even a bigger recruiting target last Saturday when he high jumped seven feet in the Big 10 Conference meet at Fremont.

"There seems to be a lot more interest," admits Phelps, an honor student and multi-sport standout who's achieved 6-8 or better five times this spring.

Phelps mentioned Nebraska in particular. Five years ago, the Conhuskers lost high jumper Kurt Nielsen to Nebraska Wesleyan.

Nielsen, a former Lincoln Northeast standout, made 7-foot jumps a habit at Wesleyan and achieved a career best of 7-2 1/2.

Nebraska track coaches apparently are determined not to miss another "blue chip" home-state high jumper. Phelps admits his interest in Nebraska has increased, but Wesleyan is still his primary college choice.

The 7-foot leap qualifies Phelps for the AAU Junior National Championships in Knoxville, Tenn., June 13-14. That meet could lead to a berth with an American all-star team, which will meet a Russian team in Lincoln July 4-5.

Phelps will compete Friday in district competition at Grand Island. The state high jump record-holder will be gunning to break the state district mark of 6-6 by Tim Mahanna of Centura last year.

The district track spotlight also will focus Friday on Lincoln where Lincoln High's Mike Washington will take aim at the state district shot put record of 58-3 1/4 set six years ago by Holdrege's Kirk Yentes.

Last weekend, Washington became the state's all-time leading shot putter with a 60-2 heave in the Eastern I-80 Conference meet at Papillion.

Washington's effort overshadowed another outstanding shot put effort last Friday. Beatrice's Mike Dando accomplished 58-9 1/4 in a dual meet against Lincoln Plus X, giving him the No. 6 spot on the all-time charts.

District meets this week include:

Wednesday — C-2 at North Bend; C-7 at Centura; D-1 and D-3 at Southeast Community College, Fairbury; D-2 at Tekamah.

Thursday — A-3 at Bellevue; B-2 at Plattsmouth; B-3 at Plainview; B-4 at Schuyler; B-5 at Lexington; B-6 at Scottsbluff; C-1 at Beatrice; C-3 at Norfolk; C-4 at Wood River; C-6 at Plainview; C-8 at McCook; D-4 at Central City; D-6 at Lexington; D-7 at Broken Bow; D-8 at McCook; D-9 at Bayard.

Friday — A-1 at Lincoln East; A-2 at Papillion; A-4 at Grand Island; B-1 at NU track, Lincoln; C-5 at Platte College, Columbus;

C-9 at Nebraska Western, Scottsbluff; D-5 at West Holt.

Bulls-Warriors Tilt Will Be Televised

Oakland (AP) — The seventh game of the Chicago Bulls-Golden State Warriors playoff, sold out more than a week in advance, will be shown on television.

The starting time for Wednesday night's national televised CBS game has been set for 8 p.m. CDT.

New Fad: Tobacco, Bubble Gum Mixed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Baseball's tobacco-chewing purists would sputter in disbelief and choke on their chaw.

Chewing tobacco mixed with bubble gum? Heresy! Not to Johnny Bench, Merv Rettenmund and coach Alex Grammas, "Gumball Wizards" of the Cincinnati Reds.

"It kills the taste," said Bench, his cheek bulging. "You don't chew the gum into the tobacco. You just kind of wrap it around the chaw to keep it together."

"I marinate mine in a soft drink," said Rettenmund, in any tones of a gourmet. "Makes it nice and juicy."

Pete Rose, who loathes tobacco of any form, finds the whole messy wad hard to swallow. "I tried tobacco once. Got sick. Didn't know you were supposed to spit the stuff out," he said.

Rose admits his disdain for tobacco goes deeper than simple distaste. "A damn umpire spit some on my shoe one time when I took the lineup card to home plate," he growled.

Bench said Grammas, a 27-

year veteran as player or coach, introduced him to the gumball. "He's an old pro at it," said Bench.

Grammas, an Alabamian, said the gumball is catching on in popularity, especially with the younger players who find the foul juices tough to stomach.

Rettenmund admits losing his first bout with chewing tobacco — "First time I tried it I got dizzy" — but the gumball was love at first bite. "Now I have special recipes," he said. "My best is the six-cent special—the deluxe gumball."

"You take two large sugarless sticks of gum and one flavored. You chew it until it's moist and soft. Then I take it out of my mouth, sit down on the dugout bench, spread it on my knee into a big square and then put a clump of tobacco in the middle of it. I wrap the gum around the tobacco and pop it back in."

Bench finds a good chaw of tobacco soothing to his nerves. "It's a release. Since you can't yell at the ump or say anything to the fans, you just spit," he said. "Gum wears out your jaws and sunflower seeds are messy, especially for a catcher."

How does he avoid the lice-risk look on his teeth?

"You brush your teeth a lot," said Bench. "And I use sugarless gum. Got to take care of the teeth."

Bench said tobacco as a home remedy which he offered on a television talk show nearly cost him a fan.

"I told the audience chewing tobacco helped me get rid of congestion when I had a bad cold," he said. "A week later I got a nasty letter from this little old lady who said she tried it—and got sick."

Turkey Hunters Note Success

By United Press International
Despite some poor weather and unwillingness of birds to respond to calls, spring turkey hunters had good success, the Nebraska Game Commission said Monday.

Shotgun hunters took 492 turkeys while 1,875 permits were issued. The success ratio was 26

Not Worrying Helps Watson Win Nelson

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Watson had a little talk with himself standing on the 14th tee Monday in the rain-delayed final round of the $175,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

The situation was hauntingly familiar.

He shared the lead, just as he'd done in this tournament a year ago. A year ago, he'd blown it—lofting one into the water.

"I told myself, 'Don't worry about what happened last year. Don't think about it. Put it out of your mind'."

"I did. I was able to do that. I put a nice, smooth, easy swing on it and got it in the middle of the fairway."

He made a routine par. He made a scrambling par on the next hole, then birdied the 16th and one hole later had it won.

"It's the greatest feeling in the world," he said.

He won it by two strokes over Bob E. Smith with a six-under-par 65 after he and Jack Ewing had engaged in a two-man fight down the stretch.

The personable Watson, who has had an unhappy history of failing to come through in clutch situations, took the second title of his four-year pro career with a 269 total, 15-under-par on the 6,957-yard Preston Trail Golf Club course.

Last season, the powerful, little Watson was tied for the lead after 67 holes of this tournament—then hit one in the water. He'd done it on three other occasions, too—blowing chances for victory in the Hawaiian Open, the World Open and the U.S. Open.

But it wasn't to happen on this hot, muggy day.

From a nine-man scramble when the day's play started, Watson and Ewing moved into a share of the lead and made it a two-man fight at the turn.

Watson put on the pressure with birdies on three of the next four holes and soared out in front alone when Ewing, fighting desperately for his first triumph in eight years on the tour, bogeyed the 16th and 17th.

"I just dogged it coming in," the disappointed Ewing said. "The wheels came off."

Playing in front of Watson, he was tied for the lead going to the 16th hole.

But the hard-hitting Ewing drove into the right rough, missed the green with his approach, chipped over the green, chipped back and one-putted for bogey.

That gave Watson the lead alone.

Ewing three-putted from a great distance—perhaps 60 feet—on the 17th just about the time the gritty Watson ran in a 15-to 18-foot birdie putt from the fringe on the 16th and his wife, Linda, broke into tears for the third time of the day.

Bob E. Smith birdied the final hole for a 67 that moved him past Ewing and into second alone at 271.

Ewing's 67 gave him a 272 total and third place.

Veteran Rod Funseth and Larry Nelson were one more stroke back at 273. Nelson had a 68 in the steamy, spring weather and Funseth shot a 70.

Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, a winner last week in Houston, could do no better than par-71 and was tied at 274 with one-time Dallas fireman Dwight Nevil. Nevil shot a 67.

Johnny Miller, a three-time winner this season and pre-tournament favorite, struggled to a 74 that left him tied for 35th at 281.

Miller needed only a tie for 27th to reclaim the season's money-winning led from the absent Jack Nicklaus. He didn't do it. His $844 check for this event left him $455 short.

Huskers, OU Eye Big Eight Crown

Norman, Okla. — Nebraska's baseball team will take a final stab at capturing the Big Eight championship in a doubleheader here Tuesday afternoon, and a single nine-inning contest Tuesday.

Should the Huskers sweep the three-game series it would tie the two teams for the league lead, but the crown would go to Nebraska for taking the series against the Sooners, now 12-3 in the Big Eight. With only one win in the series, though, Oklahoma would have its fourth straight baseball title.

"We're going down there with the idea we have a chance of winning all three games," said NU head coach Tony Sharpe. "Being realistic we know its going to be a tough series. The toughest we have all year."

Oklahoma is ranked sixth in the nation. "But we've played them well in the past years. Over the last 20 years my teams are 31-40 against the Sooners," said Sharpe. "And we know what it will take to win."

"We also know that if we win all three we're the champions, and if we lose all three we're going to be in fifth or sixth in the conference," Sharpe said of his Huskers, now 7-5 in the Big Eight.

"The coaches picked Nebraska to finish last in the league so for us to be battling for the title is quite an accomplishment," Sharpe said.

OU head coach Enos Semore expressed his doubts about how his team might fair against the Huskers. "I've talked to the other coaches in the conference and they feel this is the best Nebraska club in a long while. They are physically big and strong."

They score a lot of runs and have improved their pitching staff a lot," said Semore. "We're going to have to play well or Nebraska will take the series."

The Huskers will post their chances against the strong Sooner pitching staff, with five hitters batting over .350 and a league leading team batting average of .323.

NU Second baseman Gary Healey, the third leading hitter in the league is currently totting a .415 average, followed by shortstop Bryant Akisada (.378), Norm Glissman (.364), Steve McManaman (.359) and Doak Fowler (.350).

The Sooners, ranked third in batting in the conference with a .296 average, also have one of the top pitching staffs in collegiate baseball.

Bob Shirley, the all-time winningest pitcher in OU history (27 wins) will start the opener. Shirley is 9-1 on the year and 3-0 in the league with a 2.00 earned run average.

In the nightcap Breen Newcomer, 19-0 in his OU career, and 4-0 in the Big 8 this year will put his league leading ERA of 1.51 on the line. Sophomore hurler Marty Kunkler, 8-0, will start the Wednesday game. Kunkler is third on the Big 8 list with a 2.19 ERA.

Nebraska, third in the conference in pitching, will go with righthander Dave Buehrer in the opener and freshman Steve Nagel in the nightcap.

"Buehrer has really pitched well in his last few appearances. He's also the most experienced against the Sooners and had a fine game against them last year," said Sharpe.

"If our pitching holds up and we swing the bat well we could be coming back with the championship," Sharpe said.

Youngren: Group Business Increasing At Ak-Sar-Ben

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Group business has never been better at Ak-Sar-Ben. "Based on the reservations we have now, I'd say our group business will be up by almost 30% over last year," projected Harold Youngren, Ak-Sar-Ben's director of information who supervises the group tours to the Omaha track.

Youngren said last year's 429 groups who contacted the Ak-Sar-Ben general offices for accommodations were a record. This year, 194 groups have been arranged for May and 177 for the rest of the Omaha meet which ends on July 12.

"That's 371 for the rest of the year without two major bus companies," Youngren explained. "So, I'm sure we'll surpass the 500-mark for the first time ever."

As an example of the increased group activity at Ak-Sar-Ben, 39 buses brought patrons here on the opening Saturday. That compared with 24 on a corresponding date in 1974.

"A big share of the bus business comes from the Kansas City area," he said. "In fact, last year, almost 62% of our group business was from Greater Kansas City. We had another large group from the state of Kansas, particularly Topeka, and from Iowa and Des Moines."

Groups received a special rate when they contact Ak-Sar-Ben. On weekdays, groups of 25 or more persons receive a discount admission ticket for 75 cents. The regular admission is $1.25.

In fact, a group of more than 100 persons from Minneapolis, known as the West End Sports Club, charters an airplane and makes several trips to attend the Ak-Sar-Ben races each season.

"We're starting to advertise and get requests for information from people in Tulsa and Oklahoma City," Youngren said. "It's not really as far away as it seems. I'd guess some parts of Oklahoma aren't much more than 400 miles away."

"They have a lot of groups from Oklahoma that go to the races at Oaklawn Park (in Hot Springs, Ark.)," he continued. "And I'm sure we're getting some of those people that went to Oaklawn (which ended its 50-day season in early April)."

Youngren said Ak-Sar-Ben has never received much group business from Lincoln because of its close proximity to Ak-Sar-Ben.

"Most of the people in Lincoln just drive up here in cars with their friends since it's only about an hour away," he said. "It's generally not an organized group, but rather three or four people getting in a car and going to the races." Nevertheless, recent surveys have indicated that more than half of the race patrons are from outside the Omaha metropolitan area.

A recent survey of license plates on cars in the parking lots indicated that almost all states in the continental United States were represented.

Naturally, the states adjacent to Nebraska dominated.

"We try to appeal to people from all over," Youngren said. "We think it's a great entertainment package."

One of the revenue generating proposals to be considered is the possibility of selecting sites for the various conference championship events — sites which traditionally have supported a particular sport.

One such site might be Lincoln for the outdoor track and field meet, which has been well supported when held here. Another might send the wrestling meet to such hotbeds as Iowa State, Oklahoma State or Oklahoma.

The league officials will discuss the possibility of setting up divisions for baseball competition. The idea of fall play for baseball suggested by NU's Tony Sharpe might also be discussed.

Representatives of the Orange Bowl will go over the new four-year contract which will send the Big Eight champion to the Miami classic each season.

Undoubtedly, the group will consider all the recommendations made at a recent special meeting of NCAA leaders in Kansas City to cut down expenses. These are the items which will be voted upon by the NCAA membership at a special convention in Chicago in mid-August.

Catching Up On Sports

Roba J. Farr, 69, who died here Monday, was an All-American honorable mention in baseball many years ago while playing at Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo. He also played professionally with the Kansas City Monarchs.

If you're planning ahead, the track and field meet between USA and USSR junior track stars in Lincoln July 4-5 will begin at 3 p.m. each afternoon and conclude shortly after 8 p.m. each evening. All events will be finals. The gruelling decathlon is on the program. Tickets are on sale at the NU ticket office in the South Stadium.

More basketball recruiting notes: Bryan Grevey, younger brother of Kentucky star Kevin Grevey, has signed with South Carolina. Tom Dore, 7-2 from Franklin Park, Ill., is going to Davidson.

Golf exhibition: Amy Alcott, a rookie on the women's golf tour, Jane Blalock, and Nebraska amateurs Mrs. Dorothy Schwartzkopf and daughter Christie Travnick will tee off for an 18-hole exhibition match at Benson Park in Omaha at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Sports Illustrated didn't like the one-game suspensions of four Nebraska footballers any more than Coach Tom Osborne. In last week's issue, the magazine said it was giving "The Bureaucracy In Action" award to both the NCAA and AAU. The AAU earned it by deciding that Dwight Stones' world record high jump wouldn't be approved because Stones hasn't taken out an AAU membership card this year.

Trivia: What player hit the most home runs in Yankee Stadium? No, not the Babe. It was Mickey Mantle, who slammed 266 of them. Ruth was next with 259 and Lou Gehrig had 254. Joe DiMaggio had a mere 148.

Phelps Admits Interest Mounts

By RANDY YORK

In the next two weeks, with district and state track competition on the horizon, Doug Phelps can be forgiven if he decides to hang a "Do Not Disturb" sign around his neck.

Recruiting pressure on the Hastings High School senior has intensified since he indicated two weeks ago that he would attend Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Phelps became even a bigger recruiting target last Saturday when he high jumped seven feet in the Big 10 Conference meet at Fremont.

"There seems to be a lot more interest," admits Phelps, an honor student and multi-sport standout who's achieved 6-8 or better five times this spring.

Phelps mentioned Nebraska in particular. Five years ago, the Conhuskers lost high jumper Kurt Nielsen to Nebraska Wesleyan.

Nielsen, a former Lincoln Northeast standout, made 7-foot jumps a habit at Wesleyan and achieved a career best of 7-2 1/4.

Nebraska track coaches apparently are determined not to miss another "blue chip" home-state high jumper. Phelps admits his interest in Nebraska has increased, but Wesleyan is still his primary college choice.

The 7-foot leap qualifies Phelps for the AAU Junior National Championships in Knoxville, Tenn., June 13-14. That meet could lead to a berth with an American all-star team, which will meet a Russian team in Lincoln July 4-5.

Phelps will compete Friday in district competition at Grand Island. The state high jump record-holder will be gunning to break the state district mark of 6-6 by Tim Mahanna of Centura last year.

The district track spotlight also will focus Friday on Lincoln where Lincoln High's Mike Washington will take aim at the state district shot put record of 58-3 3/4 set six years ago by Holdrege's Kirk Yentes.

Last weekend, Washington became the state's all-time leading shot putter with a 60-2 heave in the Eastern I-80 Conference meet at Papillion.

Washington's effort overshadowed another outstanding shot put effort last Friday. Beatrice's Mike Dando accomplished 58-9 1/4 in a dual meet against Lincoln Pius X, giving him the No. 6 spot on the all-time charts.

District meets this week include:

Wednesday — C-2 at North Bend; C-7 at Centura; D-1 and D-3 at Southeast Community College, Fairbury; D-2 at Tekamah.

Thursday — A-3 at Bellevue; B-2 at Plattsmouth; B-3 at Plainview; B-4 at Schuyler; B-5 at Lexington; B-6 at Scottsbluff; C-1 at Beatrice; C-3 at Norfolk; C-4 at Wood River; C-6 at Plainview; C-8 at McCook; D-4 at Central City; D-6 at Lexington; D-7 at Broken Bow; D-8 at McCook; D-9 at Bayard.

Friday — A-1 at Lincoln East; A-2 at Papillion; A-4 at Grand Island; B-1 at NU track, Lincoln; C-5 at Platte College, Columbus;

C-9 at Nebraska Western, Scottsbluff; D-5 at West Holt.

Bulls-Warriors Tilt Will Be Televised

Oakland (AP) — The seventh game of the Chicago Bulls-Golden State Warriors' playoff, sold out more than a week in advance, will be shown on television.

The starting time for Wednesday night's national televised CBS game has been set for 8 p.m. CDT.

New Fad: Tobacco, Bubble Gum Mixed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Baseball's tobacco-chewing purists would sputter in disbelief and choke on their chaw.

Chewing tobacco mixed with bubble gum? Heresy!

Not to Johnny Bench, Merv Rettenmund and coach Alex Grammas, "Gumball Wizards" of the Cincinnati Reds.

"It kills the taste," said Bench, his cheek bulging. "You don't chew the gum into the tobacco. You just kind of wrap it around the chaw to keep it together."

"I marinate mine in a soft drink," said Rettenmund, in airy tones of a gourmet. "Makes it nice and juicy."

Pete Rose, who loathes tobacco of any form, finds the whole messy was hard to swallow. "I tried tobacco once. Got sick. Didn't know you were supposed to spit the stuff out," he said.

Rose admits his disdain for tobacco goes deeper than simple distaste. "A damn umpire spit some on my shoe one time when I took the lineup card to home plate," he growled.

Bench said Grammas, a 27-

year veteran as player or coach, introduced him to the gumball. "He's an old pro at it," said Bench.

Grammas, an Alabamian, said the gumball is catching on in popularity, especially with the younger players who find the foul juices tough to stomach.

Rettenmund admits losing his first bout with chewing tobacco—"First time I tried it I got dizzy"—but the gumball was love at first bite. "Now I have special recipes," he said. "My best is the six-cent special—the deluxe gumball."

"You take two large sugarless sticks of gum and one flavored. You chew it until it's moist and soft. Then I take it out of my mouth, sit down on the dugout bench, spread it on my knee into a big square and then put a clump of tobacco in the middle of it. I wrap the gum around the tobacco and pop it back in."

Bench finds a good chaw of tobacco soothing to his nerves. "It's a release. Since you can't yell at the ump or say anything to the fans, you just spit," he said. "Gum wears out your jaws and sunflower seeds are messy, especially for a catcher."

How does he avoid the licorice look on his teeth?

"You brush your teeth a lot," said Bench. "And I use sugarless gum. Got to take care of the teeth."

Bench said tobacco as a home remedy which he offered on a television talk show nearly cost him a fan.

"I told the audience chewing tobacco helped me get rid of congestion when I had a bad cold," he said. "A week later I got a nasty letter from this little old lady who said she tried it—and got sick."

Turkey Hunters Note Success

By United Press International
Despite some poor weather and unwillingness of birds to respond to calls, spring turkey hunters had good success, the Nebraska Game Commission said Monday.

Shotgun hunters took 492 turkeys while 1,875 permits were issued. The success ratio was 26 per cent, three per cent below a year earlier.

This was the first time since annual turkey shooting was authorized in 1964 that a special archery season was held. The commission said 21 of the 289 hunters issued bow permits took birds.

That gave Watson the lead alone.

Norman, Okla. — Nebraska's baseball team will take a final stab at capturing the Big Eight championship in a doubleheader here Tuesday afternoon, and a single nine-inning contest Tuesday.

Should the Huskers sweep the three-game series it would tie the two teams for the league lead, but the crown would go to Nebraska for taking the series against the Sooners, now 12-3 in the Big Eight. With only one win in the series, though, Oklahoma would have its fourth straight baseball title.

"We're going down there with the idea we have a chance of winning all three games," said NU head coach Tony Sharpe. "Being realistic we know its going to be a tough series. The toughest we have all year."

Oklahoma is ranked sixth in the nation.

"But we've played them well in the past years. Over the last 20 years my teams are 31-40 against the Sooners," said Sharpe. "And we know what it will take to win."

"We also know that if we win all three we're the champions, and if we lose all three we're going to be in fifth or sixth in the conference," Sharpe said of his Huskers, now 7-5 in the Big Eight.

The coaches picked Nebraska to finish last in the league so far as to be battling for the title is quite an accomplishment."

Nevertheless, recent surveys have indicated that more than half of the race patrons are from outside the Omaha metropolitan area.

Allen Anticipates Better Relations

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Allen must be taking diplomacy lessons from Henry Kissinger.

The 33-year-old Allen stood in his locker space in the Philadelphia Phillies' clubhouse Monday and greeted old enemies like he was trying to win the Nobel Peace Prize.

"Hi there," he said to an old adversary from the media. "Long time no see." And you got the feeling he was glad to see the guy.

"Right back where it all started Rich, cove, Dick," said the media man, sort of feeling his way.

"Like Smokey the Bear, I'm making tracks but not going anywhere," replied Allen, who began his major league career in 1963 with the Phillies.

"I hope it's better this time," Allen added, a faraway look in his eyes indicating he hadn't forgotten the controversies, his constant battle with the media.

Allen was reacquired by the Phillies last Wednesday after tours of duty with the St. Louis Cardinals, Los Angeles Dodgers and Chicago White Sox. He's been taking batting practice and doing a lot of running to get in shape.

"He'll start at first base Wednesday night," Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark announced.

Allen at times played the contrite kid. "What more can I do? Maybe show up for a change?" joked the slugger recognized for his tardiness and absence almost as much as for his great hitting.

Then, in the next breath, Allen said: "I'll be honest with you. From the bottom of my heart the only ones I displeased were a few members of the press. I wanted privacy and there were a few incidents. They got in the newspapers and stirred people up."

Quickly, Allen went the other way: "I expect it to be a little different this time. I'll put my hand in God and walk with him. I'm sure it will be all right. I don't want to do nothing but hit that ball."

Allen says he's swinging the bat as well as he ever did, which is pretty good. He has a lifetime batting average of .296, with 319 home runs and 977 runs batted in in 12 major league seasons. He hit .301 with 32 homers and 88 RBI before leaving the White Sox last year, three weeks before the season ended.

"I'm hitting them just like I did the other 12 years," he said.

Someone asked if he ever thought about what he might have accomplished if he'd had a

Dodgers Edge Cardinals, 6-4

By United Press International
Tom Paciorek drove in the go-ahead run with a single and then Rick Auerbach drove home two more runs with another single in the 10th inning Monday night to lift the Los Angeles Dodgers over the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-4.

Ron Fairly opened the ninth by bobbling a Willie Crawford grounder. After Crawford was out trying to steal, Steve Garvey and Ron Cey hit consecutive singles. Joe Ferguson flied out and then Paciorek drove in Garvey and Auerbach drove in Cey and Paciorek.

Jim Brewer got the win after Dodger starter Andy Messersmith left the game when he became ill with the flu. Messersmith hit a run-scoring double, striking out three and walking one, as he allowed five hits.

In other NL action, Montreal blasted Atlanta 11-1 and New York trimmed San Francisco 3-1.

Rookie Pat Scanlon smashed a three-run homer, his first in the majors, for the Expos' big blow against the Braves behind the eight-hit pitching of Steve Rogers. Rookie Gary Carter hit a solo homer in the second off former Expo Carl Morton who suffered his first loss against his one-time teammates after beating them six straight times over two seasons and also suffered his third straight loss after winning his first five decisions this year.

Joe Torre poked a three-run double in the seventh inning to give Jon Matlack his third win and the Mets a victory over the Giants. Torre, who had committed two errors earlier in the game, lined the ball up the right center field alley against reliever Gary Lavelle to give Manager Yogi Berra a present on his 50th birthday.

The Cincinnati Reds were rained out at Philadelphia after two innings.

In AL action, Detroit blanked Kansas City 5-0.

Vern Ruhle, with relief help from John Hiller, shut out the Royals on nine hits and rookie Leon Roberts hit a three-run homer as the Tigers picked up a

Houston Captures WHA Title

QUEBEC (AP) — Gordie Howe, the 47-year-old legendary figure of professional hockey, says he'll likely stick to his decision to retire next season.

Howe, along with son Mark, led the Houston Aeros to their second consecutive World Hockey Association championship Monday night with a 7-2 victory over the Quebec Nordiques, sweeping the first four games of the best-of-seven playoff final.

"I think I'll stick to my guns," the elder Howe said of his announced retirement. "Some people said I should have quit last year because we had such a successful club. But they asked me to play again this season and I knew we had good team spirit, so I did."

Howe said he will move into the Aeros' front off next season and that if a proposed sale of the Aeros goes through, he will become president of the club.

"If it happens, I'll have to work my tail off, especially since we're going into a 15,000-plus stadium. If the new buyers think that much of me to put me in as a rookie president, I'll have my work cut out for me."

WHA President Dennis Murphy presented the championship trophy to Houston team captain Ted Taylor, but the elder Howe, now 47, had the honor of announcing the name of the recipient of a trophy named after him. The Howe Trophy goes to the player voted the most valuable in the playoffs.

It was won by Houston's Ron Grahame, the rookie goalie from the University of Denver.

First period—1. Houston, G. Howe 7 (Hinsle, Lund); 2. 4. Quebec, Houle 9 (Tardif, Bernier); 3. 6. 3. Houston, M. Howe 10 (Hinsle, Lund); 12. 18. 4. Houston, Labossiere 4 (Schella, Hall); 19. 33. Penalties: Jordan 2:02, Popel 5:33, Roy 7:12, Taylor 8:38, Southerland 12:10, Preston 17:30.

Second period—5. Houston, G. Howe 8 (Lund); 7. 36. Quebec, Houle 10 (Bernier, Brodeur); 14. 51. Houston, Hughes 5 (M. Howe, Sheritt); 16. 52. Penalties: Popel 10:14, Larway 13:06, Roy 15:30, Lund 15:30, G. Howe 19:45.

Third period—8. Houston, Lund 5 (Popel); 14. 07. 9. Houston, Hughes 6 (Howe, Lund); 18. 30. Penalties: G. Howe 2:28, Lacombe 17:15.

Goalenders: Houston, Grahame; Quebec, Brodeur. A-8,426.

Nebraska Seventh In All-Sports Race

Nebraska is currently seventh place in the Big Eight Conference all sports standings. With four sports left to complete their seasons, the Cornhuskers, with 35½ points, trail Kansas State by one point. Colorado is eighth, two points behind Nebraska. The Cornhuskers' hopes for moving up appreciably are dim as NU hasn't a strong team in any of the four sports left to go — baseball, tennis, outdoor track and golf. Nebraska's best effort came in gymnastics after coach Francis Allen's team earned a bid to the nationals with a second-place finish behind defending NCAA champion Iowa State.

The Huskers were tied for second in football with Missouri. Oklahoma is the leader by a comfortable margin over Iowa State. The Sooners have just 23 points, five better than the Cyclones. The Sooners have a good chance of retaining their margin. Oklahoma is likely to win the Big Eight baseball title and are strong contenders in golf and tennis.

Gas Tax Hike Advanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill Monday imposing a multibillion-dollar gasoline tax while punishing energy waste and rewarding conservation.

The 19-16 vote climaxed what Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., termed a "long, tough ordeal" for the committee.

Four Democrats joined the committee's 12 Republicans in dissent.

Then the committee agreed 27-8 that a windfall profits tax on petroleum producers should not be included in this energy tax package.

Such a levy would have been intended to drain away any excess petroleum industry profits resulting from price controls taken off U.S. crude oil. Price decontrol legislation is tied up in the House Commerce Committee's energy subcommittee.

The tax bill could be before the full House by next week.

The bill would boost the federal tax on gasoline by as much as 23 cents a gallon during the next few years, create quotas and new duties on imported petroleum, tax gas-guzzling new cars if automakers fail to meet mileage efficiency standards, tax some industrial and business use of petroleum and natural gas, set up a trust fund to encourage developing new energy sources, and give personal tax cuts to Americans who install energy-conserving home insulation.

The committee rejected, 23-12, an attempt to eliminate the measure's quota section, which Ullman described as "a very basic part of the bill."

A key vote came when the committee, reversing itself, decided 23-12, to eliminate a provision authorizing standby machinery for the U.S. government to become the sole buyer and seller of imported oil.

The central feature of the bill would be a boost in the present 4 cents a gallon general tax on gasoline, where each 1 cent a gallon increase produces $1 billion in revenue.

The measure would provide for a 3 cents a gallon hike next year — generating roughly $3 billion. That would be followed in 1977 by an increase of another 20 cents a gallon, coming in 5 cents a gallon stages.

Union Painters On Strike

About 65 members of Lincoln's Painters Local 1923 were on strike Monday, but a spokesman for that group said other construction tradesmen in Lincoln were working as normal.

Ed Kleinenwer, financial secretary for Local 1923, said representatives will meet with the Building Construction Employers Association of Lincoln

Wednesday to try and hammer out a new contract.

Purpose of the painters' strike, Kleinenwer said, is to keep certain provisions, including safety precautions, in the new contract. Wages are not the critical issue, he said.

The two-year contract for Local 1923 members expired April 1.

Big, Little Tasks Performed By Patient Representatives

By JOANNE FARRIS

Question. — I've been a volunteer in the local hospital for three years. At first I worked in a gift shop, but I now consult the patients about their menus. I admit I enjoy being 'on the floor' so to speak and working with patients directly.

I have met a woman who works for the hospital as a paid patient representative. I believe she handles patients' complaints and cuts through red tape to get certain services for them and their families.

Is there much call for patient representatives in hospitals? I think I would like to be one.

In essence, patient representatives are proof to the patients that someone does care about them as persons with non-medical needs and feelings that need attention.

Patient representatives find the time to listen to patients. Many times they can improve service which the staff did not know was poor. They can do little things like getting a TV adjusted or seeing that a patient gets a promised walk to the sunroom. They do big things like getting information about what tests are scheduled and why, if the patient wants to know they even sometimes help the patient get vital information about whether or not to accept a certain proposed treatment.

Patients' rights are involved in all these patterns. As medicine becomes increasingly complex, it is easy for doctors to forget that their patients need to know what is happening, what to expect, how they are going to feel etc.

We all know that knowledge often displaces fear, and the patient representative helps the patient get knowledge needed for this purpose.

Questions about this vocation can be addressed to her.

This is a new, interesting, serving and caring kind of job that many senior citizens can enjoy and which they are well qualified to handle.

It depends. Stare at them for a few seconds and the 6 cubes suddenly become 7. It's just a visual illusion. MUZAK is like that. It's what you might call an aural illusion. It sounds like music but it's actually a scientifically conditioned musical environment. One that people don't really listen to but react to psychologically and physiologically.

Companies all over the world — large and small — use MUZAK as a programmed musical climate to motivate people and increase their efficiency. It is easily one of the most effective, low-cost management tools you can use to stimulate your employees to greater production.

We can show you precisely how MUZAK can work for you most profitably. No obligation at all. # Gas Tax Hike Advanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill Monday imposing a multibillion-dollar gasoline tax while punishing energy waste and rewarding conservation.

The 19-16 vote climaxed what Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., termed a "long, tough ordeal" for the committee.

Four Democrats joined the committee's 12 Republicans in dissent.

Then the committee agreed 27-8 that a windfall profits tax on petroleum producers should not be included in this energy tax package.

Such a levy would have been intended to drain away any excess petroleum industry profits resulting from price controls being taken off U.S. crude oil. Price decontrol legislation is tied up in the House Commerce Committee's energy subcommittee.

The tax bill could be before the full House by next week.

The bill would boost the federal tax on gasoline by as much as 23 cents a gallon during the next few years, create quotas and new duties on imported petroleum, tax gas-guzzling new cars if automakers fail to meet mileage efficiency standards, tax some industrial and business use of petroleum and natural gas, set up a trust fund to encourage developing new energy sources, and give personal tax cuts to Americans who install energy-conserving home insulation.

The committee rejected, 23-12, an attempt to eliminate the measure's quota section, which Ullman described as "a very basic part of the bill."

A key vote came when the committee, reversing itself, decided 23-12, to eliminate a provision authorizing standby machinery for the U.S. government to become the sole buyer and seller of imported oil.

The central feature of the bill would be a boost in the present 4 cents a gallon general tax on gasoline, where each 1 cent a gallon increase produces $1 billion in revenue.

The measure would provide for a 3 cents a gallon hike next year — generating roughly $3 billion. That would be followed in 1977 by an increase of another 20 cents a gallon, coming in 5 cents a gallon stages.

Union Painters On Strike

About 65 members of Lincoln's Painters Local 1923 were on strike Monday, but a spokesman for that group said other construction tradesmen in Lincoln were working as normal.

Ed Kleineweber, financial secretary for Local 1923, said representatives will meet with the Building Construction Employers Association of Lincoln Wednesday to try and hammer out a new contract.

Purpose of the painters' strike, Kleineweber said, is to keep certain provisions, including safety precautions, in the new contract. Wages are not the critical issue, he said.

The two-year contract for Local 1923 members expired April 1.

Big, Little Tasks Performed By Patient Representatives

By JOANNE FARRIS

Question: — "I've been a volunteer in the local hospital for three years. At first I worked in a gift shop, but I now consult the patients about their menus. I admit I enjoy being 'on the floor' so to speak and working with patients directly."

"I have met a woman who works for the hospital as a paid patient representative. I believe she handles patients' complaints and cuts through red tape to get certain services for them and their families."

"Is there much call for patient representatives in hospitals? I think I would like to be one."

Answer: — This is a kind of job that might be perfect for you. It takes a knowledge of the hospital and how it operates, and, in fact, who operates it. More than that, it requires genuine interest in the patients and concern for their well-being.

Patient representatives are ombudsmen (or ombudswomen). They represent the patient to the staff and administration. They understand that patients have rights in hospitals, and they teach the staff members to support these rights.

In essence, patient representatives are proof to the patients that someone does care about them as persons with non-medical needs and feelings that need attention.

Patient representatives find the time to listen to patients. Many times they can improve service which the staff did not know was poor. They can do little things like getting a TV adjusted or seeing that a patient gets a promised walk to the sunroom. They do big things like getting information about what tests are scheduled and why, if the patient wants to know; they even sometimes help the patient get vital information about whether or not to accept a certain proposed treatment.

Patients' rights are involved in all these patterns. As medicine becomes increasingly complex, it is easy for doctors to forget that their patients need to know what is happening, what to expect, how they are going to feel, etc.

We all know that knowledge often displaces fear, and the patient representative helps the patient get knowledge needed for this purpose.

Some analysts said they were impressed and even a little surprised by the market's seeming calm over the Cambodian incident.

Under other circumstances—without the evident optimism over the economic future that has been underlying the market for several months—the general view on Wall Street was that there might have been a substantial selloff.

One supporting factor was Friday's report of a big drop in business inventories in March—a development which in theory clears the way for an earlier economic recovery because it reduces the buildup of goods clogging the pipelines of the distribution system.

Commonwealth Edison, the day's most active issue, slipped 1/4 to 24 1/4. A block of 563,000 shares of the northern and central Illinois utility's stock traded near the close at 24 1/4.

Occidental Petroleum, also active, added 1/4 to 16 1/2 after a 1 1/2-point gain Friday. Late Monday morning, the company announced it had found a new natural gas field in California's Sacramento Valley.

Tension Eased In Biofeedback

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

If you suffer from chronic tension, high blood pressure or migraine headaches, there may be a machine in your future.

A procedure known as biofeedback, which makes use of electronic equipment to measure bodily functions, has proven itself a valuable tool in overcoming such maladies, according to Dr. Jerry Shannon.

Dr. Shannon, a psychologist who is biofeedback unit coordinator at the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Center, said, in the case of migraines, 60 to 85% of those who learn the biofeedback approach notice an amelioration or elimination of their headaches.

Biofeedback is based on the fact that such "automatic" bodily functions as temperature, heart rate and blood pressure can, to some extent, be consciously controlled.

Practitioners of meditation methods associated with Eastern cultures have long been aware of this, Dr. Shannon said.

However, until fairly recently, Western society believed that "involuntary" functions were beyond the range of conscious control.

Out The Window
That belief was thrown out the laboratory window when researchers discovered they could train rats to control certain bodily functions, Dr. Shannon said.

The biofeedback concept dates back about 15 years, he continued. But the procedures were not widely used until three or four years ago.

A person undergoing biofeedback training relies on an electronic instrument or instruments to detect the function in question, amplify it and communicate it back to him by means of a tone, light or meter.

By observing the feedback registered on the machine, most people can learn some control over some bodily functions.

At this time, the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Center has biofeedback equipment for treating migrain headaches (a temperature feedback unit), and tension states (an electromyograph, EMG, which reads muscular activity).

Mental Health Center personnel use biofeedback with some clients as an adjunct to psychotherapy or other counseling, Dr. Shannon said.

In addition, the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College offers a "tension reduction" course which utilizes the biofeedback equipment and personnel at the center.

Rehabilitation
"Probably one of the most beneficial areas" in which biofeedback is used is physical rehabilitation, Dr. Shannon said.

Physical therapists "have had some fantastic results" using biofeedback to train physically disabled people to regain control over their muscles, he said.

Biofeedback is also useful to industrial engineers, said Dr. David Cochran, assistant professor of industrial and management systems engineering at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The Industrial Engineering Department at UNL is currently using some biofeedback equipment, Dr. Cochran said, plans to obtain more.

In industrial engineering, the biofeedback equipment is used to measure what kind of effect certain work-related activities and situations have on such things as heart rate and oxygen consumption.

During testing, the researcher monitors the results — the subject of the experiment does not see them, Dr. Cochran said. The subject is not asked to try to control any functions.

The purpose of such research, according to Dr. Cochran, is to enable industrial engineers to devise working situations and tasks that will encourage optimum worker performance.

"We deal with all types of labor from white collar on down to physical labor," he said.

Controversy Brewing
At the present time, there is a controversy brewing over the increasing availability of biofeedback equipment, Dr. Shannon said.

"Manufacturers are really gearing up" to produce the equipment — some of which is being sold for home use.

"There could be a few risks" for some people if they used biofeedback equipment without supervision, he said.

For example, if an individual who has had high blood pressure for a long time reduces his blood pressure through biofeedback, there could be a risk of stroke, he explained.

Because of concern over the proliferation of the equipment, a bill is pending in Congress which would put biofeedback equipment under the control of the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

Proponents of the bill believe the equipment should be made available only through a doctor's prescription.

'Take Over'
Dr. Marty Klein, assistant professor of psychology at Nebraska Wesleyan University, said attempts to place the equipment under FDA control may result from the medical profession's desire to "take over" biofeedback.

Noting that virtually all of the pioneering and contemporary research on biofeedback has been done by psychologists, Dr. Klein said, "Physicians are pretty much ignorant of what it is used for."

And he added that, by limiting the use of biofeedback, physicians are trying to "protect their territory."

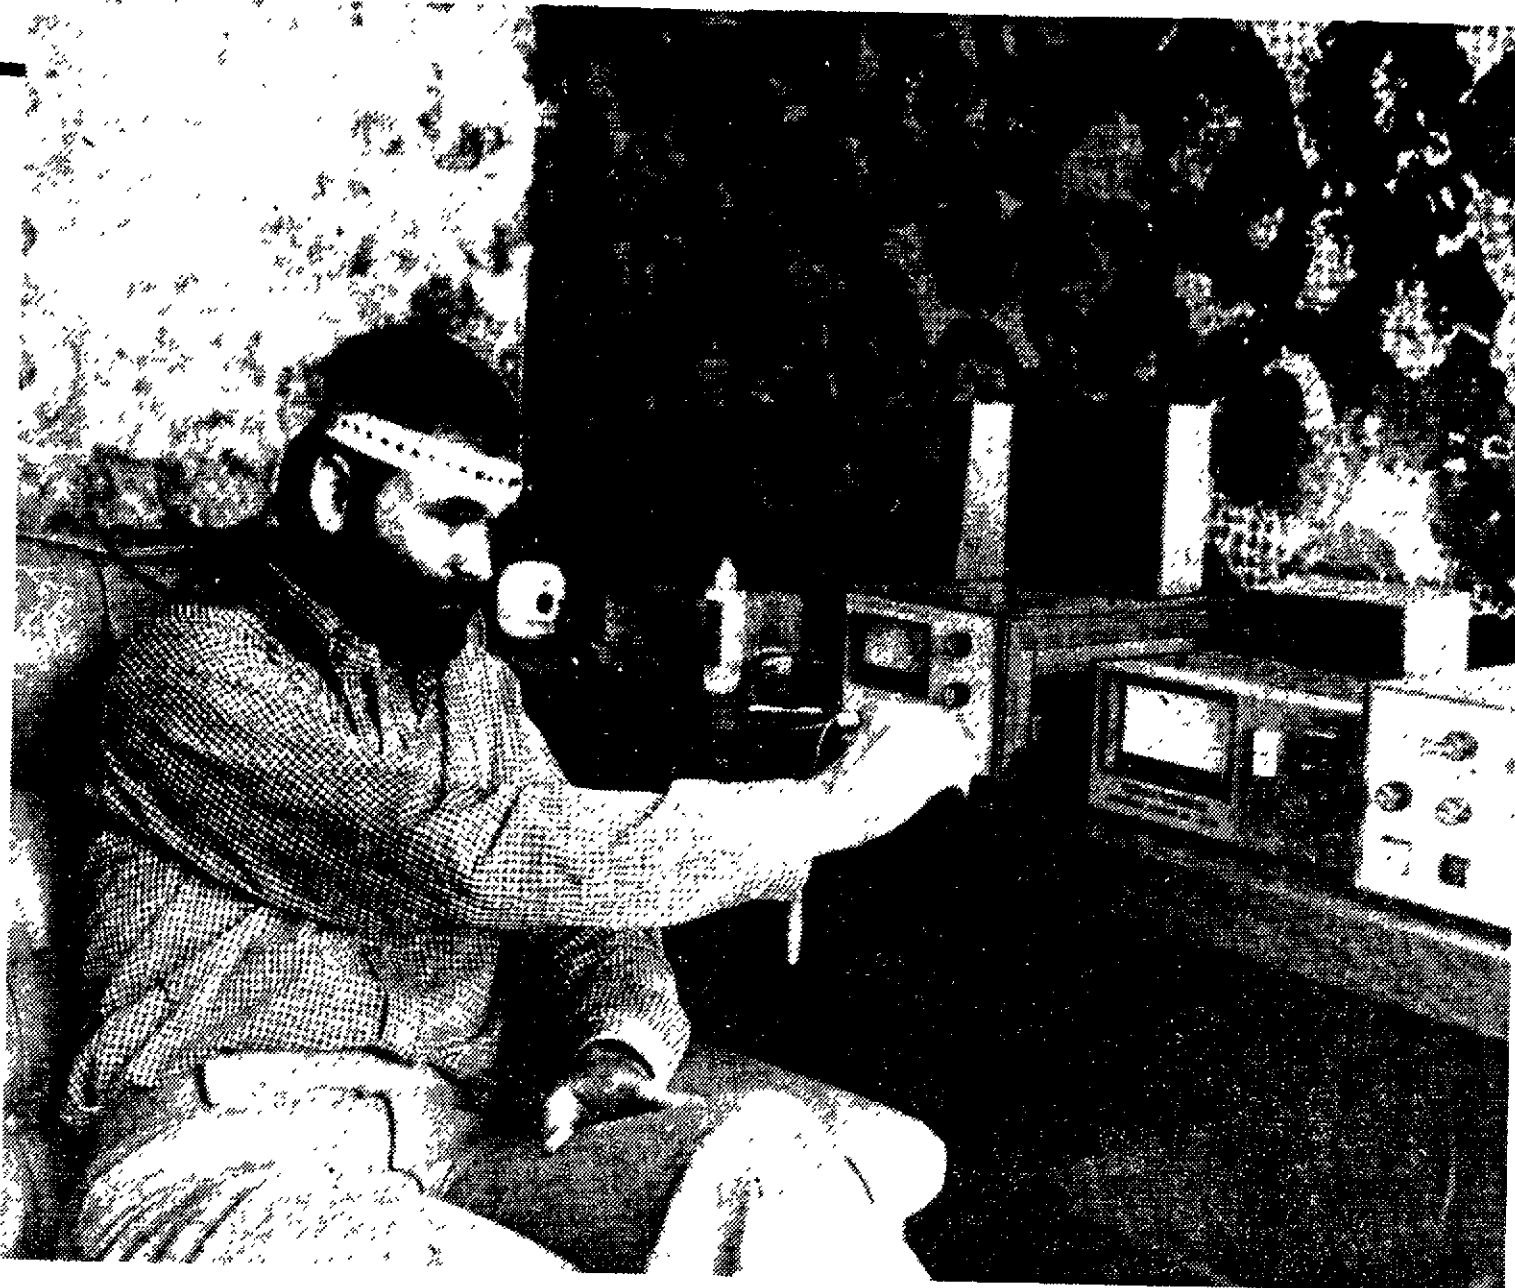

Dr. Shannon agreed, "There are some people who would like to see it used only in a medical setting."

"But, of course, psychologists are not in favor of that, given the type of process it is." However, it is important to "have medical liaison" when working with biofeedback, he added.

Lincoln psychiatrist, Dr. R. G. Osborne, uses biofeedback equipment in his private practice as well as at Veterans' Hospital.

Although it is rather unusual for a psychiatrist to have biofeedback equipment in his or her office, he said some are doing research with it and, in a few cases, using it clinically.

He said that generally, people in the medical field are "curious about it" and "are taking a 'wait and see' attitude."

Imaginary Image Helps Heat Hand

Imagine you're holding your hands over an open fire, or in the sunlight.

Concentrate on the sense of pulse in your hands.

These are few of the suggestions a biofeedback specialist might make to a person undergoing biofeedback training in order to overcome migraine headaches.

But what do your hands have to do with your aching head?

A good deal in the case of migraines, said Dr. Jerry Shannon, biofeedback unit coordinator with the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Center.

Researchers have discovered the people who are subject to migraines also have cold extremities, Dr. Shannon said.

They have found that if such people can be taught to raise the temperature in their hands, the headaches are frequently lessened or even eliminated.

For many people, this can be accomplished through the use of biofeedback.

During the training period, a skin thermometer — which is part of a temperature feedback unit, is attached to the person's finger.

He or she is then instructed to "warm your hands."

Although the biofeedback assistant can make suggestions to help in the warming process, for the most part it is up to the individual to discover a method that works for him, Dr. Shannon said.

The methods vary widely. Dr. Shannon said he heard of one client who was able to warm her hands by imagining she was swimming through warm spaghetti.

The biofeedback machine tells the person — by means of a needle or a tone — when the temperature in his hand begins to rise.

The person then begins to associate the success indicated by the machine with a certain way of feeling. And he is told to remember that feeling.

Through practice, the association becomes stronger, and, ultimately the person should be able to achieve the desired result simply by having a particular thought or feeling.

"It's the immediate feedback" from the machine that helps the person learn, Dr. Shannon said.

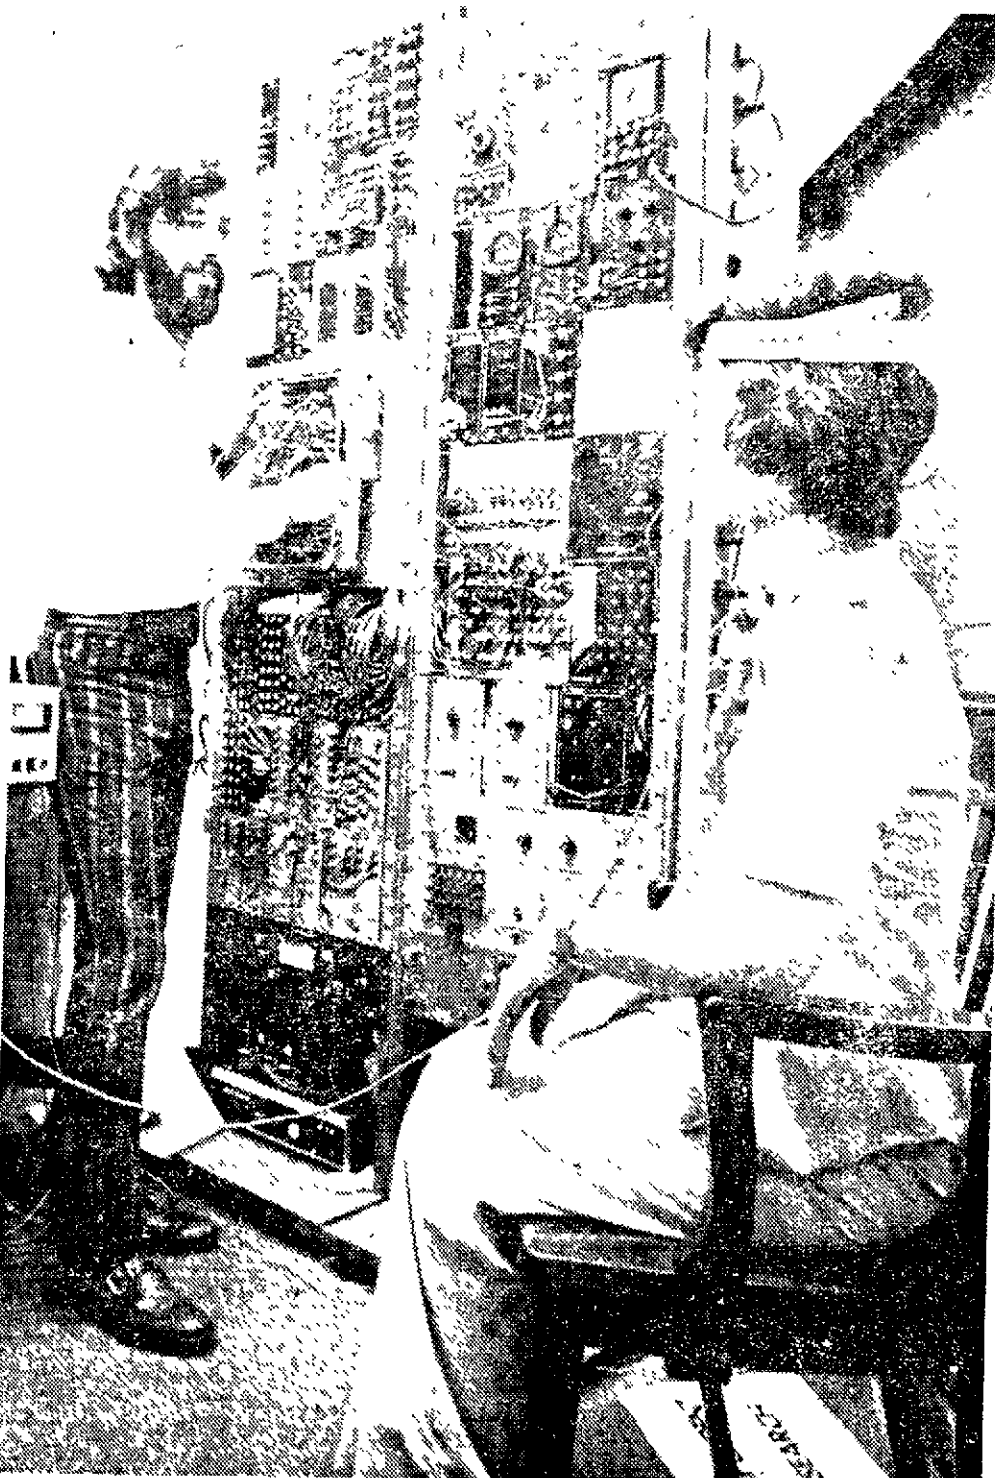

"As the training proceeds . . . we have them do it (raise the temperature) without" using the feedback unit.

Eventually, the person should be able to raise the temperature in his hands whenever he needs to — without using the machine — in order to combat migraines.

Usually, it takes from six to 12 30-minute training sessions — with a little practice between sessions — to attain this goal, Dr. Shannon said.

If the training is successful, the person "learns a skill he can apply throughout his life."

Opening lead — ten of hearts.

Let's say you're in six diamonds and West leads the ten of hearts. How would you play the hand?

If you fail to treat the hand with the respect it deserves, you finish down one — assuming best defense. For example, if you win the heart, draw trumps and play a club to dummy, West following low, you sooner or later lose a spade and a heart and wind up apologizing to partner for having mangled the play.

The best approach, after winning the heart lead with the king, is to cash the Q-J of trumps — deliberately leaving one trump at large — and then play a club. If West takes the ace you have twelve tricks, so let's assume he lets you win the club in dummy with the queen.

Now you play the ace and another heart — hoping to find the suit divided 3-3. But on the ace East produces the jack, and on the five he goes into a brown study trying to decide whether to ruff or not.

Actually, it doesn't matter what he does at this point. Let's suppose he trumps the heart. In that case you play the seven from your hand. This leaves you with the queen of hearts and, with all the adverse trumps now out of circulation, you later discard a spade from dummy on your high heart and make the slam by ruffing a spade in dummy.

If East does not ruff the third round of hearts, you are on equally firm ground. You win with the queen, ruff the fourth round of hearts with the king of trumps, and in that way produce a twelfth trick.

East is powerless against this series of plays. He just sits there and takes his medicine.

Nurses' Rules A Lot Like Teachers'

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I enjoyed your column in which you reprinted "Rules for female Teachers in 1915."

Perhaps you would enjoy reading the rules for female nurses published in 1880. Nurses were told they must:

First: Bring in a scuttle of coal each day.

Second: Report every day at 7 a.m., and leave at 8 p.m., except on the Sabbath "on which day you will be off from 12 noon until 2 p.m."

Third: Graduate nurses in good standing will be given an evening off each week for church services.

Fourth: Any nurse who smokes, uses liquor, goes to the beauty shop or frequents dance halls will give the director a good reason to suspect her worth, her intentions and integrity.

Fifth: The nurse who performs faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of $.05 a day, providing there are no hospital debts outstanding.

A footnote, Abby: To illustrate how much progress had been made in achieving political and economic justice, in 1845 three young women who were employed as copyists in the U.S. Patent Office were threatened with loss of their jobs.

A member of Congress wrote to the secretary of the Interior, Robert McClelland, on behalf of one of the copyists and received the following response:

"There is every disposition on my part to do anything for the lady in question except to retain her or any of the other females who work in the rooms of the Patent Office. I have no object to the employment of females in the performance of such duties as they are competent to discharge, but there is such obvious impropriety in the mixing of sexes within the walls of a public office that I have determined to arrest the practice."

The lady in question lost her job, anyway. But she later distinguished herself in a job considered exclusively male. The lady's name was Clara Barton. Her work on the Civil War battlefields and as founder of the American Red Cross make her one of the most illustrious women in our nation's history.

Very truly yours,
JENNINGS RANDOLPH,
U.S. SENATOR
WEST VIRGINIA

DEAR SENATOR RANDOLPH: Thank you for a dandy contribution to my column. Your interest in equal rights for women is not surprising, since you co-sponsored the Equal Rights for Women Amendment, which I hope the necessary 38 states will ratify.

DEAR ABBY: If you had a choice, would you rather have your kids hooked on drugs or alcohol? Please be honest.
BERKELEY SOPH

DEAR SOPH: If I had a choice, I'd rather have them hooked on nothing! Why assume kids have to be hooked on SOMETHING?

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that no one can answer for me, so I'm asking you. Can you get married if you aren't baptized?

I wasn't baptized, and I have a neighbor who is a good Catholic. She asked me one day if I was baptized, and I told her no. Well, right away she started calling me an animal and all that. Then she told me if I wasn't baptized, I couldn't get married.

Abby, is it true that if you aren't baptized, you can't get married?

NOT BAPTIZED

DEAR NOT: I am informed by the Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod, Minnesota South District Office) that there is no stipulation in its religion that a person must be baptized before he can be married in the Lutheran Church.

The Baptist Association Headquarters informs me that there are no restrictions at all in the Baptist religion regarding a person being baptized in order for him to get married in the Baptist Church.

And Father Kevin of the Catholic Basilica St. Mary said that a person must be baptized (in a Christian faith) in order for the marriage to be considered a Christian marriage. When a Catholic wants to marry someone from a non-Christian religion, a Moslem, for example, the Catholic Church performs a marriage that is considered "quasi-sacramental," i.e., it is not a sacrament, although the Catholic Church recognizes it as a valid marriage. But it is not considered a Christian marriage because one of the partners is not a Christian.

If you fail to treat the hand with the respect it deserves, you finish down one — assuming best defense. For example, if you win the heart, draw trumps and play a club to dummy, West following low, you sooner or later lose a spade and a heart and wind up apologizing to partner for having mangled the play.

The best approach, after winning the heart lead with the king, is to cash the Q-J of trumps — deliberately leaving one trump at large — and then play a club. If West takes the ace you have twelve tricks, so let's assume he lets you win the club in dummy with the queen.

Now you play the ace and another heart — hoping to find the suit divided 3-3. But on the ace East produces the jack, and on the five he goes into a brown study trying to decide whether to ruff or not.

Actually, it doesn't matter what he does at this point. Let's suppose he trumps the heart. In that case you play the seven from your hand. This leaves you with the queen of hearts and, with all the adverse trumps now out of circulation, you later discard a spade from dummy on your high heart and make the slam by ruffing a spade in dummy.

If East does not ruff the third round of hearts, you are on equally firm ground. You win with the queen, ruff the fourth round of hearts with the king of trumps, and in that way produce a twelfth trick.

East is powerless against this series of plays. He just sits there and takes his medicine.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I enjoyed your column in which you reprinted "Rules for female Teachers in 1915."

Perhaps you would enjoy reading the rules for female nurses published in 1880. Nurses were told they must:

First: Bring in a scuttle of coal each day.

Second: Report every day at 7 a.m., and leave at 8 p.m., except on the Sabbath on which day you will be off from 12 noon until 2 p.m.

Third: Graduate nurses in good standing will be given an evening off each week for church services.

Fourth: Any nurse who smokes, uses liquor, goes to the beauty shop or frequents dance halls will give the director a good reason to suspect her worth, her intentions and integrity.

Fifth: The nurse who performs faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of $.05 a day, providing there are no hospital debts outstanding.

A footnote, Abby: To illustrate how much progress had been made in achieving political and economic justice, in 1845 three young women who were employed as copyists in the U.S. Patent Office were threatened with loss of their jobs.

A member of Congress wrote to the secretary of the Interior, Robert McClelland, on behalf of one of the copyists and received the following response:

"There is every disposition on my part to do anything for the lady in question except to retain her or any of the other females who work in the rooms of the Patent Office. I have no objection to the employment of females in the performance of such duties as they are competent to discharge, but there is such obvious impropriety in the mixing of sexes within the walls of a public office that I have determined to arrest the practice."

The lady in question lost her job, anyway. But she later distinguished herself in a job considered exclusively male. The lady's name was Clara Barton. Her work on the Civil War battlefields and as founder of the American Red Cross make her one of the most illustrious women in our nation's history.

Very truly yours,
JENNINGS RANDOLPH,
WEST VIRGINIA

DEAR SENATOR RANDOLPH: Thank you for a dandy contribution to my column. Your interest in equal rights for women is not surprising, since you co-sponsored the Equal Rights for Women Amendment, which I hope the necessary 38 states will ratify.

DEAR ABBY: If you had a choice, would you rather have your kids hooked on drugs or alcohol? Please be honest.

BERKELEY SOPH

DEAR SOPH: If I had a choice, I'd rather have them hooked on nothing! Why assume kids have to be hooked on SOMETHING?

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that no one can answer for me, so I'm asking you. Can you get married if you aren't baptized?

I wasn't baptized, and I have a neighbor who is a good Catholic. She asked me one day if I was baptized, and I told her no. Well, right away she started calling me an animal and all that. Then she told me if I wasn't baptized, I couldn't get married.

Abby, is it true that if you aren't baptized, you can't get married?

NOT BAPTIZED

DEAR NOT: I am informed by the Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod, Minnesota South District Office) that there is no stipulation in its religion that a person must be baptized before he can be married in the Lutheran Church.

The Baptist Association Headquarters informs me that there are no restrictions at all in the Baptist religion regarding a person being baptized in order for him to get married in the Baptist Church.

And Father Kevin of the Catholic Basilica St. Mary said that a person must be baptized (in a Christian faith) in order for the marriage to be considered a Christian marriage. When a Catholic wants to marry someone from a non-Christian religion, a Moslem, for example, the Catholic Church performs a marriage that is considered "quasi-sacramental," i.e., it is not a sacrament, although the Catholic Church recognizes it as a valid marriage. But it is not considered a Christian marriage because one of the partners is not a Christian.

Nurses' Rules A Lot Like Teachers'

Budget Bills Advanced Through Unicam Maze

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

In a march against time, state budget bills Monday struggled through a maze of floor amendments toward final action in the Legislature.

The only major change in a series of appropriations measures considered by senators was the addition of $200,000 for the governor's emergency fund during fiscal 1975-76.

That is the fund which is tapped for natural disaster assistance, such as last winter's blizzards and this spring's tornadoes.

Up To $500,000

The addition, proposed by Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, boosted the fund to $500,000 for the coming fiscal year.

Speaker Jules Burbach of Crofton warned lawmakers that any budget bills which do not receive final legislative action by Friday may not be returned by Gov. J. James Exon in time to attempt to override his item veto reductions.

In order to receive final reading Friday, those bills must be printed in final form and laid on the senators' desks Wednesday.

Still waiting second stage floor action are the major operational budget bill and the major capital construction budget bill of the 1975 session.

LB610, the appropriations measure for education agencies, is awaiting a number of proposed amendments.

Rejected Monday, for the second time, was Sen. John Cavanaugh's bid to add $45,000 for women's athletic programs at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Needing 25 votes, the motion fell on a 20-18 count.

Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan won 31-1 consent for a $12,000 appropriation to the Lincoln campus to add a sorghum research technician to the NU staff.

Mahoney's emergency fund addition, attached to LB604, was approved on a 32-0 vote.

$32,000 A Day

Disaster assistance is costly, he noted. National Guard operations in Omaha in the wake of last week's tornado are costing $32,000 a day, he said.

Mahoney also won 26-7 approval to add $18,000 to the Military Department's budget for the National Guard's recruitment program.

Cavanaugh succeeded in reversing an earlier legislative decision to attach the Technical Assistance Agency to the Department of Economic Development. The merger was untied on a 27-6 vote.

Also added to LB604 was an amendment reversing an earlier decision to earmark $92,000 in the governor's emergency fund for flood protection at Hansen Lake in Sarpy County. The earlier action was unconstitutional, in the opinion of the attorney general.

Projects Added

Two Game and Parks Commission projects were added to another budget bill, LB609.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield gained 25-11 adoption of an amendment providing $30,000 to lay plans for an aquarium, visitor center and nature center at Schramm Recreation Area in Sarpy County.

Sen. Jack Mills of Big Springs won 28-2 approval for a $15,000 appropriation to renovate Champion Mill in Chase County.

The largest proposed addition of the day was rejected.

Cavanaugh proposed an additional appropriation of $647,000 in state aid for community-based mental retardation programs, including $504,000 for the Omaha region.

Appropriations Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings objected, noting that the committee's recommendation of $2.8 million in state aid is "exactly what the Department of Public Institutions asked for."

Cavanaugh's proposal was rejected on a 16-22 count.

Revised Two-Prison Plan Collects Strong 33-5 Vote

A revised two-prison plan to replace the Men's Reformatory won strong 33-5 endorsement in the Legislature Monday and was sent on its way toward final reading.

At least 30 votes will be needed to override an almost certain gubernatorial veto.

Gov. J. James Exon supports a single replacement prison and has vowed to veto the two-facility approach in LB417.

The revised plan, sponsored by the Judiciary Committee, provides for:

—a $5 million facility for 200 to 250 inmates in Lincoln; a 1975-76 initial appropriation of $350,000; construction to begin by July 1, 1976.

—a $4 million facility for 175 to 200 inmates in Douglas County; an initial appropriation of $300,000; construction to begin by Jan. 1, 1977.

Judiciary Chairman Roland

Luedtke of Lincoln, who objected to the original motion to change the bill from a single prison proposal into a two-facility plan, said he supports the new measure "provided we get something done this year."

Sen. Warren Swigart of Omaha opposed the new proposal, arguing that the Legislature should "take the most certain route" toward gaining approval for new prison construction.

Exon's veto could mean that "we may end up doing nothing again this year," he warned.

Prison construction plans have been buried by gubernatorial vetoes in the last two legislative sessions.

Even if LB417 clears a veto this year, Swigart said, it could become involved in "a tangle" over finding a suitable Omaha site for the second facility.

Operational costs for two prisons would be substantially greater than funding for a single institution, he said.

Exon supports a proposal for one 300-inmate facility in Lincoln.

But Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha said the new plan would allow the state to concentrate on community-based programs rather than "a large collecting tank" for prisoners.

Swigart's effort to restore the bill to its original form failed on a 7-26 vote.

LB417 also provides for a $50,000 appropriation to begin planning for new maximum security facilities for 250 inmates, either modernizing or replacing the Penitentiary.

Amendments Thought To Flaw College Bill

By The Associated Press
Four amendments to a bill calling for local control of technical community colleges would apparently make the bill unconstitutional, according to an attorney general's opinion issued Monday.

The opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher, said if all four amendments were included when the bill is passed, "the cumulative effect would result in a situation which would be very difficult, if not impossible, to successfully defend the constitutionality of LB344."

Aurora Sen. Maurice Kremer asked for the opinion after the amendments were added to his bill last week.

Two of the amendments provide special treatment for the Metro Technical Community College in Omaha. One would permit Metro to levy one mill for capital construction through June 30, 1986, while the other schools could only levy the property tax through June 30, 1980. The other would permit Metro to levy up to 2 1/2 mills for operation and capital construction, while the other schools are limited to a total mill levy of 2 mills.

"There may be a legally acceptable reason which would permit such diverse legislation for technical community college areas, but it is not readily evident," the attorney general's opinion said.

Two amendments offered by Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel also conflict with the constitution, the opinion said.

Mosher said an amendment that would require the Legislature to approve capital construction projects rather than the area boards would make the bill unconstitutional.

Another Marvel amendment which would define "tuition income" and distribute state aid in proportion to that income also "casts a cloud on the constitutionality" of the bill.

"Although tuition charges and fees may vary from area to area under this amendment, the practical effect is to force uniform tuition rates," Mosher wrote in the opinion.

The Nebraska Unicameral Monday, acting with only days left in this year's session, approved the introduction of a bill designed to clear away any legal barriers to disaster assistance for individuals.

The bill, LB613, was introduced at the request of the Legislature's executive board and stemmed from the tornadoes that struck Nebraska last week.

Earlier, state officials said current state law prohibits assistance to private individuals. The bill would make it possible for them to receive federal money which is channeled through the state.

According to the executive board, the legislation would allow those in tornado areas to receive up to $5,000. The state would provide 25% of that amount.

Introduction was approved on a 30-0 vote.

Bill To Add License Fee Is Shot Down

The Legislature's Revenue Committee Monday killed a bill that would have charged motorists an additional $2 every four years when license plates are issued.

The committee killed LB69 on a vote of 5-2.

The provision calling for the $2 increase in license fees was offered on the floor of the Legislature by Alliance Sen. Leslie Stull. It was then sent to the Revenue Committee for a hearing.

Stull said the additional fee was needed to help pay for the cost of making license plates.

Originally, the bill would have set deadlines for Appropriations Committee action on the state budget bills. Stull struck all of that language and substituted the $2 increase.

Stull wanted the additional $2 fee so that all of the current $15.50 annual license plate fee could go to build highways.

Voting to kill the bill were Sens. James Dickinson of Omaha, Donald Dworak of Columbus, Dennis Rasmussen of Scotia and Eugene Mahoney and William Skarda, both of Omaha.

Voting against the bill motion were Sens. Cal Carsten of Avoca and Ron Coppe of Kearney.

By The Associated Press
One bill was introduced in the Legislature Monday:

LB163 — Enables state to participate in federal disaster assistance program. Executive Board.

7% Spending Cut Sought By DeCamp

Neligh Sen. John DeCamp announced plans Monday to seek a 7% across-the-board cut in state spending.

Similar attempts last week to cut spending by 3 and 10% failed.

DeCamp said his 7% cut would save $24 million and head off the need for tax increases.

His amendment would take all the existing language out of his liquor price setting bill and substitute the 7% cut.

The bill is LB204. "I think the governor would sign it" if it were passed by the Legislature, DeCamp said. "In a sense it puts the burden on the governor."

DeCamp said that the 30% state income tax increase advocated by Gov. J. James Exon would result in a 60% increase in withholding from pay checks because the year's retroactive tax increase would be squeezed into half a year.

He said the people do not want increased taxes. "Senators who do not recognize this are going to be ex-senators," DeCamp said.

TEACHER . . . Mrs. Commers given award by Rev. Dallas Gibson.

Southeast Teacher Gets $1,000 Grant

A Distinguished Teacher Award made to Mary C. Commers, chairman of the Southeast High School English Department for the past 12 years, included a $1,000 grant, presented by the Lincoln Scottish Rite on Monday.

Mrs. Commers, 57, has been teaching in the Lincoln Public Schools since 1956. At Southeast, she initiated the "minicourses" to allow students to devote a short-term, concentrated look at a special interest. She also organized a paperback book club there.

She is a member of the Lincoln Public Schools English Advisory Committee which meets with parents to evaluate material taught in English classes. She has also served on the Council on Instruction and chaired a secondary committee on grade reporting in 1971-72.

In November 1974, she was recognized as a superior composition teacher by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Mrs. Commers is an Iowa native who earned a bachelor's degree in English at Iowa State Teachers College (now the University of Northern Iowa). She earned her masters degree from the University of Nebraska in 1947.

She has authored such articles as "Classroom Practices in Teaching English" and made three study tours to Europe during her career.

Fire At Satellite Supper Club Most Costly Of 1974 In Lincoln

The blaze that spread swiftly through the Satellite Supper Club on Labor Day, 1974, was the most costly of the year.

The insured loss in the fire was a half-million dollars, the biggest chunk of the highest annual fire loss in Lincoln's history, $1.8 million, according to the fire department's annual report.

The total compares with $1,357,514 in 1973, $653,636 in 1972, $632,631 in 1971 and $763,116 in 1970.

Despite the fire's quick spread through the Satellite Club — fire fighters racing to the scene saw heavy smoke three-quarters of a mile away — no one was injured in the holocaust.

50 People Escaped

More than 50 patrons and employees fled the club at 3223 Cornhusker Hwy. — billed as the largest supper club in the state — seconds after smoke was seen coming from an office shortly after 11 p.m.

Investigators officially ruled out arson as a cause of the fire after months of investigation. The cause of the fire is carried as undetermined.

The second largest fire during the year was the July 8 fire at the Burlington Northern ice house in the railroad's switching yards. It cost $98,000.

Workers were dismantling the building and saving the materials for reuse. Fire inspectors believe the fire probably started in an area where workers had been using cutting torches to remove refrigerant lines.

Water Pressure Low

Firemen called to the scene were hampered by low water pressure. It was later learned that the water distribution system in the area was inadequate and that the fire pump had failed.

The old ice house was a total loss and many boxcars in the area were damaged.

The third largest fire caused $64,680 worth of damage July 30 at the Burlington feed yard, where an elevator was being razed. A railroad employee parked his car in the building and a fire started in the hay under the car.

The two deaths caused by fire in Lincoln during the year were those of brothers, 9 and 10 years old, who died in a fire in the family home.

The fire in December, 1974, started when the mother of the family was attempting to light a camp stove in the living room. The family had run out of propane for cooking.

23 Injured

Twenty-three people, including seven firemen, were injured by fire in 1974, the fire department said.

Public Concert Slated Tuesday At Lincoln High

The Lincoln High orchestra and choir will give a public concert in the school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The orchestra, directed by Orville Voss, will play Giannini's "Symphony No. 2," Lalo's "Concerto" and Liadow's "Kikimora." Tim Mientka will be cello soloist in for the Liadow piece.

Joseph O. Skutchan will direct the choir. Its program includes Pergolesi's "Magnificat," Taylor's "The Waterlilies Ripple and Flow," Luboff's "The Deer Chase" and Cousins' "Oh Clap Your Hands."

Westmoreland will speak at the June 2 evening Chautauqua performance at Scottsbluff, then travel with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln company to McCook for talks June 3 and 4.

The Tent Chautauqua opens May 30 in Chadron with musical groups, dance companies, a musical drama, political speakers, debates and local, state and national dignitaries, staged in an 80-by-160-foot tent.

Diplomacy Proposal Revived

Bloomfield (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's visit to Cuba last week has revived hopes for a plan conceived here a year ago.

McGovern proposed to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro that sports be used to break the ice between the U.S. and Cuba. Castro responded favorably.

Bloomfield had proposed kids'

Hall Of Fame Neihardt Bust Unveiling Set

A bust of the late John G. Neihardt, sculpted by Neihardt's wife, Mona, will become official part of Nebraska's Hall of Fame at the State Capitol on Thursday in a public dedication at 1:15 p.m.

The bust of the former poet laureate of Nebraska has been in the Hall of Fame area adjacent to the Capitol rotunda since it was given to the state in 1961. After Neihardt's election to the Hall of Fame in 1974, the Legislature passed a resolution to make the entry official.

The unveiling of the bust and plaque of the author and poet will be done by his daughters, Mrs. Hilda Neihardt Petri and Mrs. Alice Neihardt Thompson, both of Columbia, Mo.

Nursing Grant For $100 Won By Lincoln Girl

A Lincoln girl, Susan K. Collins, will receive a $100 Practical Nursing Scholarship from the American Legion Auxiliary of Nebraska, one of 60 scholarships valued at $10,200 awarded statewide this year.

The program began during World War II for veteran-connected students.

Local members on the committee judging scholarship applications include Mrs. John Horstman and Mrs. Dennis N. Malone, Legion Auxiliary department secretary-treasurer.

baseball last summer as a do-opener in an attempt to "adopt" a town in Cuba as it had done with Kamen, Germany, following World War II.

Claude Canaday, 78, retired Bloomfield farmer, said last summer that Bloomfield residents believed kids' baseball could lead to resumption of relations with Cuba.

Canaday wrote to congressmen, including McGovern.

A letter to Canaday typed on

White House stationery then informed him: "Our present policy toward Cuba does not make it possible for the government to support this project."

The Bloomfield plan called for adoption of a Cuban town to which might be sent "certain humanitarian items" as a gesture of friendship.

Knox County residents sent more than $12,000 worth of food, clothing and other supplies to Kamen after World War II.

Budget Bills Advanced Through Unicam Maze

In a march against time, state budget bills Monday struggled through a maze of floor amendments toward final action in the Legislature.

Up To $500,000

The addition, proposed by Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, boosted the fund to $500,000 for the coming fiscal year.

Speaker Jules Burbach of Crofton warned lawmakers that any budget bills which do not receive final legislative action by Friday may not be returned by Gov. J. James Exon in time to attempt to override his item veto reductions.

In order to receive final reading Friday, those bills must be printed in final form and laid on the senators' desks Wednesday.

Still waiting second stage floor action are the major operational budget bill and the major capital construction budget bill of the 1975 session.

LB610, the appropriations measure for education agencies, is awaiting a number of proposed amendments.

Rejected Monday, for the second time, was Sen. John Cavanaugh's bid to add $45,000 for women's athletic programs at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Needing 25 votes, the motion fell on a 20-18 count.

Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan won 31-1 consent for a $12,000 appropriation to the Lincoln campus to add a sorghum research technician to the NU staff.

Mahoney's emergency fund addition, attached to LB604, was approved on a 32-0 vote.

$32,000 A Day

Disaster assistance is costly, he noted. National Guard operations in Omaha in the wake of last week's tornado are costing $32,000 a day, he said.

Mahoney also won 26-7 approval to add $18,000 to the Military Department's budget for the National Guard's recruitment program.

Cavanaugh succeeded in reversing an earlier legislative decision to attach the Technical Assistance Agency to the Department of Economic Development. The merger was untied on a 27-6 vote.

Also added to LB604 was an amendment reversing an earlier decision to earmark $92,000 in the governor's emergency fund for flood protection at Hansen Lake in Sarpy County. The earlier action was unconstitutional, in the opinion of the attorney general.

Projects Added

Two Game and Parks Commission projects were added to another budget bill, LB609.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield gained 25-11 adoption of an amendment providing $30,000 to lay plans for an aquarium, visitor center and nature center at Schramm Recreation Area in Sarpy County.

Sen. Jack Mills of Big Springs won 28-2 approval for a $15,000 appropriation to renovate Champion Mill in Chase County.

The largest proposed addition of the day was rejected.

Cavanaugh proposed an additional appropriation of $647,000 in state aid for community-based mental retardation programs, including $504,000 for the Omaha region.

Appropriations Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings objected, noting that the committee's recommendation of $2.8 million in state aid is "exactly what the Department of Public Institutions asked for."

Cavanaugh's proposal was rejected on a 16-22 count.

Southeast Teacher Gets $1,000 Grant

A Distinguished Teacher Award made to Mary C. Commers, chairman of the Southeast High School English Department for the past 12 years, included a $1,000 grant, presented by the Lincoln Scottish Rite on Monday.

Mrs. Commers, 57, has been teaching in the Lincoln Public Schools since 1956. At Southeast, she initiated the "minicourses" to allow students to devote a short-term, concentrated look at a special interest. She also organized a paperback book club there.

She is a member of the Lincoln Public Schools English Advisory Committee which meets with parents to evaluate material taught in English classes. She has also served on the Council on Instruction and chaired a secondary committee on grade reporting in 1971-72.

In November 1974, she was recognized as a superior composition teacher by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Mrs. Commers is an Iowa native who earned a bachelors degree in English at Iowa State Teachers College (now the University of Northern Iowa). She earned her masters degree from the University of Nebraska in 1947.

She has authored such articles as "Classroom Practices in Teaching English" and made three study tours to Europe during her career.

Diplomacy Proposal Revived

Bloomfield (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's visit to Cuba last week has revived hopes for a plan conceived here a year ago.

McGovern proposed to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro that sports be used to break the ice between the U.S. and Cuba. Castro responded favorably.

Bloomfield had proposed kids' baseball last summer as a door-opener in an attempt to "adopt" a town in Cuba as it had done with Kamen, Germany, following World War II.

Claude Canaday, 78, retired Bloomfield farmer, said last summer that Bloomfield residents believed kids' baseball could lead to resumption of relations with Cuba.

Canaday wrote to congressmen, including McGovern.

A letter to Canaday typed on

White House stationery then informed him: "Our present policy toward Cuba does not make it possible for the government to support this project."

The Bloomfield plan called for adoption of a Cuban town to which might be sent "certain humanitarian items" as a gesture of friendship.

Knox County residents sent more than $12,000 worth of food, clothing and other supplies to Kamen after World War II.

Hall Of Fame Neihardt Bust Unveiling Set

A bust of the late John G. Neihardt, sculpted by Neihardt's wife, Mona, will become official part of Nebraska's Hall of Fame at the State Capitol on Thursday in a public dedication at 1:15 p.m.

The bust of the former poet laureate of Nebraska has been in the Hall of Fame area adjacent to the Capitol rotunda since it was given to the state in 1961. After Neihardt's election to the Hall of Fame in 1974, the Legislature passed a resolution to make the entry official.

The unveiling of the bust and plaque of the author and poet will be done by his daughters, Mrs. Hilda Neihardt Petri and Mrs. Alice Neihardt Thompson, both of Columbia, Mo.

Nursing Grant For $100 Won By Lincoln Girl

A Lincoln girl, Susan K. Collins, will receive a $100 Practical Nursing Scholarship from the American Legion Auxiliary of Nebraska, one of 60 scholarships valued at $10,200 awarded statewide this year.

The program began during World War II for veteran-connected students.

Local members on the committee judging scholarship applications include Mrs. John Horstman and Mrs. Dennis N. Malone, Legion Auxiliary department secretary-treasurer.

Revised Two-Prison Plan Collects Strong 33-5 Vote

A revised two-prison plan to replace the Men's Reformatory won strong 33-5 endorsement in the Legislature Monday and was sent on its way toward final reading.

At least 30 votes will be needed to override an almost certain gubernatorial veto.

Gov. J. James Exon supports a single replacement prison and has vowed to veto the two-facility approach in LB417.

The revised plan, sponsored by the Judiciary Committee, provides for:

—a $5 million facility for 200 to 250 inmates in Lincoln; a 1975-76 initial appropriation of $350,000; construction to begin by July 1, 1976.

—a $4 million facility for 175 to 200 inmates in Douglas County; an initial appropriation of $300,000; construction to begin by Jan. 1, 1977.

Judiciary Chairman Roland

Luedtke of Lincoln, who objected to the original motion to change the bill from a single prison proposal into a two-facility plan, said he supports the new measure "provided we get something done this year."

Sen. Warren Swigart of Omaha opposed the new proposal, arguing that the Legislature should "take the most certain route" toward gaining approval for new prison construction.

Exon's veto could mean that "we may end up doing nothing again this year," he warned.

Prison construction plans have been buried by gubernatorial vetoes in the last two legislative sessions.

Even if LB417 clears a veto this year, Swigart said, it could become involved in "a tangle" over finding a suitable Omaha site for the second facility.

Operational costs for two prisons would be substantially greater than funding for a single institution, he said.

Exon supports a proposal for one 300-inmate facility in Lincoln.

But Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha said the new plan would allow the state to concentrate on community-based programs rather than "a large collecting tank" for prisoners.

Swigart's effort to restore the bill to its original form failed on a 7-26 vote.

LB417 also provides for a $50,000 appropriation to begin planning for new maximum security facilities for 250 inmates, either modernizing or replacing the Penitentiary.

Another Marvel amendment which would define "tuition income" and distribute state aid in proportion to that income also "casts a cloud on the constitutionality" of the bill.

Two amendments offered by Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel also conflict with the constitution, the opinion said.

Mosher said an amendment that would require the Legislature to approve capital construction projects rather than the area boards would make the bill unconstitutional.

Another Marvel amendment which would define "tuition income" and distribute state aid in proportion to that income also "casts a cloud on the constitutionality" of the bill.

Although tuition charges and fees may vary from area to area under this amendment, the practical effect is to force uniform tuition rates," Mosher wrote in the opinion.

The Nebraska Unicameral Monday, acting with only days left in this year's session, approved the introduction of a bill designed to clear away any legal barriers to disaster assistance for individuals.

The bill, LB613, was introduced at the request of the Legislature's executive board and stemmed from the tornadoes that struck Nebraska last week.

Earlier, state officials said current state law prohibits assistance to private individuals. The bill would make it possible for them to receive federal money which is channeled through the state.

According to the executive board, the legislation would allow those in tornado areas to receive up to $5,000. The state would provide 25% of that amount.

Introduction was approved on a 30-0 vote.

Amendments Thought To Flaw College Bill

By The Associated Press

Four amendments to a bill calling for local control of technical community colleges would apparently make the bill unconstitutional, according to an attorney general's opinion issued Monday.

The opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher, said if all four amendments were included when the bill is passed, "the cumulative effect would result in a situation which would be very difficult, if not impossible, to successfully defend the constitutionality of LB344."

Aurora Sen. Maurice Kremer asked for the opinion after the amendments were added to his bill last week.

Two of the amendments provide special treatment for the Metro Technical Community College in Omaha. One would permit Metro to levy one mill for capital construction through June 30, 1986, while the other schools could only levy the property tax through June 30, 1980. The other would permit Metro to levy up to 2 1/2 mills for operation and capital construction, while the other schools are limited to a total mill levy of 2 mills.

"There may be a legally acceptable reason which would permit such diverse legislation for technical community college areas, but it is not readily evident," the attorney general's opinion said.

Two amendments offered by Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel also conflict with the constitution, the opinion said.

Mosher said an amendment that would require the Legislature to approve capital construction projects rather than the area boards would make the bill unconstitutional.

Another Marvel amendment which would define "tuition income" and distribute state aid in proportion to that income also "casts a cloud on the constitutionality" of the bill.

Although tuition charges and fees may vary from area to area under this amendment, the practical effect is to force uniform tuition rates," Mosher wrote in the opinion.

Bill To Add License Fee Is Shot Down

The Legislature's Revenue Committee Monday killed a bill that would have charged motorists an additional $2 every four years when license plates are issued.

The committee killed LB69 on a vote of 5-2.

The provision calling for the $2 increase in license fees was offered on the floor of the Legislature by Alliance Sen. Leslie Stull. It was then sent to the Revenue Committee for a hearing.

Stull said the additional fee was needed to help pay for the cost of making license plates.

Originally, the bill would have set deadlines for Appropriations Committee action on the state budget bills. Stull struck all of that language and substituted the $2 increase.

Stull wanted the additional $2 fee so that all of the current $15.50 annual license plate fee could go to build highways.

Voting to kill the bill were Sens. James Dickinson of Omaha, Donald Dworak of Columbus, Dennis Rasmussen of Scotia and Eugene Mahoney and William Skarda, both of Omaha.

Voting against the bill motion were Sens. Cal Carsten of Avoca and Ron Cope of Kearney.

Fire At Satellite Supper Club Most Costly Of 1974 In Lincoln

The blaze that spread swiftly through the Satellite Supper Club on Labor Day, 1974, was the most costly of the year.

The insured loss in the fire was a half-million dollars, the biggest chunk of the highest annual fire loss in Lincoln's history, $1.8 million, according to the fire department's annual report.

The total compares with $1,357,514 in 1973, $653,636 in 1972, $632,631 in 1971 and $763,116 in 1970.

Despite the fire's quick spread through the Satellite Club — fire fighters racing to the scene saw heavy smoke three-quarters of a mile away — no one was injured in the holocaust.

50 People Escaped

More than 50 patrons and employees fled the club at 3223 Cornhusker Hwy. — billed as the largest supper club in the state — seconds after smoke was seen coming from an office shortly after 11 p.m.

Investigators officially ruled out arson as a cause of the fire after months of investigation. The cause of the fire is carried as undetermined.

The second largest fire during the year was the July 8 fire at the Burlington Northern ice house in the railroad's switching yards. It cost $98,000.

Worker's were dismantling the building and saving the materials for reuse. Fire inspectors believe the fire probably started in an area where workers had been using cutting torches to remove refrigerant lines.

Water Pressure Low

Firemen called to the scene were hampered by low water pressure. It was later learned that the water distribution system in the area was inadequate and that the fire pump had failed.

The old ice house was a total loss and many boxcars in the area were damaged.

The third largest fire caused $64,680 worth of damage July 30 at the Burlington feed yard, where an elevator was being razed. A railroad employee parked his car in the building and a fire started in the hay under the car.

The two deaths caused by fire in Lincoln during the year were those of brothers, 9 and 10 years old, who died in a fire in the family home.

The fire in December, 1974, started when the mother of the family was attempting to light a camp stove in the living room. The family had run out of propane for cooking.

23 Injured

Twenty-three people, including seven firemen, were injured by fire in 1974, the fire department said.

Public Concert Slated Tuesday At Lincoln High

The Lincoln High orchestra and choir will give a public concert in the school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The orchestra, directed by Orville Voss, will play Giannini's "Symphony No. 2," Lalo's "Concerto" and Liadov's "Kikimora." Tim Mientka will be cello soloist in for the Liadov piece.

Joseph O. Skutchan will direct the choir. Its program includes Pergolesi's "Magnificat," Taylor's "The Waters Ripple and Flow," Luboff's "The Deer Chase" and Cousins' "Oh Clap Your Hands."

Survivors were listed as half-sister, June Clouse of Lincoln, and a son, Roger, of Newton, Kan.

Baker reportedly died four hours later in a San Bernardino hospital. Funeral services are pending Bobbitt Memorial Chapel in San Bernardino.

Westmoreland will speak at the June 2 evening Chautauqua performance at Scottsbluff, then

The most common cause of the fires was faulty or misused electrical services. That cause was found in 145 cases.

Next was food or grease on a stove overheating or spattering to catch fire. That cause was found in 67 cases.

Smoking was the cause of 58 fires, heating equipment caused 57 fires and children playing with fire was fifth on the list of causes with a total of 38.

3,538 Alarms

Over the 12-month period the fire department responded to 3,538 alarms. Of that total 1,126 of the calls were for resuscitation, first aid or other emergency medical assistance.

The fire department claimed it saved $40,179,293 worth of property from fire in 1974.

This was based on figures showing that the fire department was called to fires in buildings that, together with their contents, had a value of $41,947,460.

Subtracting the fire loss for the year, $1,768,166 leaves the amount of property the fire departments says it saved.

Lincoln Man Dies; Run Over By Two Trains

Colton, Calif. — A man identified as a Lincoln resident was fatally injured here late Saturday afternoon when he was run over by two freight trains.

Deputy Coroner for San Bernardino County, Calif., Jean Dupertuis identified the victim as Raymond L. Baker, 48, of Lincoln.

According to witnesses, Baker was walking on the tracks in the Colton yard when he was struck by a train, which severed both legs. A few moments later, a second freight passing on adjoining tracks cut off his right arm, the coroner's report said.

Colton is about 60 miles east of Los Angeles.

Baker reportedly died four hours later in a San Bernardino hospital. Funeral services are pending Bobbitt Memorial Chapel in San Bernardino.

Survivors were listed as half-sister, June Clouse of Lincoln, and a son, Roger, of Newton, Kan.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

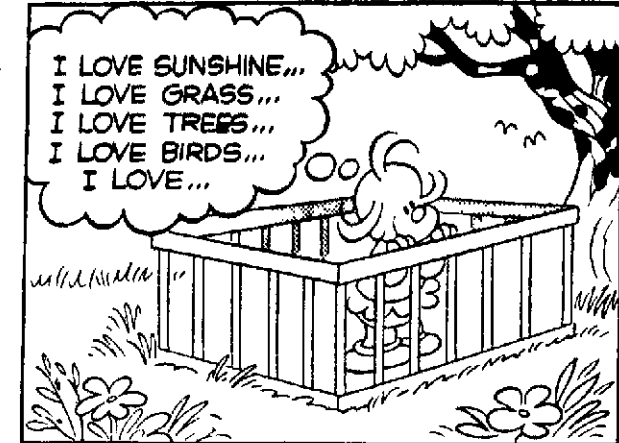

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Tuesday
News: Something occurs behind Gerald Ford's back - the President will be displeased and all will know about it. Sen. Edward Kennedy will speak angry words and his friends will caution him not to permit emotion to dominate logic. Marlon Brando on this day may be especially careful in traffic or near crowds. What will be your day?
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Steer clear of any tendency to disregard safety rules regulations. Be wary around persons who lack first and apologize later. Be ready to investigate information. Take nothing for granted. Relatives are in mood to challenge for sake of argument.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Protect assets. Someone apparently expects something for nothing - at your expense. Know it and be prepared in clichés. Home decorations, improvements are now emphasized. Give special attention to family member. Another Taurus - and a Libra - figure prominently.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friend makes waves, and you may be questioned by one in the sea. Situation as it really is not as it might be. Pisces. Virgo figure in picture. Accent is on direct action which catches some people off guard. You'll comprehend.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Much of what happens is result of recent meeting which divulged confidential material. Key now is acceptance of responsibility. Applies to personal as well as professional relationships. Older individual will share experience if you are receptive.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You finish spread influence, improve distribution. Aries. Libra persons figure prominently. Accent is on friend who argues about money with male partner - and confides in you. Maintain neutral stance or you'll become inextricably involved.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Fresh start gives you proverbial second chance. Make most of it by being creative, independent, inventive. Refuse to settle for substitutes. Insist on quality first-rate goods. Leo. Aquarius are in picture.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Low key approach serves your best purposes. If you share interests, knowledge all is come to your side. If haughty, insistent or cold - you meet more opposition than a healthy Aquarian has plenty to say. L. sten.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Study Libra message for valid hint. Accent is on spending extravagance, love and special relationships with children. Highlight flexibility. Accept social invitation. You're going to meet someone who is smashing.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Modernize concepts. Don't feel boxed in by past by what others think you should do. Lie low in sense that you do plenty of listening, observing. One close to you takes initiative. So be it and let it be so. Your turn comes later.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be ready for change of scenery. Be prepared to deal with bright, sprightly, alert people. Gemini, Sagittarius and Virgo could play significant roles. Accent is on basic procedures, settling of conflicts which involve neighbors, relatives.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) What you cast upon the seas comes back, and you learn the significance of it sooner than originally anticipated. Family, home and security are directly involved as are Libra, Taurus persons.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You get action in areas previously moribund. Money is involved. You are asked to pick and choose. Price is an issue - and so is quality. Another Pisces is to play paramount role. Virgo also is in picture. You get a different kind of appraisal.
IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY You will soon break free of emotional rut. You are used to bucking odds, being at odds with authorities, being somewhat of a rebel. If single, marriage is on horizon. If married, change, travel and an addition to family are indicated. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons play important roles in your life.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
